THOUSANDS HONOR FAMOUS DEBATERS

Great Throngs Attend Semi-Centennial of the Lincoln-Douglas Argument at Ottawa, Illinois.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL STONE

Col. J. Hamilton Lewis Interjects Into Address Scathing Criticism of Appellate Court's Standard Oil Decision.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Ottawa, Ill., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Twenty-five thousand people thronged the streets of Ottawa today to participate in the ceremonies commemorative of the Lincoln-Douglas debate of fifty years ago and the unveiling of a memorial tablet on nearly the exact spot in Washington square where the debate took place.

Nearly 500 "survivors" who listened to the "battle of the giants" were guests of the town and gathered under the trees of the square to discuss the marvelous changes wrought by the intervening years.

Douglas' Son Present.

Prominent among the speakers of the day was Stephen A. Douglas, son of the "little giant," who was sought out eagerly by the men who had heard and known his illustrious father and whose time was occupied mainly in listening to their reminiscences.

Houses, public buildings, and streets were bright with decorations in honor of the event.

Easily the feature of the day, which was marked by a nearly continuous session of speeches and a big parade, was the closing display of fireworks in the park, accompanied by a brilliant exhibition of pyrotechnic oratory by Col. James Hamilton Lewis, who for an hour held the crowd away from the bursting of Roman candles and skyrockets.

Mayor Accepts Tablet.

Others speakers were Mrs. B. F. Lincoln, regent of the Ottawa chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution, who presented the memorial bowlder and tablet; Mayor James F. Farrell, who accepted them; J. McCan Davis, Samuel Alschuler, and Chief Justice Hand of the Supreme court.

The unprecedented gathering swamped the hotel capacity of the town twenty-four hours before the exercises began and scores of private residences were opened to accommodate the overflow, particular care being taken that no grayhaired survivor should have any cause for complaint for lack of accommodations. For these there was more than enough room and everywhere the place of honor. A pavilion erected in the park was reserved for them. Because of the reverence in which they were held no guard was needed at the entrance to keep out the undeserving. The survivors also were the guests at a barbecue held after the morning session in commemoration of the days in which their own rifles had provided the food for the assembled thousands.

Col. Lewis Talks of Judiciary.

Col. Lewis reached Ottawa barely in time for his address, armed with much formidable campaign eloquence to rebut anything that previous speakers might have said. Upon learning that all previous speeches had been restricted to eulogies of the principals in the historic debate, he drew in his horns, and not until near the close of his speech was any reference made to issues of the day. Then in a few minutes the colonel reviewed the history of the judiciary as he saw it and concluded his address with a scathing criticism of the decision of the Appellate court in remanding for trial the Standard Oil case.

After tracing the course of human justice from Joshua through Aeschines, Cæsar, and Alexander Hamilton down to Lincoln and Douglas, Col. Lewis declared Lincoln's policies have been perverted in latter days.

"Lincoln did not contend that slavery was a matter in which the state had or had not the right to consent," he declared. "His attitude was that it was wrong under the law of God. To say that he made slavery a merely political issue is to declare a falsehood which I, the son of a confederate soldier, deny. Nor did Douglas contend that slavery was right. He viewed with alarm a growing sentiment from along the Atlantic coast, where it was inherited from King James and King George, which was opposed to the right of the people to local self-government.

Their Teachings Neglected.

"You people of La Salle county I remind you how far we have strayed from the teachings of these two great men who sought to keep the ship of state in the middle of the channel.

"In sixteen months there has arisen in the east a group of men who call themselves either republicans or democrats, as the case may serve, and who advocate the idea that no property possessed by them is subject to any law of any state. Is this all? I would it were!

"But witness the decision in the Standard Oil case. The case was heard, a verdict drawn, a judgment entered. If the Appellate court had said that the Standard Oil company was not guilty I should say that it is our duty to respect the courts. It did not impugn the decision. It conceded that the defendant was guilty, and then said that the evidence had come in the back door, or that it got in the window instead of the skylight, or that it entered from the roof, and with this form of tweedledee reasoning the institution goes scot free, not even punished for the wrongs which the court itself admits. In the words of the old Scotch proverb the law never fails to punish him who steals the goose from the common, but lets the fellow loose who steals the common from the goose. I beseech you to revive the spirit of Lincoln and of Douglas, their sense of justice, their belief in the rights of rich or poor, black or white."

Lincoln Fame Suddenly Won.

The sentiment expressed among the survivors that few realized at the time of the debate the greatness of Lincoln, was reflected in Mr. Alschuler's speech.

"If Abraham Lincoln had died five years before he did, few in all the land would now know that such a man had ever lived," he said. "It is marvelous beyond expression that in so brief a time a man without the advantage of birth, education, environment, or influence was thrust into the theater of public action, performed his brief part, and made his exit, leaving behind him a fame which for great deeds is unsurpassed and for good was quite unequaled.

"It is readily conceivable how at times

DENEEN INVOLVED IN OPTION FIGHT.

Governor Is Surprised by the Staats Zeitung's Alleged Report of His Attitude.

PLACED IN WRONG LIGHT.

Indorsement as "Personal Liberty" Candidate Evidently Based on Misunderstanding.

Gov. Charles S. Deneen has been involved in the fight which the United Societies are making to secure an indorsement of their policies by the republican state convention Sept. 9.

A platform declaration in their favor is wanted as a preliminary aid for John E. W. Wayman, republican candidate for state's attorney, the societies fearing that an independent republican candidate may be brought out against him.

Furthermore it is wanted as preliminary to efforts which will be made in the legislature to secure the passage of an act submitting the Sunday closing law to a vote of the people and to prevent the incorporation of a county provision in the local option law.

As the result of a conversation between him and W. R. Michaelis in Springfield, the governor is described in the Staats Zeitung as worthy of the suport of all who believe in local self-government.

Indorsement on Wrong Basis.

Mr. Deneen, while admitting that he had talked with Mr. Michaelis and another member of the United Societies, said the "indorsement" was not merited by any words of his.

The talk which produced the complimentary article was concerned partly with a discussion of a request from the United Societies that a personal liberty plank be incorporated in the republican state platform. Probable local option and personal liberty legislation which might be attempted in the forty-sixth general assembly was mentioned also.

With reference to the adoption of a personal liberty plank the governor told his callers that nothing would be done until both sides of the question had been heard and that when the party managers and the delegates had considered the issue they would speak for the party. He said no one man, whether in office or not, could decide the matter.

As Construed by Mr. Michaelis.

After the talk the Staats Zeitung published an article of which the following is a translation:

"In a conversation between Gov. Deneen and the publisher of this paper the executive was asked the direct question:

"'Do you favor the election of a man as speaker of the house whose views are contrary to those of the liberal minded people of the state as expressed in our paper?'

"Gov. Deneen must be given the credit of answering this question without any hesitation with an emphatic 'No.'

"During the conversation the governor referred to his actions while state's attorney which prove:

"First—That his views were identical with those of our liberal minded citizens.

"Second—That he was not in favor of sumptuary legislation.

"Third—That ever municipality, according to his view, should govern its internal affairs according to the wishes and customs of its inhabitants.

"To these views the governor still holds today. Mr. Deneen expressed his surprise that rumors to the contrary should be in circulation. The policies which governed him in the past will continue to govern him in the future.

"This manly open statement, the publication of which is expressly authorized, will make many new friends for the governor and unquestionably will insure his reëlection."

Repudiated by the Governor.

Gov. Deneen denied not only that he had authorized any statement but also that he had given any excuse for the deductions regarding sumptuary legislation and local self-government. He said that in the talk he had with the representatives of the paper and the United Societies they had been interested chiefly in presenting arguments for the adoption of a personal liberty plank and for the submission of a Sunday closing law to a referendum vote of the people. The possible elimination of the township provision from the local option law was presented by his callers as was the possible incorporation of a county provision in the statute.

Mr. Michaelis in Chicago said his article would not have endeavored to appear as authorized unless that had been his understanding.

Activity by United Societies.

The United Societies, in preparation for another season of legislative activities, are making efforts to secure declarations from both the republican and democratic state conventions favoring their cause. The local option advocates, who also expect a hard legislative year, are said to be content that the platforms ignore the liquor issue and will consider that they have won if no indorsement be given the United Societies.

Both party platforms adopted in the state conventions in the spring carried personal liberty planks. Downstate republicans are opposed to a repetition of such a resolution in the platform to be adopted for the fall election.

TRAGEDY FEARED BY BATHERS.

Detective on Shore Points Revolver at Man in Water and Compels Him to Come Out and Be Arrested.

Bathers at the Wilson avenue bathing beach made a mad rush to escape yesterday afternoon when a man at the water's edge pointed a revolver at one of the bathers and commanded him to swim ashore. The Hains-Annis tragedy in New York flashed into the minds of the bathers.

When the bather waded ashore in response to the command, the man with the weapon, who was Detective William Zable of the Town Hall station, said:

"I arrest you in the name of the law; come with me."

The others breathed sighs of relief.

The prisoner, William S. Driver, is charged with passing two bogus drafts, each for $25, on Edward L. Rapp, a butcher, 1410 Wilton avenue.

PATIENTS SCARED BY FIRE.

Smoke Fills Streets and Explosion Shakes Mercy Hospital.

GIRLS IN RESCUERS' ROLE.

Enter Flat Next to Burning Storage Plant and Save Children.

Fire last night swept through the five story building of the W. C. Griswold Storage and Transfer company, 2620-2622 South Park avenue, causing a brief scare in the Mercy hospital, a block distant, and filling the streets of the neighborhood with heavy smoke that for hours hung over the fighting firemen. The loss is estimated at about $75,000.

While the fire was at its height scores of men employed in the plant of the F. E. Coyne Baking company, 2616-2618 South Park avenue, fled from their places and sought safety in the streets.

Occupants of the flat buildings immediately to the north of the burning structure were driven from their homes, two little children being rescued by Anna L. Kelly and Barbara Keff of 2618 South Park avenue.

The young women were seen leaving the stairway, each carrying a child, and were cheered loudly by the crowds that thronged the sidewalk. The rescued children are Edward Morawez, 8 years old, and his sister, Helen, 3 years old.

Mother's Cries Attract Girls.

The children were asleep at the time and had been left for a minute by their mother, who ran to the F. E. Coyne baking establishment, where her husband is employed. When she again returned to the entrance of her home the stairway was filled with smoke, and her cries for assistance brought the two young women to the scene. Without waiting to consider the danger, the two started up the smoke filled hallway, emerging a few minutes later with the children.

Others who were forced to leave their homes were E. J. Seibert, H. A. Haines, Hartung, George Oberand, James Keff, and Richard Morawez.

Knocked Down by Explosion.

The fire was discovered shortly before 7 o'clock and when Capt. Owen White of engine company No. 9 arrived dense volumes of smoke were issuing from the upper windows. Leading a number of men into the building the firemen were entrapped in the dense smoke and were thrown to the floor by an explosion that was heard for blocks, being rescued by men in charge of Marshal T. O'Connor.

It was not until after 10 o'clock that the flames got beyond control of the fighting firemen for a time and leaped high into the air, dispelling the heavy pall of smoke that until then had filled the streets. With a crash that echoed through the corridors of the Mercy hospital, causing some uneasiness among the many patients, the floors of the building collapsed.

Windows in the hospital were closed and nurses were ordered to visit the rooms, assuring the patients that there was no danger. Scores of occupants of the Beveridge apartment building, Calumet avenue and Twenty-sixth street, fearing that the flames would spread, hurried to the street.

Crowd Watches Flag Burn.

For four hours a huge American flag at the top of a pole tossed and swayed in the wind, being hidden by the smoke, but when the flames broke out a cheer went up from the crowd as it slowly burned. Capt. White asserted that had the flag been seen earlier in the fight an attempt would have been made to save it.

"I don't know how the fire started," said Mr. Griswold, "for I had left the building only a few minutes before. Crossed electric wires may have been responsible. The damage will reach about $75,000. Many of those owning storage in the place had no insurance and the loss will be heavy for them."

Parrot Gives Alarm of Fire.

The cries of a parrot gave the alarm of fire and possibly saved the lives of twenty-one horses in a barn and storage house owned by the Peter De Witt & Sons Cooperage company at 6134-6136 Sangamon street. The parrot is the property of Lena De Witt and occupied a room in the De Witt home, 6138 Sangamon street, overlooking the storage house. Its cries of "Fire!" attracted neighbors and an alarm was turned in. The storage house and barn, a large three story frame structure, with its contents of empty barrels, was destroyed. The loss is $10,000.

THIRTY-TWO ARTILLERYMEN ASSAULT GIRL IN WYOMING.

Soldiers Beat Young Woman's Escort Senseless and Leave Her Half Dead —26 Suspects Chained Together.

Laramie, Wyo., Aug. 21.—While every effort has been made by the authorities at Camp Emmett Crawford, the military maneuver ground, to keep the fact secret, it is known that thirty-two members of an artillery battery assaulted a young woman last Sunday.

A noncommissioned officer of the Twenty-first regiment was walking with the girl when they were attacked by the crowd of soldiers. The officer was beaten into insensibility with a gun and the young woman dragged to an isolated spot, where the crime was committed. After lying half dead for hours she revived and crawled to a house some distance away and told her story.

Twenty-six men alleged to have been implicated are under arrest and chained together in the camp prison. They are under constant guard to prevent lynching. Six of the alleged assailants escaped, but three were apprehended at Rawlins today.

KITE FLYER FALLS FROM ROOF.

Enthusiastic Boy While Experimenting Loses Balance and Tumbles Off the Top of Flat Building.

While flying a kite from the top of a three story flat building at Pine avenue and Washington boulevard, Austin, Frank Bissell fell into the court beneath yesterday, sustaining two broken ribs, one of which entered his right lung and may prove fatal, according to Dr. G. J. Fleming, who was summoned.

Young Bissell, with Gordon Vieter, 14 years old, 5302 Washington boulevard, climbed to the top of the building to try the kite, which the boys had been working on all day. The kite did not sail well, and while the lads were throwing it into the air Bissell lost his balance and fell over the edge of the three story building.

The boy, who is 13 years old, is the son of William Bissell, 844 Pine avenue.

HOG ARRESTED BY THE POLICE.

Porker Knocks Down a Woman and Two Patrolmen and Stops a Car Before It Is Captured.

A hog chased by policemen caused considerable excitement last night in North avenue. A street car was stopped and two policemen and a woman were knocked down before the hog was captured at North avenue and Leavitt street.

With considerable coaxing the hog was induced to mount the steps of a patrol wagon, in which it was taken to the North avenue police station.

The hog started trouble at Hoyne and North avenues, where it ran against a woman and knocked her down. Policemen Boninski and Hansen ran to her assistance and they, too, were knocked down by the excited porker.

BALKS ON BUYING A GRAVE

J. F. Archbold Orders Auto Victim's Burial; Refuses to Pay.

RUNS DOWN AND KILLS GIRL.

$10,000 Damage Suit Planned Against Oil Trust Magnate's Son.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—After spending three days at the bedside of 10 year old Gilman de Mello, who had been run down and fatally injured by his auto, in which he was riding at the time, John D. Archbold Jr., son of the Standard Oil man, refuses to pay the undertaker's bill incurred at his order, says Joseph S. Williams, who prepared the body for burial.

Williams has retained lawyers to arrange a settlement. The bill for the burial amounts to $228. Of this $58 is for a burial lot, and it is that item to which Mr. Archbold particularly objects. He is willing to pay the rest under one condition, his lawyers say, but he will not pay for the cemetery lot.

Wants Release from Liability.

The one condition is that the parents of the child sign an agreement releasing him from all liability for the death of the girl. The parents at the time of his refusal had not even considered suing him for damages.

The sad part of the whole business is that the parents are poor and unable to pay for the burial lot. Should Archbold persist in his refusal the body will have to be exhumed and buried in the paupers' field.

The news of Archbold's action has aroused much indignation in this place. Charles Cummings of Fall River, a prominent lawyer, is one of half a dozen attorneys who have volunteered to act for the girl's parents without fee.

$10,000 Suit to Be Brought.

Cummings took steps today toward bringing a $10,000 damage suit against Archbold, and it will be filed as soon as the latter can be located and the papers served on him.

Gilmina died July 27 in St. Luke's hospital. The accident happened the Thursday before, when Archbold and his wife were hurrying to get to New York. The girl was playing in the road when the machine crashed into her.

Hires Special Nurses for Girl.

Archbold put her in the machine and hurried her to the hospital, got the best room for her, hired special nurses, and spent the next three days almost constantly at her bedside, ordering the doctors to do everything they could to save her. He was with her when she died, and the physicians say he gave orders that she be buried at his expense.

GIVES AWAY DISABLED CAR.

Autoist, Disgusted with Attempts to Make Repairs, Leaves Machine for Bystander.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—"Does anybody want this auto?" The query propounded in obvious disgust by a disheveled individual who crawled from beneath a refractory touring car, brought forth a big laugh from a crowd of spectators in Maple street last evening.

Bolder than the rest, John Giard said in a semi-apologetic tone, "I'll take it."

"Well, it's yours," was the response of the owner, who jammed his cap tightly on his head and walked briskly away, taking with him the number plate to conceal his identity.

NEW BATTLESHIPS USELESS TO NAVY?

Conferences of President and Officers Disclose Grave Faults in Vessels Now Being Built.

TWO ARE PAST REPAIR.

Delay of at Least Six Months Is Needed to Remedy Errors in Plans for the Others.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Though the discussions of the results of the naval conference here have been carried on with the greatest secrecy, it was learned today on high authority that the plans for the battleships of the Delaware type, of which two are 50 per cent completed and two to be begun in September, are radically unsatisfactory.

So poor has the work of the construction board been that it has been found inexpedient to carry out the original plans as presented by the board for the construction of the Florida and Utah, and new plans will be submitted to President Roosevelt for approval. The conferences have settled the fact that radical changes must be made in the plans of our naval constructors.

No radical changes can be made at this late day in the building of the Delaware and the North Dakota, as these vessels are almost half finished. Still the findings of the conference show that great defects exist in these ships, which are supposed to embody the greatest skill and knowledge of shipbuilding which this country could produce. That these ships are so flagrantly unfit for service after all the defects disclosed in the past have been remedied is considered a most severe reflection on the present system of construction.

Second Plan Is Perfect.

The first of the two plans for the changes in the new ships has such modifications of the original plan, as drawn up by the board, that if the changes were accepted by the president the work would be begun on the new ships without delay. If the second plan, however, is accepted by President Roosevelt a delay of six months will be necessary, so radical are the changes under it.

The second plan pictures a model ship in which not even the most radical can find a fault—a battleship which will be the combination of the best ideas brought out in the discussion here in the last month. It will be a battleship of an entirely new type.

Commander A. L. Key of the battleship commission and other officers of the line who have been severely criticising the present battleships, designed by the board of construction, are responsible for this victory of the "radicals."

When the conference concerning the future naval policy of the United States was undertaken a month ago it was thought the session would be short and that its findings would affect only the battleships not yet planned.

Key Forces the Changes.

It was accepted by many as certain that the plans of the newest battleships, the Florida and Utah, would be passed upon without friction and sent to the president without delay. But the "radicals," when the plans for the ships were brought up for discussion, opened such a fire of criticism against them that action of a sensational character has been taken. Though Commander Key realized that two-thirds of those officers present at the conference wished the designs accepted, he forced the members to accept his views.

Naval circles have been filled with rumors of the great fight going on in the seemingly quiet conference rooms, and today those rumors were verified by men whose verity cannot be disputed. The story of the fight Commander Key and his backers have been leading against the construction bureau became known, though no definite idea of the views about an ideal battleship could be learned. Only the minor points of the defects in the battleships recently designed were revealed.

Some of Objections Made.

The radicals objected to the position of the torpedo guns as too low and sure to make the guns useless under many conditions.

Objections were made against the upper armor protecting the five inch guns and smokestacks, and the objections were accepted. It was shown the armor would not withstand the fire of the ship's own guns and that foreign armor was superior.

Objection in turn was made against the strength of the guns, which were shown to be much weaker than the corresponding guns in foreign ships. It was proved that the fire control masts were in such a position that they would be practically useless under certain circumstances. The fire control masts as originally designed would be in the direct path of smoke pouring from the ship's stacks. In an attack, if the wind should shift so as to blow the smoke toward the masts, the result would be disastrous.

Not only will the new plans protect the fighting masts more adequately, but probably they will be constructed on either side of the smokestacks. Then, should the smoke make one mast useless, the other would be clear.

JOY KILLS GEN. MILES' SISTER.

Aged Woman, Suffering from Heart Disease, Succumbs After Visit of Brother.

Leominster, Mass., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Overcome by the excitement and joy of meeting her brother, Gen. Nelson A. Miles, whom she had not seen for a number of years, Mrs. Mary Jane Merriam, 77 years of age, died early this morning of heart disease at her home on Winter street. She had been suffering from the disease for about five weeks and last night received a visit from her brothers, Gen. Miles and Daniel C. Miles of Westminster.

PEOPLE RULE NOW, TAFT TELLS BRYAN

Republican Candidate Says Voice of the Voter Has Been Answered.

RIVALS GIVEN HARD RAPS

Record of Democratic Party Reviewed and Its Errors Pointed Out.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—William H. Taft today celebrated "Virginia day" by telling several hundred of the state's republicans of the sins of the democratic party and the falsity of the claims and charges it has made. He explained what has been done by the republican party and told the visitors that there was no truth in the declaration that Roosevelt is using democratic ideas as his own.

The query of William J. Bryan, "shall the people rule?" was answered by the statement that "the people do rule through the republican party."

In this connection Mr. Taft referred to the first election of Mr. McKinley "as one of the most intelligent and effective expressions of popular will ever manifested to the world, and the maintenance of the gold standard and a protective tariff by his administration was a correct interpretation of the people's will. This was shown to be so," he continued, "by even a greater majority for the party in 1900 and a still greater majority in 1904 when Roosevelt was elected."

Summary of Speech.

Mr. Taft reviewed the record of the democratic party from the time of the last democratic administration, in 1893.

"During this period," he said, "it repealed the McKinley tariff bill, passed in 1890, and enacted the Gorman-Wilson tariff bill of 1893. With the prospect of a democratic tariff for revenue and under the operation of the Gorman-Wilson tariff bill subsequently passed a period of industrial depression set in which continued through the next presidential campaign of 1896. The remedy for this depression, as proposed by the democratic party under its present leadership, was a change from the gold standard of currency and value, which was the measure of all pecuniary obligations, to a silver standard—a change which would have scaled the debts of all by quite 50 per cent and would have produced a financial crash in which the business disaster would only have been exceeded by the injury to our national financial honor."

As soon as the republican party came into power in 1897, he said, it repealed the Gorman-Wilson tariff bill and enacted the present Dingley tariff bill, and with the assurance of an honest monetary standard confidence was restored and a period of business expansion and prosperity followed to an extent never before known in the history of the world.

Growth of Corporate Sins.

Wages never were higher, he declared, and the average standard of living of wage earners, farmers, and business men was advanced beyond precedent. Attending this great prosperity, abuses developed, growing out of the "dishonesty of some prominent men intrusted with the management of the business of others and of a greed of financial power on the part of some, stimulated by the enormous successes incident to the combination of capital in large corporations."

These abuses, he said, chiefly took the form of the violation of the anti-trust law and the granting of rebates and discriminations by railways to large shippers. When the extent of these evils was brought home to the people, he said, President Roosevelt invoked the attention of congress and the public to them and proceeded to enforce the laws then on the statute books.

"It was not," he said, "until Mr. Roosevelt, realizing to the full the danger to which our society was exposed unless the offending corporations, railway and industrial, were made to obey and fear the law, took vigorous action in the recommendation of new legislation and in the enforcement of the old, that anything effective was done to check the growing evil."

"What has been the result of this legislation and executive action?" he asked. "Secret rebates and unlawful discriminations have been actually abolished. No monopoly of business in any line is now maintained by a secret reduction of freight rates to it which is denied to competitors."

Declares the People Rule.

He declared that "the people have ruled through the republican party. I have no hesitation in saying that not since the beginning of the government has any other national administration done so much for the cause of labor by the enactment of remedial legislation as Theodore Roosevelt and the republican congresses elected and sitting during his terms of office."

It is true, he said, that additional legislation is needed to perfect the machinery for enforcing the principles laid down by Mr. Roosevelt and declared in the remedial statutes already passed.

Mr. Taft declared the republican party was not responsible for the abuses he had described, and that "the evils were due to the fallibility of human nature and the willingness of ambitious and unscrupulous men to turn an instrumentality necessary in human progress to a vicious purpose." Of all possible agencies for reform, he said, the democratic party, under its present leadership, is the one least entitled to any credit.

Democrats Suggest No Cure.

"While the resolutions in the democratic platform in 1896, 1900, and 1904 denounced the abuses of corporate wealth," he said, "they never proposed feasible plans or made the prominent and chief issue of any campaign the carrying out of what have now become known and properly known as the Roosevelt policies. On the contrary, in 1896 the party made the chief issue a disastrous financial experiment which would have retarded the progress of this country a quarter of a century and sullied its financial honor. In 1900 the party reiterated its adherence to this suicidal policy of repudiation of national and private debts and obligations and then advanced as the paramount issue of the campaign not the trusts, not corporate wealth and abuses, but rather the repudiation of all our international responsibilities growing out of the Spanish war and the destruction of what they call the growing cancer of imperialism in the policy of this country.

"Again in 1904, instead of selecting the abuses and evil for which they now seek to make the republican party responsible as the main issue of the campaign, the burden of their contentions was the usurpation of the powers of the executive office by President Roosevelt, including the settlement of the anthracite coal strike and the violation of the federal constitutional limitations by the republican party, while the extent of the trust evil was minimized by the statement of the then party candidate that the common law furnished sufficient remedy to suppress it and by the general party declaration that nothing but safe and sane policies were to be adopted under the administration which should follow its success in the election."

Defends House Procedure.

Speaking of the house of representatives as having been charged with having a procedure allowing the speaker to suppress the popular will, he said that, while he would not discuss the wisdom of that procedure, it was sufficient to say that the senate has no rule for the previous question and in that body the ability of the minority to defeat or delay legislation favored by the majority has been made the subject of criticism on the ground that it defeated the will of the people. A republican congress, he said, could be depended upon to carry out the principles involved in this campaign.

Every one having the interest of the country at heart as an abstract proposition, he said, would rejoice to have the "solid south" as a democratic asset in every national campaign broken up. The republican party in its national legislation, he said, had favored the building of the Panama canal, the reclamation of swamp lands, the conservation of forests, and water resources, and in taking many other steps that are for the development of the south.

HARD PROBLEMS FOR BRYAN

Eastern Campaign of Nebraskan Presents Difficulties.

CAREFUL TALK IS REQUIRED.

Gov. Johnson Drops In at National Headquarters of His Party.

There was a gathering of democrats at national headquarters yesterday preparatory to the coming of William Jennings Bryan this morning. There were Vice Presidential Candidate Kern and Senator Culberson of Texas, who is chairman of the advisory committee, and a number of lesser lights. And Gov. Johnson of Minnesota dropped in unheralded and was received enthusiastically.

Two things are expected to get the major attention of Mr. Bryan and his advisers today. One, of course, is the money question. How to raise cash for the campaign is a serious matter these days at both party headquarters. The other is the mapping out of the campaign in the east. It was for this that Senator Culberson, as head of the advisory committee, was summoned by Chairman Mack to come to Chicago.

The course of action to be followed in the west, middle west, and south is fairly well mapped out in the minds of the democratic managers, but what should be done in New England and New York—especially New York—is as yet an unsolved problem.

Difficult Task for Bryan.

It is a difficult situation to deal with. It is recognized that Mr. Bryan's pet idea of guaranteed bank deposits is all right in Oklahoma, but would hardly do in Boston and New York, and his tariff ideas, while not particularly objectionable in Massachusetts, might meet with opposition in New York and New Jersey. The suggestion made at headquarters which received the most encouragement was that Mr. Bryan make some speeches in the east devoted largely to general principles, such as "Let the people rule" and similar utterances, to which nobody can object, and be strong on the statement that capital, honestly invested, will be just as safe with him as president as with Mr. Taft.

Gov. Johnson's arrival was not looked for. He was on his way through Chicago and dropped in. Chairman Mack received him like a man and a brother and welcomed him "to our city." The chairman regards the renomination of the governor in Minnesota as a distinct help in the western campaign.

Statement by Gov. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson himself gave out this statement:

"My nomination for governor by the democratic state convention was against my expressed wish, but under the circumstances I cannot refuse to yield to the will of the representatives of my party in convention assembled. I had hoped and fully expected the nomination would go to another. I am deeply appreciative of the honor done me and will make the contest for election as governor for another term to the best of my ability.

"I am off on a Chautauqua lecture tour and stopped over here to pay my respects to Chairman Mack and also to assure him of my hearty support of the national ticket. I had hoped to give a month of my time to the national committee in states other than Minnesota. My nomination for governor makes this impossible, but I expect to make a few speeches in Indiana, New York, and Illinois, or in such states as Chairman Mack may designate. I feel that I owe it to the Minnesota democrats to give them most of my time."

Aid for Campaign Speakers.

Senator Culberson put the finishing touches on the revision of the democratic handbook for the use of campaign speakers, which will be submitted to Mr. Bryan today or tomorrow before it is sent to the printers. The authoritative authors of the work are Chairman Josephus Daniels of the publicity committee, John E. Lamb of Indiana and R. L. Metcalf. Congressman Lloyd of Missouri, chairman of the congressional committee, also had a hand in the work.

The first real money to be added to the Bryan campaign fund from any of the southern states arrived in Chicago in company with Col. Robert Ewing, editor of the New Orleans State. Col. Ewing brought with him $3,250, which was turned over to the local Bryan headquarters. This sum had been collected, he said, in eight days.

DRYS SEEK SOUTHERN VOTES.

Prohibitionists Complete Arrangements for Three Big Meetings Below Mason and Dixon's Line.

Arrangements have been completed by the prohibition national committee for three of the largest meetings to be held in their campaign in the south. Prohibitionists are counting on that section of the country to bring them a big harvest of votes.

Aaron S. Watkins, prohibition candidate for vice president, will speak on the evening of Sept. 13 in the Baptist tabernacle at Atlanta, Ga., and he will be the principal speaker for Prohibition day at the Kentucky state fair at Louisville on Sept. 15.

Eugene W. Chafin, candidate for the presidency, will speak on Prohibition day, Oct. 10, at the Georgia state fair on the fair grounds near Atlanta. As it was the Atlanta rioting which caused Georgia to go prohibition, it is expected interest in Mr. Chafin's address will be great, owing to his saving a negro from the mob in the riots at Springfield, Ill. Mr. Chafin will speak this afternoon and evening at Fond du Lac, Wis., and tomorrow at Eau Claire, Wis. He spoke last night at La Porte, Ind.

PICKING OUT G. O. P. ORATORS.

"Sunny Jim" Will Follow Bryan in Campaign—Utica Nominee to Speak First in Illinois.

New York, Aug. 21.—To select from the republican membership in congress the most effective speakers for use early in the national campaign a conference was held tonight between Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the republican national committee, and James S. Sherman, the republican nominee for vice president.

The speaking tour Mr. Sherman will undertake, beginning the last week in September, probably will be more extensive than has been expected. It is likely he will continue to deliver addresses, most of them in the central and western states, until election day.

It is planned to have him follow Mr. Bryan at several meetings and reply to the democratic candidate's discussion of national issues. Mr. Sherman has promised to make his first speech in Representative McKinley's district in Illinois.

TAFT IS A 3 TO 1 FAVORITE.

Wall Street Man Also Wagers $1,000 Even That Bryan's Popular Vote Will Decrease.

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Two bets of 3 to 1 that Taft will be elected president were made in Wall street today, one of them being $6,000 to $2,000 and in another case $3,000 to $1,000. Another bet of $1,000 to $1,000 was made that Bryan will get fewer popular votes in the coming election than he did the last time he ran. On Thursday, before the news was received that the administration would insist on the renomination of Gov. Hughes, a bet of $2,500 to $2,000 was made that the republicans would carry New York state for the national ticket.

'SHALL PEOPLE RULE?' STOLEN?

Pennsylvanian Says Father Wrote Paper on Subject and Showed It to Bryan During Visit.

York, Pa., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—At a meeting of the York Democratic club tonight it was stated by Jere Black, one of the leaders of the Kerr faction, that his father, ex-Lieut. Gov. Chauncey Black, was the author of W. J. Bryan's "Shall the people rule?" paper. Mr. Black wrote a paper on that subject two years ago and showed it to Mr. Bryan, who was visiting him, it was said.

BRYAN QUESTIONS G. O. P. TAX FAITH

Protective Tariff and Republican Revision Objects of Broadsides in Iowa.

HIS WAY THE ONLY WAY.

Chicago Plank, He Says, Contemplates Ultimate Betrayal of the People.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—William J. Bryan made a bid for votes tonight by attacking the protective tariff system and the sincerity of the republican leaders in their promise to revise the existing tax laws of the government.

Mr. Bryan interpreted the platform of the republicans on this point as apologetic and saw in it present evasion and, ultimately, a betrayal of the people into the hands of special interests.

The speaker declared the democratic plan for the solution of the taxation problem contemplates a gradual revision, and denied that it is in any way destructive.

Mr. Bryan spoke twice. Before an audience in the baseball park, which crowded the 10,000 mark, he talked for an hour and then made another address to nearly 4,000 people in the auditorium. Both crowds were enthusiastic and cheered him frequently.

"The democratic party has for years pointed out that the tariff schedules are excessively high and ought to be reduced," said Mr. Bryan in his outdoor speech, "but the republicans have, until recently, refused to admit that there was any necessity for reduction. They now confess that the need for revision is so great as to justify the party in declaring 'unequivocally for a revision of the tariff,' and so urgent that the work is to be undertaken at 'a special session of congress immediately following the inauguration of the next president.' The use of the word 'unequivocally' indicates that those who wrote the platform recognize they are under suspicion. They want to distinguish this promise from the unkept promises of the past by adding as emphatic an adjective as could be found in the dictionary.

Sees Pathos in G. O. P. Action.

"The use of the words 'immediately after the inauguration' is evidence that the republican leaders are conscious that the patience of the public has been strained to the point of breaking, and it is almost pathetic to note the solicitude which they now feel about doing a thing which, but for willful neglect, might have been done at any time during the last ten years.

"Pressure has been brought to bear upon the protected interests every four years—and to a less extent in the congressional campaigns between presidential elections—to compel contributions to the campaign fund in return for former favors and in anticipation of favors yet to come. It is difficult to overestimate the corrupting influence introduced into the political life of the nation by this partnership between the government and the favored industries. The literature circulated in support of a protective tariff has studiously cultivated the idea that suffrage should be employed to secure pecuniary returns, and the appeal made by republican leaders has come to be more and more a selfish one. Every man engaged in a protected industry has been approached with the proposition that it is dollars in his pocket to maintain the system, while those who could not possibly trace any tangible benefits to themselves have been beguiled with the assurance that it was all a matter of public spirit, and that they ought to support the system out of patriotic love of country.

Doubts Sincerity of "Enemy."

"The recent republican platform is a bugle call to every beneficiary of special privilege to enlist again under the republican banner, and when the election is over and the republican committee publishes the list of contributors—too late to make the information valuable—it will be found that the republican party has again so obligated itself to the protected interests as to be unable to make a revision in the interests of the consumers.

"With a president who, toward the close of his term, admitted the necessity for tariff revision, with a two-thirds majority in the senate and nearly sixty majority in the house, the republican party has refused to permit any revision whatever. Mr. Williams, the leader of the minority in the house, introduced a bill providing for a reduction of the tariff to 100 per cent, wherever it is now more than 100 per cent. It would look like the republican party might have taken this step toward tariff revision, had it been deeply in earnest; but no, the bill was not even reported from the committee.

Sees No Hope in Republicans.

"No republican leader denies that reductions ought to be made, but says the tariff ought to be reformed by its friends; that is, that those who made the last tariff law should be intrusted with the making of the new. What will be the method of procedure if such obtains? It is simple. It is a case of confidence. The voters have confidence in republican leaders; the leaders have confidence in a republican congress; a republican congress has confidence in the ways and means committee; the ways and means committee has confidence in the men who represent the trusts, and the trusts write the tariff law.

"There is no prospect of relief from a republican president and congress. The democratic party, if intrusted with power, can and will reduce the tariff.

"The democratic platform not only demands a reduction of the tariff, but it plainly outlines the course to be pursued in securing the reduction. It begins by proposing that articles which come into competition with articles controlled by a trust be placed on the free list. What would be the effect of this remedy? Simply this—a law goes into effect at some fixed date in the future, and if the democrats pass a law, putting upon the free list articles coming into competition with those controlled by a trust the trust will have until that date to dissolve. If the trust considers the law too drastic, it can avoid it by giving up its monopoly.

Party's Remedies for Trusts.

"Mr. Taft calls this remedy 'utterly destructive,' and in his anxiety to prevent it overlooks the fact that the democratic party has other remedies for the trusts. If we can succeed in dissolving existing trusts, and in preventing the organization of new ones, there will be no trusts against which to use the remedy of which he complains. There is now a law against trusts, but it has not been sufficiently enforced to prevent trusts. The democrats demand its enforcement; if its enforcement rids the country of trusts, then this policy which Mr. Taft so much fears will become harmless.

"Protection does not make good wages. Our better wages are due to the greater intelligence and skill of our workmen, to the greater hope which free institutions give them, to improved machinery, to the better conditions that surround them, and to the organizations which have been formed among the wage earners.

"A revenue tariff will not bring a panic; it will not inaugurate industrial depression; it will not reduce wages; on the contrary, it will stimulate business and give more employment, and a larger demand for labor will be a guaranty against the reduction of wages. A reduction of the tariff will reduce the extortion that is now practiced because of the high schedules; a reduction in price will enable more people to buy, and this larger demand for the goods will put more people to work and increase the number of industries. A lower price will greatly stimulate exportation, and manufacturers who are now crippled by a tariff upon what they use will be better prepared to enter the contest for supremacy in the world's trade."

Old Woman Struck by Car.

Mrs. Tabina Williamson, 173 West Huron street, was struck by a Division street car last night at Carpenter street and Milwaukee avenue and was rolled over and over in the street for twenty feet. The police removed her to her home. The woman, who is 70 years old, suffered a fracture of the left arm, a broken nose, a cut over the left eye, and probable internal injuries.

FLYING START BY DEMOCRATS

State Leaders Plan Spectacular Opening of Campaign.

PEORIA TO SEE FIREWORKS.

Bryan, Kern and Stevenson to Enliven Convention Work.

Chairman Charles Boeschenstein of the democratic state committee, Manager Frank S. Peabody of Adlai E. Stevenson's campaign committee, and National Committeeman Roger C. Sullivan went over the preliminaries for the democratic campaign in Illinois yesterday. It was determined the quicker the party machinery was started at work the better.

For spectacular effect they will make an extra effort to get just as big a demonstration at the formal opening of the campaign at Peoria Sept. 9 as possible. It not only will be the meeting of the state convention, although that body has nothing to do but nominate three candidates for university trustees and adopt a platform, but Presidential Candidate Bryan will be there with Vice Presidential Candidate Kern and Gubernatorial Candidate Stevenson, and it is figured this aggregation should be enough to draw almost any kind of a crowd.

But to help matters along it was decided to make arrangements for special trains—one will run from Chicago carrying over 500 enthusiasts—so that all ardent democrats from nearby cities, such as Bloomington, Springfield, Streator, Rock Island, and smaller places can flock to the meeting. Mr. Bryan is to deliver one of his set of prepared speeches there, and the idea is to start the campaign with all sorts of fireworks.

Already Peoria has become excited over the prospect, and a lively contest is on to capture the honor of entertaining Mr. Bryan on his arrival.

Put Ginger in Platform.

Inasmuch as the platform adopted by the first state convention at Springfield scarcely was intended for campaign uses, the intention also is to so amend it at the Peoria convention as to fit the occasion. It probably will be framed under Mr. Bryan's guiding hand. On national issues, however, there is no chance for a dispute, as the Denver platform will be indorsed explicitly.

The troublesome liquor question threatens to bob up and make trouble when it comes to settling Illinois disputes. Probably Mr. Stevenson's wishes will be considered largely in the matter, however

After the sweeping plank the United Societies succeeded in getting into the local democratic platform last Wednesday, the advocates of Sunday opening are encouraged to make another effort to get a stronger plank in the democratic state platform than was given them at Springfield, so the issue promises to make trouble.

Walkover for Boeschenstein.

The meeting of the state committee at Springfield next Tuesday is expected to be largely formal. Mr. Boeschenstein will be reelected chairman in spite of the dire threats of opposition on the part of Col. J. Ham Lewis, and the present organization will be continued. Twenty-two of the twenty-five members of the committee are committed to this program.

A speakers' bureau will be prepared even in advance of the committee meeting, and Gen. Stevenson has announced he will give the campaign his entire time.

FROST FOR KERN IN WISCONSIN.

Row Between Factions Results in Expected Attendance of 25,000 at Speech Dwindling to 3,000.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The row between the Rose democrats of Milwaukee and the anti-Rose faction, which includes many of the state leaders outside of Milwaukee, resulted in the snubbing of Vice Presidential Candidate John W. Kern on his visit here.

When Mr. Kern arose the morning after his speech before the Rose clubs there was no one at his hotel to say good morning, no one to escort him to the station, and he was forced to inquire the way from a bellboy and take a carriage alone.

It had been expected that the Rose clubs' picnic, with Mr. Kern as the leading attraction, would be attended by 25,000 persons. The Rose democrats, however, resented the apparent indifference of the anti-Rose men, and the anti-Rose democrats naturally were not particularly anxious to have the Rose club picnic a success.

The result was that Mr. Kern spoke to an audience of less than 3,000, and now both the Rose and anti-Rose democrats are loud in denunciation of each other for allowing the vice presidential candidate to receive such a frost in a state the nation's democracy counts as doubtful.

PRESIDENT LIKES ALDRICH ACT.

Letters Received by Senator Burkett Made Public in Answer to La Follette Attacks.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 21.—Because of the attacks made upon the Aldrich currency bill by Senator La Follette, Senator E. J. Burkett today gave out two letters from President Roosevelt commending the law.

In his letter to Senator Burkett the president said he would not have signed the bill had he not approved of it, and that not a single argument worth heeding was advanced against it.

Mr. Roosevelt inclosed a communication he had formerly written, in which he called the measure purely an emergency one, but, as such, an act against which no reasonable objection could be made."

PICTURE OF TAFT TORN DOWN.

Oklahoma Republicans Indignant When They Learn Headquarters Emblem Has Been Removed.

Guthrie, Okla., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Much indignation was manifested tonight by republicans when it became known that a large picture of Taft and Sherman, posted within the last few days in Ione hall, republican state headquarters, had been torn down. An investigation has been unavailing. The picture has been replaced.

POLITICAL NOTES BY WIRE.

NEW YORK.—John Temple Graves, independence party candidate for vice president, who recently underwent a surgical operation, suffered a setback today, and his doctors ordered him to the country for a complete rest.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Prohibitionists of the Thirteenth district nominated Thomas C. Barnes of South Bend and the Rev. Levi W. Newman of Mishawaka for the short and long congressional terms.

OSWEGO, N. Y.—After an eight days' session, in which 332 ballots were taken, Charles L. Knapp was renominated for congress by the Twenty-eighth district republican convention.

SEARCH FOR YOUNG ELOPERS.

Police Look for Girls of Green Bay, Wis., Who Disappear with Boys in Their Teens.

Lillian De Quaine, 18 years old, and Lillian Osmond, 16 years of age, who are believed to have eloped from their home in Green Bay, Wis., yesterday with two boys still in their teens, are being sought in Chicago. Capt. P. D. O'Brien has several detectives making a search of the hotels and rooming houses of the north side.

The Osmond girl is said to have persuaded her companion to join the matrimonial escapade with her. Their arrest is looked for today, for it is believed a visit will be made to the office of the marriage license clerk, and a detective will be detailed at the County building.

"Chief Bolle of Green Bay has asked me to locate these runaways," said Capt. O'Brien, "and even if my men find them standing at the altar I shall be compelled to send them back."

ELECTION JUDGES ACCUSED IN SUITS

Agents of Board of Commissioners Declare Their Orders Were Disobeyed.

AFFIDAVITS ARE FILED.

Recently Organized Deneen Clubs Halt Work of the Healy Investigators.

Nine judges and one clerk of election who served on primary day are promised considerable trouble because of their supposed failure to comply with the orders of the election commissioners.

Joseph A. Novak, a representative of the election board, who filed suit against these men, set forth that certain candidates were permitted to electioneer within 100 feet of the polls, and that he himself was thrown out of the polling place by a policeman when he endeavored to deliver some instructions.

The other petitioners are A. H. McDonald, 123 North Sawyer avenue, and George J. Levy, 825 West Twelfth street.

McDonald, who served as a clerk in the Thirty-fifth precinct of the Twenty-seventh ward, declared in the complaint that one of the judges tore pasters off of ballots bearing the names of candidates undesirable to them. He also asserts that fifteen republican votes more than the number appearing upon the tally sheets were counted by the judges.

Election Officials Accused.

The election officials accused are:

Timothy Crowe,
Emil Wilkins,
F. W. Leland,
A. Williams,
M. T. Conlin,
Thomas Keegan,
G. D. Earl,
Oscar Gagnow,
Edward Neuffer,
A. Tersip.

Levy charges that Williams, Neuffer, and Conlin failed to procure a clerk when A. Tersip, who had been acting in that capacity, left the Third precinct polling place of the Eleventh ward before the ballots had been counted, and that they permitted Robert Joyce, republican candidate for precinct committeeman, and other unauthorized persons to assist in counting the poll.

The petitions will be presented to Judge Lewis Rinaker for action.

"Clubs" Block Healy's Fight.

Supposed Deneen clubs in the Nineteenth ward suddenly have appeared as obstacles in the way of the investigators who are searching for evidence of frauds which are believed to have defeated John J. Healy for renomination for state's attorney.

According to information which came into possession of the investigators yesterday these clubs, all newly organized, really were intended only as "clubs"—the word being used here in its true sense—to stop the search for illegal voters. Any influence that these organizations may wield will not be sufficient to hinder the investigation, according to the friends of Mr. Healy.

It is in the Nineteenth ward that much of the evidence of fraud at the primaries has been uncovered. It is to stop the detectives who are securing this evidence from talking to and securing affidavits from other voters that these organizations are declared to have made veiled threats to the Healy forces.

One of these so-called "Deneen clubs" was organized in the ward by Christopher Mamer Thursday night. When seen yesterday, however, Mr. Mamer strenuously denied any knowledge of a plan to "double cross" the state's attorney.

INSANE WOMAN KILLS SELF.

Mrs. Mary Cassidy, Who Shot Husband Dead, Ends Her Own Life by Leaping from Window.

Mrs. Mary Cassidy, who shot and killed her husband, John Cassidy, last Monday and then shot herself in the left breast at their residence at 226 Illinois street, committed suicide yesterday by jumping from a second story window of Passavant hospital. She fell about twenty feet to the roof of a shed and died two hours later. She is believed to have been insane for several weeks.

Paul E. Wettman, a clothing cutter, who lived at 104 Clifton avenue, committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid. He had been out of work for some time and was despondent. He was 46 years old.

George Hill, 29 years old, who was found dead in bed in his room at 1221 Wabash avenue, is believed to have committed suicide. He was suffocated by escaping gas. He had been out of work for some time and was despondent.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Schoenfeld, 63 years old, was suffocated in her residence at 971 North Albany avenue by gas which was leaking from a broken hose attached to the gas range. It is believed her death was accidental.

FUNERAL OF JOHN V. FARWELL.

Services for Late Pioneer Merchant Will Be Held at Lake Forest on Monday.

Funeral services for the late John V. Farwell Sr. will be held at the Lake Forest Presbyterian church on Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The Rev. J. G. K. McClure of the McCormick Theological seminary will officiate.

It is in accordance with the wishes of the dead man that old employés of the mercantile house which he founded will act as pallbearers. The burial will be private.

To accommodate the hundreds of former business associates and friends who desire to be present arrangements have been made for a special train on the Northwestern road which will leave Chicago for Lake Forest at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The special will leave Lake Forest on returning at 12:30 o'clock.

The executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday adopted memorial resolutions recalling the righteous business life of Mr. Farwell and calling him the "ideal American."

OBITUARY.

FREDERICK A. MILLS, first sergeant of company "C," of the First regiment, during the Spanish-American war, died on Thursday at the home of his father, Daniel W. Mills, 153 North Fifty-third avenue, Austin, aged 45 years. Death was the result of a lingering disease contracted in the Cuban campaign. He is survived by a widow. Funeral services were held at the residence of his parents and the body was taken to Omro, Wis., the former home of Mrs. Mills, for burial.

MARTIN W. HONAN, for years a politician in the present Fourth ward, died early yesterday morning at his home, Twenty-sixth street and Emerald avenue. He was at one time city clerk, and later city collector of the old south town board. He was a member of the old Chicago National league ball team at the time when Capt. Anson managed the "Colts." He is survived by a widow. The burial will take place on Monday at Calvary cemetery.

MEETINGS AND ENTERTAINMENTS.

The Hungarian Literary and Singing club and the Hungarian Social society are arranging for a national memorial meeting for Sunday afternoon, Oct. 11, the anniversary of the ending of the Hungarian revolution of 1849. Twenty-four Hungarian organizations will participate in the services.

Arrangements have been completed for the annual picnic of the Ancient Order of United Workmen and the Degree of Honor, the ladies' auxiliary, at Riverview park today.

The Chicago Schwaben-Verein will hold its thirty-first annual constatter volksfest Aug. 23, 24, and 30, at Brand's park, Elston and Belmont avenues.

A band concert will be given in Lincoln park tomorrow afternoon by Callendo's band.

OPPOSE TAFT; ALSO DEMOCRATS

6,000 VOTERS IN LINE.

Resolutions Admit the Framers Have Hard Nut to Crack.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—At a meeting of every club and organization of colored voters in Connecticut a resolution was passed agreeing to oppose William H. Taft, the republican candidate for president, but to indorse the republican state and congressional nominees in Connecticut. In part the resolution follows:

"As a result of our stupid loyalty to the republican party, no matter what the issues, what our treatment, negro political influence is almost a negligible quantity, although we hold the balance of power in many states, and yet the support of the democratic party, while it continues to make the denial to the negro of his political rights a art of its stock in trade, would be a sorry alternative.

Future Policy in Doubt.

"Facing this difficult situation, it is not easy to decide what policy is best to secure for us the recognition which our voting strength should compel. However, two things are certain concerning the present campaign:

"First, that any general bolt to the democratic party at this time would be ill advised; and, second, that no self-respecting negro can vote for William H. Taft in view of his negro policy, and this is his negro policy:

"He condones negro disfranchisement and advocates the doctrine that the negro ought to be satisfied with the incidental advantages which he may derive from unjust laws aimed at his welfare.

Brownsville Incident Talked Of.

"He approved the punishment of negro soldiers without trial, most of whom he frankly admitted, were innocent, although he had previously said of white soldiers accused of crime that they were the wards of government, and so deserved more than ordinary consideration.

"He subscribes to the southern doctrine that negro education should be so limited as to accord with an inferior place which he believes that the negro can only hope to occupy.

"He trades on his family history to excuse his own shortcomings."

The delegates represent 6,000 negro voters.

MARITAL MIXUP OF OSBORNE AND HELEN MALONEY ENDED.

Memorandum Filed in New York County Clerk's Office Announcing Granting of Marriage Annulment.

New York, Aug. 21.—What is believed to be a move for a final adjustment of the marital difficulties of Miss Helen Maloney, daughter of Martin Maloney of Philadelphia, and Arthur H. Osborne of this city was the filing today in the county clerk's office of a memorandum announcing that a decision and interlocutory judgment of annulment of marriage had been granted to the parties named.

It is set forth that the decree was filed in the county clerk's office on May 20, 1908. The three months from the entering of the interlocutory decree elapsed yesterday, and, although it was said that no final decree of annulment had been signed, it was understood that today's action was for the purpose of bringing the case before the Supreme court for that purpose.

A ceremony after the form of a marriage was performed at Mamaroneck, L. I., on Dec. 28, 1905, Miss Maloney giving the name of Helen Eugene. On May 20 Justice McCall of the Supreme court signed an interlocutory decree annulling the ceremony, saying there never had been any marriage between the plaintiff and the defendant. The court directed that final judgment should not be entered in the action until after the expiration of three months.

Illinois Executives in Convention Next Month Will Work for River Improvements.

The deep waterway project will be the main question discussed at the third annual convention of the Illinois Mayors' association in La Salle Sept. 24 and 25. The government of the cities and villages also will be considered by the mayors.

Plans for the convention were made at a meeting of the executive committee in the Sherman house yesterday. Those present at the meeting were: Mayor Silas Cook of East St. Louis, president of the association; former Mayor George W. McCaskrin, Rock Island, secretary; Mayor E. S. McDonald of Decatur, Mayor H. J. Puterbaugh of Mackinaw, and City Clerk I. Burkart, representing Mayor Panneck of La Salle.

The fourth annual convention of the National Association of Sheet Metal Workers was adjourned at the Palmer house yesterday to meet in Louisville, Ky., in August of 1909. Edwin L. Seabrook of Camden, N. J., was reelected president.

ATLANTIC CITY FIGHTS GAMES.

New Yorker and Alleged Proprietor of "Millionaires' Club" Are Indicted for Gambling.

May's Landing, N. J., Aug. 21.—The grand jury summoned at the request of Gov. Fort to investigate gambling and Sunday liquor selling in Atlantic City returned two bills of indictment.

Charles Gondolf, a New York man, and Edward Williams, alleged proprietor of the "Millionaires' club," operated in the fashionable Chelsea district and raided last spring by agents of Prosecutor Goldenberg, were the persons against whom the bills were returned.

For failure to find indictments in two other gambling cases because, as the foreman of the jury, Joseph Salus, explained, the jurors considered the evidence insufficient the jurors were reprimanded by Justice Trenchard.

Baby's Body Found in Lake.

The body of an unidentified boy baby, apparently 5 months old, was found by three lads in a gunny sack floating in the breakwater at Twenty-ninth street and the lake yesterday afternoon. The body was removed to Perrigo's undertaking rooms, 2973 State street. No marks that would indicate the child met death by violence were found.

Boy's Injuries Prove Fatal.

Tony Christiano, 2 years old, who was run over by a peddler's wagon Aug. 11, died at his home, 74 Twenty-second place, yesterday, from a skull fracture. The police of the Twenty-second street station began a search for the peddler, whose wagon bore the name of Tony Schillo.

ASK MRS. GARDNER TO REMIT $70,000.

Cranes Inform Boston Woman That Reimbursement Is Expected at Once.

MRS. CHADBOURNE HERE.

Has Not Gone to Boston and Is Automobiling in the Vicinity of Chicago.

Within the next twenty-four hours Mrs. Jack Gardner of Boston will have to decide what attitude she intends to take in the affair involving herself and Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne.

She has been informed in person that she must at once reimburse the Cranes for the $70,000 paid to the government as duties and fines on the art objects belonging to her and brought into the country by Mrs. Chadbourne.

It is not improbable that it also will be suggested to Mrs. Gardner that exact accuracy in statements regarding the case will be appreciated. One statement coming from Boston was not particularly pleasing to Mrs. Chadbourne's friends. It was to the effect that Mrs. Chadbourne had used the articles for the adornment of her London home, whereas it is asserted that the goods were not unpacked from the time they were crated in Paris two years ago at Mrs. Gardner's orders, until they were opened in the customs house in Chicago.

Various wild stories were printed yesterday morning and afternoon about Mrs. Chadbourne's whereabouts. Some of the narratives told with circumstantial detail of her departure for Boston on Thursday afternoon and also detailed how the government would arrest her if she should attempt to flee the country.

Mrs. Chadbourne Near Chicago.

Mrs. Chadbourne did not go to Boston on Thursday. She passed the night at Mr. E. A. Russell's house at Lake Forest, where she has been all week. Yesterday morning she and Mrs. Russell started on a three or four days' automobile trip west of Chicago. They passed last night at a small town forty miles away and tonight will stop at another town nearly 100 miles from the city. They expect to return to Chicago on Sunday or Monday. This trip was taken on the advice of a physician, who feared the worries and anxieties of the last few days would aggravate and bring on an old trouble from which Mrs. Chadbourne has suffered for some years.

Maj. W. H. Williams, inspector in charge of the local special agents of the treasury department, laughed at the rumors that Mrs. Chadbourne was fleeing from the government. His humor changed to one of indignation as he declared that the story of a mysterious woman who set his men to watching Mrs. Chadbourne's property was "faked" by a newspaper reporter. He again gave all the credit to Special Agent C. F. Webb for the government's discovery of the contents of the six valuable cases.

Leniency Is Expected.

Leniency on the part of the government toward Mrs. Chadbourne and Mrs. Gardner was considered yesterday as a reasonable possibility.

The pleas for clemency advanced by friends of Mrs. Chadbourne, and affecting Mrs. Gardner as well, were that precedent rules against a prosecution where a monetary settlement has been made, that justice has been satisfied by the payment of more than double the usual duties, and that the general character of the offenders renders a repetition of the offense unlikely.

These grounds have been urged for some time, not only in Chicago, but in Washington as well, before the heads of the national departments as fully as before the chiefs of local offices, and now it is reported that they hav met with favorable consideration.

Assistant District Attorney Ben Davis, to whom District Attorney Sims referred the fraudulent entry notice that later proved to be the forerunner of the revelations, strongly expressed his doubts that the government will begin criminal action.

"I have been connected with this office for about six years," said Mr. Davis, "and while there have been numerous reports of false invoices on imports, there has been only one prosecution, and that resulted in sending an innocent man to prison for two years. He tried to shield a woman, and his action resulted in his conviction.

"The rule has been to impose the regular and the penalty duties and to settle the case. Many of them have been disposed of in this way because of the difficulty of proving the intent of the importer to make a false declaration or to defraud the government.

"As a general thing, however, I believe the cases were settled because in the judgment of the government officials justice had been satisfied with the payment of the extra duty established by law. It is such a heavy fine in addition to the regular duty that it has been considered sufficient punishment for the offense."

Mr. Sims Is Notified.

The only step taken by the department of justice in connection with the case was an informal presentation of the details to District Attorney Edwin W. Sims, who is spending several weeks in the Michigan woods.

A letter from him received by Chief Clerk Small contained no mention of the case and covered only several matters of governmental business which are pending in his office.

"It convinced me that he had not seen any of the papers," said Mr. Small, "and feeling that he should be told of it, even if our information was not in the shape of an official report, I sent him the front pages of THE TRIBUNE for the last three days. They gave all the information that has come to our hands."

The chief clerk expressed the belief that the full account of the treasury department's investigations and discoveries would not hasten the district attorney's return and that he probably will not be seen in his office for a month.

Women Called Artistic Idealists.

While federal officials were pointing out that the term "smuggling" was a misnomer when applied to the offense of Mrs. Chadbourne, as the word is applied only to instances in which an entry is not made at a governmental port, A. DeW. Neilson, manager of W. K. Cowan & Co., who was called in as an expert by the appraisers to set a value upon the Gardner property, was explaining that Mrs. Chadbourne was not a "smuggler" but an "artistic idealist."

He returned from Kansas City before starting for Los Angeles on a business trip and hastened to the defense of the two women involved.

"Mrs. Chadbourne should not be censured so much as she has been," he declared. "She and Mrs. Gardner simply are types of artistic idealists, with whom the love of art has grown to a passion which they cannot restrain. They will go almost crazy over a precious little article which infatuates them, and they resent the fact that an unfair, enormous tariff almost prohibits them from bringing them into their own country. Even a temporary separation from the object they love hurts them.

"I am from England myself, but I have noticed this is true of all Anglo-Saxon women who become imbued with artistic ideals. Were it not for these women our homes would be mere barns."

Points Out Articles' Values.

He added to the information already given by THE TRIBUNE concerning the contents of the six cases opened by the appraisers an explanation that the tapestries all are of Brussels weaving.

"That makes them four times as valuable as they would be if they were Gobelins. When Stanford White's household things were sold at auction his tapestries were sold as Gobelins, and afterwards they were found to be Brussels, which quadrupled their value.

"These have the beehive and the bee, the Brussels mark, clearly woven in one corner of each, proving their value at once. They are ever so much finer and more rare than the Lincoln Park's Deserted Lion Whelps Find New Mother.

DOG MOTHERS LION WHELPS

Animals at Lincoln Park Discussing De Vry's Experiment.

"DESERTED BABIES" HAPPY.

Canine Belonging to Tribune Reader Goes to the Rescue.

"Have you heard the news?" trumpeted the Duchess, Lincoln Park's elephant, to the jaguar from South America.

"Another animal house?" queried the spotted one, lazily stretching a paw.

"No such luck," answered the Duchess; "Emma's lion whelps are being mothered by a mongrel shepherd collie."

The big python in the center of the animal house, hearing the conversation, squirmed about, the better to become acquainted with the details.

"It's an age of progress," commented one of the polar bears as he emerged from his tank. "Suppose it had been in the jungle? The whelps must have starved. Cy De Vry told the story in THE TRIBUNE. This noon a woman came with the canine. I saw her. It was led by a string."

"She's Mrs. Hattie Riley, at 1814 West Lake street," barked a coyote, who hears everything. "I overheard her talking to Cy as they passed. This dog had seven pups yesterday morning. The pups met their end in a tub of water—and the woman brought the dog in time to nourish the whelps."

Tigress Watches Whelps.

"I saw the whole thing," said a Bengal tigress, lashing her tail at some pestering flies. "De Vry brought the dog into the feed room. The lion whelps fed as naturally as though their own mother suckled them."

A shaggy buffalo peered through the fence of the yard and asked:

"Did the dog mind?"

"Acted as though the whelps were her own pups," answered the tigress; "smelt them, licked them, fawned upon them and growled when they were taken away. There were three whelps, having the appearance of mongrel, half starved back fence cats. The other died before the foster mother came."

"It's a funny world," trumpeted the Duchess, and squirted a trunkful of earth over her back disdainfully. "No dog ever shall suckle my children."

Story Brings Many Offers.

Cy De Vry came along with the tawny whelps, three of them, in a basket and took them behind the birdhouse, where they were screened from observation. There newspaper photographers took their picture and the dog's.

"Yes," answered Cy, as he gave one of the whelps to Mrs. De Vry to hold while he placed the other two in position, "our baby lions have a foster mother. THE TRIBUNE told the story this morning and I had something like forty offers of various wet nurse canines over the telephone.

"Godfriend Johnson of 70 North Clark street was the first to offer a dog, and Mrs. F. Loeffler of Humboldt boulevard and Andrew Backo of 70 Front street, and so many others I can't recall just now, also wanted to bring dogs. Don't cry, baby. You'll have your milk in a minute. First, these photographs. I brought Mrs. Riley here with her dog in a motor car at 1 o'clock and when the whelps took to the animal at once I contracted to give the woman $5 a week. I'll put up a pen in the feedroom. If I put them in a cage with the other animals, Mrs. Rover—that's the dog's name—might get hurt."

Whelps Deserted by Mother.

The three lion whelps—one male and two female—were born two days ago. Their mother sniffed them once and walked away and couldn't be induced to nurse them. De Vry, who was taking a vacation in northern Wisconsin, was called back by telegraph message. He wanted a wet nurse dog and he asked THE TRIBUNE to help him and his want was supplied. He probably will name one of the lion whelps after THE TRIBUNE.

The mother lion is called Emma Eames. She was brought to the park from Europe last spring and the whelps are her first born. Leo, the father, has been at the park two years.

COOLEY BACK FROM EUROPE.

Superintendent of Chicago Schools Returns Unexpectedly with Health Much Improved.

Unheralded and unexpected Superintendent of Schools Edwin G. Cooley arrived in Chicago last Monday, saw only a few intimate friends, whom he pledged to secrecy, and left the following day for a Wisconsin country club, where he will remain until shortly before the schools reopen.

According to friends, Mr. Cooley, who went to Europe last spring in a weak physical condition, is now thoroughly healthy, tanned by sun and wind, in the possession of a good appetite, and able to sleep well.

While regaining his health he made a comprehensive study of the schools and educational systems of Europe, combining mountain climbing in the Alps with a study of the Swiss school system and a tour of Germany with an investigation of the German industrial schools.

LABOR FORMS A NEW LEAGUE

Plans Campaign of Education on Injunction Question.

WILL CONFER WITH BRYAN.

Arrangements to Be Made for Nebraskan's Speech on Labor Day.

Labor leaders and members of labor organizations formed the Injunction Reform league at a meeting last night in the office of the Chicago Federation of Labor, 275 La Salle street. The object of the organization is to inaugurate a "campaign of education" on the injunction question and to oppose the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

The league also will take charge of the meeting at Forest park on Labor day, when William J. Bryan, at the invitation of the labor leaders, will speak on the anti-injunction plank of the democratic platform.

The following officers were elected:

President—John Fitzpatrick.

Secretary—John C. Harding.

Treasurer—Henry A. Pohlman.

Board of directors—Robert Nelson, M. C. Buckley, John O'Neill, William Rossell, and the three executive officers.

Will Confer with Bryan.

A committee of the league, headed by President Fitzpatrick, will confer with Mr. Bryan today with reference to the arrangements for the Labor day meeting, which probably will be held in the afternoon following the labor parade. If the plans of the labor leaders are carried out Bryan probably will speak in the evening on Labor day at the picnic of the electrical workers' union in Brand's park.

"We shall endeavor to enlist as members in the league all persons, whether members of labor unions or not, who are opposed to the present methods of the courts in issuing injunctions in labor disputes," said Secretary Harding.

"We propose to go ahead and educate the people to the necessity of a change from the present abuse of the injunction and to show that the writ of injunction never was intended to apply to labor disputes, but only to protect property."

Union Men Found Guilty.

Charles Thog and Thor Halvorsen, striking electricians against the west park board, were found guilty by a jury in Municipal Judge Crowe's court yesterday of cutting feed wires in the power house at Hamlin avenue and West Kinzie street. The jury deliberated four hours. Attorneys for the defense made a motion for a new trial.

HOARD FOUND AFTER DEATH; PREMISES SEARCHED FOR MORE

Neighbors of Late Glencoe Harnessmaker Find Gold and Silver and Get Trace of Heiress.

When the father of Miss Barbara Hitzenberger of Winnetka died four days ago, the young woman inherited money which no one suspected the old man possessed. The money, which was all in gold and silver, was found hidden in the place of business of the father, Alois Hitzenberger, who owned a harness shop in Glencoe.

When Hitzenberger died a few days ago there were no relatives on the spot to straighten up his affairs, so Henry Dopfer, a grocer conducting a store nearby, began to clear up the harness shop. It was while he was getting the old man's property in shape that he came across $567 in coin.

Upon inquiry, Mr. Dopfer learned that a daughter of Hitzenberger was living in one of the north shore towns and in order to find her he had notices posted in all the villages. Yesterday, the young woman saw one of the posters in Winnetka, where she had been staying, and went to Glencoe to claim her money.

Hitzenberger had kept no bank account and yet always had paid his debts. A search is being made in his establishment with the hope that considerable more money will be found.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB TO AID WHEATON AGAINST SPEEDERS

Chicago Organization Will Put Up Signs Warning Chauffeurs Against Fast Running Through the City.

The Chicago Automobile club is going to extend its aid to another of Chicago's speed terrorized suburbs. While it continues the war in Glencoe, writes letters to the speeders caught in Kenilworth, and maintains its speed preventives on the south side, it will undertake to abate the evil in Wheaton. This action was decided on at a meeting of the board of managers yesterday and attended by the mayor and one of the aldermen of the western village.

The first step taken will be the placing of signs prepared and signed by the club asking autoists to drive considerately at the entrance of each of the five main roads into Wheaton.

The village of Kenilworth has been so favorably impressed by the results of its cooperation with the club that it probably will send an official request to the board of managers to station a man with a warning flag there every Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

ROWS AT NIEMANN INQUEST.

Attorney Says Official Too Cowardly to Clear Woman's Name.

NO DECISION IS REACHED.

Jerry Vrzal Denounced by Sister in Courtroom at Wheaton.

"This investigation has looked crooked to me from the start, and now I am convinced that some official is too cowardly to clear the good name of a woman."

These words of denunciation from Acting State's Attorney Barbour of Cook county at the close of yesteday's session of the inquest on the death of Henry Niemann, held at Wheaton, provoked a fierce row with State's Attorney Charles W. Hadley of Du Page county, and may result in another controversy between Mr. Healy and the Rev. P. J. O'Callaghan.

It was the fourth session of an investigation begun at the instigation of Father O'Callaghan in the hope of showing that Herman Billik, convicted of the Vzral murders, is not guilty of the crimes, and that the party who took the lives of these six persons were also responsible for the death of Niemann.

Mrs. Emma Vzral Niemann's name has been mentioned in connection with the case by the priest and Billik's attorney, Francis E. Hinckley, but friends and relatives of the dead man yesterday spoke of Mrs. Niemann in the highest terms.

Mrs. Niemann Denounces Brother.

Mrs. Niemann was not called upon to testify. She denounced her brother, Jerry Vrzal, who heretofore repudiated his original testimony, as she left the courtroom.

"You are an unnatural brother, and are the cause of all my trouble," she shouted. "From now on I disown you and forbid you coming to my house."

All of the witnesses either side has so far been able to produce have been heard, but the coroner's jury, after deliberating for an hour and a half, announced that "the jury adjourned to meet at the call of the coroner."

Barbour and Attorney Benson Landon, specially retained by Mrs. Niemann, who stand together in their charges of "crookedness," both declared that such an adjournment, without naming a specific day when again to meet, ended the whole matter so far as the present jury is concerned, and that if the investigation is to be renewed Niemann's body will have to be exhumed again, another post portem examination will have to be held, and all the witnesses must again be heard.

"Cowardly Trick," Says Landon.

"It's a cowardly trick," said Landon, "for it leaves the implied charges against Mrs. Niemann in the air. They know they have nothing against her, and it was their duty to bring the case to a conclusion." Mr. Barbour spoke in a similar strain.

The inference has been made that one Anna Stuck, housekeeper at the Niemann farm previous to the time when the present Mrs. Emma Vrzal Niemann assumed those duties, has been missing since she gave way to Mrs. Niemann and that Anna Stuck's body was probably in an old abandoned well on the farm. Witnesses were asked about the Stuck woman. Mr. Barbour regarded the examination lightly and precipitated a row early in the hearing by openly remarking:

"This is a farce."

"You are trying to make it a farce," replied Hadley heatedly, and the coroner's interference prevented further trouble.

Barbour claims that instead of being murdered at the bottom of the well the Stuck woman is now a Chicago housewife, and that he can produce her when necessary. Barbour told Dr. A. W. Morrow, foreman of the jury, that "they intended assembling about forty-eight hours previous to a certain event," intimating that politics had some bearing upon the investigation, and that the inquest was being used as a "club."

CADETS COMING FOR REVIEW.

Culver Boys Will Race Naval Reserve Crews After Marching on the Lake Front.

The cadets of the Culver summer school of Culver Military institute, Culver, Ind., will arrive in Chicago this morning for a review on Michigan avenue by Rear Admiral Albert Ross, U. S. N., and a number of Chicago military men and civilians. They also will participate in a boat race just inside the breakwater this afternoon with first and second crews of the Illinois Naval reserve.

The company of cadets, with their horses, will arrive at the Union passenger station at 10 o'clock and will march to Michigan avenue and Grant park for the review.

Immediately after the race the cadets will board the steamer Northland for the trip up the lake to Mackinac island.

NOT CASSIDY GIRL KIDNAPER.

Milwaukee Police Release E. J. Blair When Little Veronica Fails to Identify Him.

Veronica Cassidy, who was kidnaped several weeks ago and taken to Cincinnati, failed yesterday in Milwaukee to identify E. J. Blair, the suspect arrested there, and he was released. The child was taken to Milwaukee in the company of her mother, Mrs. Kate Cassidy, by Capt. Halpin and Detectives McNamara and Kane. Veronica was positive the Milwaukee prisoner was not the same Blair who took her away, saying she would know her abductor anywhere.

INDICTS SIX MORE ON RIOT CHARGES.

Springfield Grand Jury Holds Alleged Members of Mob for Trial.

TROOPS TO STAY ON DUTY.

Town Near Capital Is Placarded with Warnings for Negroes to Leave.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The grand jury today indicted six more alleged leaders in the recent race riots. Four of them were indicted four times each for malicious mischief and inciting riot, and two were held on two charges each. All were the result of the destruction of Loper's restaurant.

Those indicted today were Ernst Humphrey, huckster; Rudolph Bredmeyer, mechanic; John Schienle, grocery clerk; William Sutton, cabman; Herbert Carey, blacksmith, and one other man whose identity was kept secret at the order of Judge Creighton because he is understood to have fled from Springfield.

It is rumored an indictment charging murder also is to be returned against Humphrey and more indictments are anticipated against Kate Howard and Abraham Raymer, who is under serious indictments. Among others who may be indicted are many living in nearby towns.

Jury's Task Not Half Done.

That the grand jury has not half finished the task is shown by the statement of Assistant State's Attorney Wines tonight. He said the prosecutors were confident half a hundred or more indictments would be returned within the next ten days.

The coroner's jury tonight returned a verdict saying Louis Johnson, the boy who was killed during the riot at Loper's restaurant, was shot by an unknown person. This decision was reached only after a delay, Coroner Woodruff having discovered no autopsy had been made. The coroner and a physician went to Mechanicsburg, where they exhumed the body and made an examination. The physician reported to the jury that the boy was killed by the shot which struck him in the neck.

Rolla Keyes, the boy who was shot accidentally yesterday by a playmate, which occurrence almost caused a riot under the supposition that a negro had shot him, is said to have a good chance of recovery. William H. Bowe, who was shot and beaten by negro thugs, is thought to be on the road to recovery.

Troops to Remain on Duty.

It was decided by the authorities today that conditions still are so unsettled that it would be unwise to withdraw the Seventh Illinois infantry of Chicago, the only soldiers left to guard the town, for at least two or three more days.

Next Tuesday is pay day at the neighboring mines, and it is feared the rough element may seek to make more trouble upon the least excuse for doing so. The saloons still remain closed, but great pressure is being brought to bear to open them. Col. Moriarity said it might be wise to open them before the troops leave, in order to have an antidote for lynch law at hand should the necessity arise.

News came from Buffalo, fifteen miles from Springfield, today, saying that race hatred has reached a high pitch here. In front of the interurban station at Buffalo is a large sign:

"All niggers are warned out of town by Monday, 12 m., sharp.

"BUFFALO SHARP SHOOTERS."

Negroes Still in Fear.

While the number of refugees at the armory has decreased, the officials are having a hard time to convince the blacks the danger is past. One of the latest applicants for protection was a woman whose white skin betrayed only faint traces of negro blood. She was accompanied by a fair haired boy 5 years old.

"I suppose I am foolish to come here," she said. "But I should go crazy if I tried to sleep at home. I am not even sure my neighbors suspect me of having negro blood in my veins. We have not mingled with the negroes here before, and have kept aloof from the whites. But my husband is away, and I couldn't bear to think of having our home invaded by rowdies, who might kill our boy. So I have thrown off the mask and come here.

"We are going to move away as soon as possible. In fact, my husband is looking for a position in another city now."

Ask Fare to Other Towns.

The overseer of the poor is receiving many applications for help from negroes, who are at their wits' end to know what to do to sustain life. Many of the requests are for money enough to go to relatives in nearby towns.

"Can't you give me a ticket to Bloomington?" asked an aged negro woman who could hardly walk. "I've got a son up there an' suah he will give me a home.

"I can't see why they treat me as if I was a dog. Here I is 76 years old next week. Me an' my girl saved up $300 an' put it all in a home. Now ouah home is done burned up an' we ah without a place to sleep, let alone enough to wear."

The overseer of the poor has issued orders for $10,000 worth of groceries for the blacks. The negroes at Camp Lincoln have great difficulty in securing supplies. The grocers will not take provisions to the encampments.

FIRST CAVALRY HOME AGAIN.

Chicago's Mounted Soldiers Return from Springfield and Are Cheered as They Proceed to Their Armory.

The First Illinois cavalry arrived here from Springfield at 3:40 p. m. yesterday on its special train on the Alton road.

The command left Springfield at 9 o'clock in the morning after a night of unrest caused by fake alarms or alarms that could not be traced to any source. One troop was left in Springfield, one sent to Peoria, and one dropped at Bloomington.

The command was met at the train by the regimental band and an escort of mounted police.

The line of march to the armory in North Clark street was thronged with spectators who lustily cheered the returned soldiers. At the armory the regiment passed in review before Col. Foreman and was dismissed from special duty.

LYNCHER DIES OF APOPLEXY.

Mind Unsettled by Springfield Riots, Chief Actor in Old Tragedy Has Stroke.

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—While awaiting an inquisition as to his sanity, William Vest died of apoplexy today in the detention ward. It is supposed his reason was unsettled by reading of the Springfield race riots.

In June, 1893, Vest's wife was assaulted by Bush, a wandering negro, at her home, near Decatur. With his neighbors Vest came to Decatur and, abetted by a crowd, broke into the jail, took Bush from the sheriff, and hanged him to a telegraph pole opposite the courthouse.

Yesterday Vest, who had been acting queerly, armed himself and stood his family off with a gun until the sheriff's deputies captured him.

RUSH PAY AS YOU ENTER CARS

Traction Officials Put More Men on Construction Work.

INQUIRY BY CITY EXPERT.

Hereley Protests Over Delay, Then Inspects Company's Shops.

There is every indication that every important street car line in Chicago will be equipped with the modern "pay-as-you-enter" cars before the snow flies. Things of an important nature happened in the offices of the street car companies yesterday, and this fact was uppermost after the city's traction expert had completed an investigation.

In the first place, the Chicago City railway received another consignment of the new type of cars which have been worked over from the old double truck variety in the company's shops.

Forty of these cars will be put into service on the Sixty-third street line this morning. This will be the first crosstown line to be equipped with the "pay-as-you-enters."

Meanwhile Millard B. Hereley, the city's traction expert, began to wonder why the new cars ordered some months ago by the Chicago Railways company had not materialized. He already had made repeated inquiries of the company, and had been told that the delay was due to the Pullman company, which is constructing the cars.

Inquiries then were directed to the car construction company, but with little or no result. So Mr. Hereley decided to carry on a personal investigation. With this plan in view he visited the Pullman shops during the day.

Just what he discovered will not be known officially until Mr. Hereley makes his report today. It is known, however, that the company agreed to increase the force of men working on the new cars, and that it agreed to have a few of the cars ready for service in the near future.

DETECTIVE TO HAVE TRIAL ON MRS. FURLONG'S CHARGES

Sergeant Horrigan Exonerated, but Gibbons Will Explain His Conduct to the Civil Service Board.

The charges of Mrs. Frank M. Furlong, 174 Winthrop avenue, against Desk Sergeant Jeremiah Horrigan of the Central detail police station and Detective William Gibbons of the Town Hall police station will lead to a hearing for Gibbons before the trial board.

Mrs. Furlong charged that the policemen had insulted and abused her when she was taken in a fainting condition to a fruit store at Grace street and Evanston avenue. She failed to recognize Sergeant Horrigan yesterday.

Mr. Furlong then attempted to apologize to Horrigan, whose vacation had been broken up by the trouble, and whose reputation as the Chesterfield of the department had been imperiled.

"Forget it!" said the magnanimous policeman, and the incident so far as Horrigan is concerned was closed.

"From what I have already learned, I do not think Gibbons was guilty of any gross discourtesy," said Assistant Chief Schuettler. "The complaint has been made, however, and we owe it to Gibbons as much as to the city and the complainants to sift the matter thoroughly."

NEGROES TO DRIVE OUT VICE.

Two Organizations to Clean Up District Between Twelfth and Thirty-ninth Streets.

Two organizations of the better element of the negro residents of the south side will undertake the work of eradicating crime and vice as far as their race is concerned from the section between Twelfth and Thirty-ninth streets as a precaution against any such racial trouble as occurred at Springfield.

A report on the progress of the Law and Order league has been prepared by the Rev. H. E. Stewart for presentation at tomorrow morning's service in the Institutional church. The service will resolve itself into a discussion on "Lessons from the Springfield riot" by the congregation.

In support of the movement to clean up the negro section, the Rev. A. J. Carey, pastor of Bethel chapel, has invited a score of negro ministers to meet next week.

KLEIN RELEASED ON $10,000 BAIL.

Efforts of Kankakee Officials to Put Militiaman in Jail Are Thwarted.

BROUGHT BACK TO CITY.

Military Authorities Succeed in Maneuvers to Keep Guard from Prison.

Kankakee's sheriff, state's attorney and other civil officials of the town bit their finger nails in suppressed anger yesterday when they saw Private Joseph B. Klein, company A of the First regiment, whisked out of their grasp by the military authorities led by Capt. Henry Barrett Chamberlain.

Klein, who was charged with the death of Earl Nelson, was released on $10,000 bail at 2 p. m. and brought back to Chicago after State's Attorney J. Bert Miller of Kankakee was impressed sufficiently by affidavits and telegrams from Springfield as to the stability of the Illinois Surety company, which signed Klein's bond.

Wanted to Lock Him Up.

It was the plan of the Kankakee officials to take Klein to the county jail and cause him and his military comrades as much trouble as possible without exceeding the bounds of the law.

Klein was saved from arrest by the maneuvers of Capt. Chamberlain and Assistant Attorney General Mansfield. The former kept himself in seclusion, so that the deputy sheriffs were unable to make known the fact to him that they had a warrant for Klein's arrest. On six attempts they failed utterly.

Unable to get their man by ordinary methods, they resorted to strategy and had word sent to Capt. Chamberlain that he was wanted on the telephone at the county building, Gov. Deneen being at the other end of the wire. Capt. Burns of company L discovered the governor was busy with other matters in Springfield.

Decide Bond Is Sufficient.

Meanwhile, Mr. Mansfield was preparing by telegraph and telephone evidence which would be sufficient to show that the surety company of which Senator Hopkins is president and Fred M. Blount is treasurer was in a solvent condition. At noon Justice Mead decided that the bond of the surety company would be satisfactory and said he would give Klein a hearing at 2 o'clock.

Capt. Chamberlain with Klein and a guard rode to the justice's office in a closed carriage and gave the offending militiaman up. The bond was signed immediately and inside of ten minutes Klein was back again under guard at the armory and they left for Chicago on the first train.

Guarded at Railway Station.

A large crowd gathered at the depot, and although a guard with drawn bayonets was at hand, no assistance was necessary to get the soldier safely on the train.

Upon arrival here Capt. Chamberlain took his charge to the First regiment armory and reported by phone to Gen. Young. Klein enjoyed the military and legal maneuvers.

"It was all well done," he said. "I am glad I was not arrested, although I was not afraid. I used my bayonet on Nelson only in self-defense. I was defending myself and state property. I am not afraid of a trial, as I believe I was entirely in the right."

Explanation by Gen. Young.

Gen. E. C. Young, upon reaching the city, issued an informal statement in explanation of the attitude taken by him in the controversy with the Kankakee civil authorities.

"There was involved an important question outside of this individual case," he said, "and none of my decisions was made without due consideration and good advice. Not infrequently the national guard is called upon to serve in riots where the crowds either are lukewarm or are antagonistic, and if the civil authorities were given the right to arrest a soldier in this way it would render the militia useless.

"Had this affair occurred to any officer or man not in the direct line of his duty he would have been promptly turned over to the civil authorities, but the conditions were such in this case that such a step was not advisable immediately.

"The evidence showed that Klein had been protecting the state's property and hadn't intended to use any more violence than was necessary. We were equally anxious with the civil authorities that he should be brought to justice, for a military court had exonerated him, and, feeling that a civil court would do the same, we desired to leave no criminal stain upon him."

JUDGES ACCUSED OF MANY ERRORS

Federal Attorneys in Petition for Rehearing Show Landis Misquoted.

DEFEND $29,240,000 FINE.

Also Champion Elkins Act and Say Grosscup Contradicts Himself.

The petition of the United States for a rehearing by the Circuit Court of Appeals of the case against the Standard Oil company of Indiana is, perhaps, the most remarkable document ever filed in a federal court.

Though couched in most respectful language, it is in effect a severe arraignment of the court, Judges Peter S. Grosscup, William H. Seamon, and Francis E. Baker. It was filed yesterday.

In taking issue with the Court of Appeals in its rulings upon this case, reversing the sentence of $29,240,000 in fines imposed by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis of the trial court, Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte, District Attorney Edwin W. Sims, and associate counsel contend that:

The opinion as it stands erroneously misstates material portions of the record.

It misstates the construction which the trial judge placed upon the statute.

It does injustice to the trial judge.

Leaves doubtful in a new trial the rule of law to be applied, both as to knowledge on the part of the shipper and as to the number of offenses.

Appears to be in conflict with the language of the Supreme court and with the previous language of Presiding Judge Peter S. Grosscup, in which he laid down an exactly contrary rule to the one which he laid down in the Standard Oil case.

Is in conflict with the great weight of legal authority.

If permitted to remain unmodified will raise the bars so as to allow railroads to violate the law with impunity.

Ruling on Fine an Innovation.

The government takes issue with the Court of Appeals as to the proposition that a defendant cannot be fined more than the value of the property which he possesses and declares that this rule is an innovation in criminal law and if applied would destroy the enforcement of most statutes.

It is argued that the punishment is no more excessive than that inflicted upon a letter carrier who is sent to the penitentiary for three years for stealing a letter or of a banker who is sent to the penitentiary for five years for misapplying the funds of his bank.

The government also takes the position that on account of the size of the fine alone there is no necessity for a retrial of the case—that the Court of Appeals itself may name the fine that it considers should be imposed and thus avoid additional expense and delay in the proceedings.

Law's Violation Admitted.

The indictment in the case, as the petition explains, was for the violation of the Elkins act making it a crime to accept a concession whereby any property is transported in interstate commerce at less than the published and filed rate.

It was proved at the trial that the Chicago and Alton railway company transported to East St. Louis, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo., 1,492 carloads of oil, each carload being treated as a distinct transaction and handled as a distinct piece of business.

The published and filed rates on this business were 18 cents per 100 pounds to East St. Louis and 19½ cents to St. Louis. The Standard Oil company actually settled on the basis of 6 cents to East St. Louis and 7½ cents to St. Louis. These facts were admitted.

The Standard Oil company interposed the claim in defense that the Elkins act was unconstitutional, that the tariffs had not been posted in two public places at the stations, and interposed many technical defenses.

Trial Judge Misquoted.

The attorneys for the government emphasize the fact that on but a single point involved in the trial are the rulings of the trial judge criticised by the Court of Appeals—that question relating to knowledge and intent. The point upon which the trial judge was reversed, related to his rules on evidence and his charge to the jury with reference to ignorance on the part of the Standard Oil company of the lawful rate as a defense.

It was stated, in the opinion of the Court of Appeals, that the trial judge refused to admit evidence to the effect that the Standard Oil company did not know what the legal rate was.

The government contends that the records show that all such evidence tending to show ignorance on the part of the defendant was admitted for the consideration of the jury, and objection is here interposed that the Court of Appeals has not correctly stated how the judge ruled on this subject.

Difficult to Make Mistake.

The petition says upon this point:

"It was claimed by the defense that the Standard Oil company did not actually know that 18 cents was the lawful rate to East St. Louis, applicable to these transactions; that its traffic manager, E. Bogardus, had applied to F. S. Hollands, the rate clerk of the Alton, for a rate on oil between the points in question, and in response to his inquiry had been given a paper naming a 6 cent rate on oil to East St. Louis, and had been told that 'the rate had been filed.' This contention, based principally upon the testimony of Bogardus, was met by a series of facts and circumstances tending strongly to disprove his claim that he had made the pretended inquiry and that he was misled by anything which took place between himself and Hollands.

"It appeared that Bogardus was an experienced railroad man. It was almost inconceivable that the Standard Oil company should have been ignorant of the tariff naming the 18 cent rate, a tariff which must have been used in its department in which shipments of less than a car load were handled.

Attack Witness' Credibility.

"The attitude of Bogardus at the trial raised a grave question as to the credibility of his testimony. When this most important matter was first brought to his attention he made no claim that he had ever had a conversation with Hollands such as the one to which he finally testified. He admitted that he had never said to any one connected with the case, although for months he had been in consultation in reference to the preparation of the defense, that he had such a conversation with Hollands until the moment he testified in court.

"He pretended to have had the same evasive and ambiguous conversation with Hollands on three different occasions, a year apart, at which precisely the same language was used with reference to the filing of the 6 cent rate.

"His failure to make any further inquiry after he had in his possession the 6 cent billing order which bore no interstate commerce commission number, and after he had the application tariff which contained a specific reference to tariff No. 24, tended strongly to show, to say the least, that he had been negligent in not availing himself of the sources of information which were open to him.

Lets Jury Decide.

"The trial judge in connection with the admission of evidence, and in charging the jury, ruled that under the statute it was the duty of the shipper, in good faith, and with diligence, to endeavor to ascertain from the carrier the lawful rate by applying at one of its offices or stations; that in law the shipper is chargeable with knowledge of that which he would have ascertained through such inquiry, and will not be permitted to avail himself of the defense of ignorance where that ignorance is the result of negligence or the willful failure to resort to the sources of information which are available.

"Thus the questions whether the defendant had endeavored, in good faith, and with diligence, to ascertain the lawful rate, and whether the result of such inquiry would have enabled the defendant to ascertain the rate, were left with the jury, as questions of fact, and their finding was against the defendant."

It is argued that want of knowledge on the part of Witness Bogardus, who was not a defendant, did not necessarily show that the defendant did not have knowledge of the lawful rate.

Makes Law Mere Phantom.

The government contends that the rule laid down by the Court of Appeals, making it necessary for the government to show beyond a reasonable doubt that the shipper actually knew what the lawful rate was, is an impossible rule; that it is contrary to the purpose of the Elkins act; that it is contrary to the general rule applicable in criminal cases.

"The great evils at which the interstate commerce act was aimed," says the petition, "did not grow out of the misdeeds of the householder or the small shipper, but out of the acts of great industrial corporations, which, through their dictation of the management of railroad companies were, by means of a system of favoritism and discrimination, building up gigantic monopolies and threatening the preservation of industrial freedom.

"To require proof of actual knowledge against such a concern, with its complete business organization, with its secret departments and blindfolded traffic managers, to impose upon it no duty to inquire as to the lawful rate, and yet to permit it to interpose successfully a defense based upon ignorance, is to make of the law a mere will o' the wisp of legislation, a phantom statute destitute of strength or substance."

Asks Thorough Reargument.

The Court of Appeals, the government contends in its petition, has not only misstated the record but also the construction which the trial judge placed upon the statute, and that for this reason there should be a thorough reargument upon the only proposition as to why the ruling of the trial judge, up to the verdict of guilty, is reversed.

Upon this point the petition says that a construction of the statute that is highly promotive of the general good should not be rejected because here and there in improbable cases it may result in hardship to individuals.

"There is another reason why it seems to us that this application for a reargument should appeal to the court," continues the petition. "In the Armour Packing company case the Supreme court expressly stated this question of knowledge and intent as elements of the offense by a shipper. The court said: 'While intent is in a certain sense essential to the commission of a crime, and in some classes of cases it is necessary to show moral turpitude in order to make out a crime, there is a class of cases, within which, we think, the one under consideration falls, where purposely doing a thing prohibited by the statute may amount to an offense, although the act does not involve turpitude or moral wrong. In this case the statutes provide it shall be penal to receive transportation of goods at less than the published rate. Whether shippers who pay a rate under the honest belief that it is the lawful established rate, when in fact it is not, are liable under the statute because of a duty resting on them to inform themselves as to the existence of the elements essential to establish a rate as required by law, is a question not decided because not arising on this record.'"

It is contended that the effect of the construction of the statute announced by the Court of Appeals is to nullify the interstate commerce act so far as the shippers are concerned and to plunge the country again into a deplorable condition of railroad favoritism.

Each Shipment an Offense?

The next question taken up in the petition is that relating to the number of offenses, and the government contends that the Court of Appeals has laid down an erroneous rule for determining this.

The government attorneys take the position that each shipment is the basis of a distinct offense and that in this case each carload was a separate shipment. The Court of Appeals held that there is but one offense for each settlement for freight.

On this point the petition continues:

"In connection with the construction of the statute as to the basis for determining the number of offenses, we respectfully direct the attention of the court again to the decision of the Supreme court in the Armour Packing company case. One of the questions involved in that case was the construction of that portion of the statute providing that every violation of the statute shall be prosecuted within the district in which it was committed, or through which the transportation was conducted.

"Sustaining the contention of the government in that case, the Supreme court held that the act made it penal to procure the actual transportation by any of the means denounced in the act, of goods at a less rate than that named in the tariffs; and that it was, 'the purpose of the act to punish those who gave or received transportation, in the sense of actual carriage, at a concession from the published rate.'"

"Grosscup Contradicts Himself."

The government then indicates how Judge Grosscup in holding that there is but one offense for each settlement for freight, gave an opinion exactly contrary to the rule he had laid down in a previous case. The petition says upon this point:

"And in this same connection we direct the attention of the court to the decision of his honor Judge Grosscup (then District Judge Grosscup), in the case of U. S. vs. Hanley, 71 Fed. Rep., 672, 675, in which, passing upon an indictment, under the original interstate commerce act, charging a departure from published schedules by giving rebates, in which a rebate on a number of shipments had been treated by the government as constituting one offense, it was said, construing the statute as to the proper basis for determining the number of offenses, that 'each shipment, as affected by the subsequent rebate, might constitute an unlawful departure from the schedule rate.'"

Reargument Landis' Right.

The government attorneys contend that the Court of Appeals has done a great injustice to Trial Judge Landis in misstating what he did in connection with the imposition of the fine on the Standard Oil company, saying in this matter:

"It is said that the sentence was not imposed on the basis of facts respecting the defendant before the court, but was imposed because of other facts wholly outside of the record, and that the fine was imposed in an effort to reach and punish a party not before the court.

"The justification for this criticism of the trial judge is summed up in the opinion of this court as follows:

"Briefly stated, the reason of the trial court for imposing this sentence was because, after conviction and before sentence, it was brought out, on an examination of some of the officers and stockholders of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, that the capital stock of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, the defendant before the court, was principally owned by the New Jersey corporation, a corporation not before the court—the trial court adding (upon no evidence, however, to be found in the record, and upon no information specifically referred to), that in concessions of the character for which the defendant before the court had been indicted, and convicted, the New Jersey corporation was not a "virgin" offender.'

Judge Landis' Exact Words.

"In this connection we respectfully call the attention of the court to the exact language of the trial judge at the time of the imposition of the penalty:

"'Of course, on the trial of a defendant for a specific offense this presumption is indulged in favor of that defendant as to that offense, but where, as in this case, the crime charged was the acceptance of a preferential railroad rate, in violation of a law that had been on the books for nearly twenty years; where during a period of eighteen months 1,900 carloads of property were shipped at an unlawful rate, which amounted to but one-third of the rate available to the general shipping public; where the convicted defendant's transportation affairs were in the charge of an expert traffic official of at least ordinary intelligence and many years' railroad traffic experience, and who was a frequent visitor at the general freight office of the railway company; where the unlawful rate was shown only by a paper appearing on its face to be special billing order and which directed that settlement for services rendered at the rate which it authorized should be made through the railroad company's auditor's office instead of at the railway station or freight office, as is done by the general shipping public; and where the defendant, when brought to trial, persistently maintains that the constitution of the United States guarantees to it the right to make a private contract for a railroad rate, this court is obliged to confess that he is unable to indulge the presumption that in this case the defendant was convicted of its virgin offense.'

"It will thus be seen that the language referred to in the opinion of this court was used not with reference to the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey but with reference to the convicted defendant, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana."

The government takes issue with the Court of Appeals wherein it states that Judge Landis' proceeding "amounted to a strange doctrine in Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence," and says that the proceedings of Judge Landis were in accordance with the rules of procedure pointed out by Mr. Bishop in his work on criminal law.

Attacks "Cab Driver Simile."

The government takes issue with the Court of Appeals as to the proposition that a defendant cannot be fined for more than the value of the property which he possesses and states that this rule is an innovation in criminal law, which if applied would destroy the enforcement of most statutes. The petition points out that every day defendants are fined many times more than the value of all the property they possess.

The government maintains that the facts before the Court of Appeals justify the imposition of the penalty inflicted by the trial judge.

"We respectfully call the attention of the court to the statement of the Standard Oil company of Indiana on file in this case, referred to by the court in its opinion and treated as proper for consideration in determining whether or not the penalty was excessive.

"That statement shows, with reference to the assets and liabilities and profits of the Standard Oil company of Indiana the following:

STANDARD OIL CO. (INDIANA).

Year.	Gross assets.	Liabilities.	Profits.
1899	15,154,408	5,004,831	4,195,750
1900	16,077,018	2,736,695	4,981,571
1901	16,435,213	2,963,417	5,379,948
1902	19,794,673	3,806,520	7,515,906
1903	21,277,619	4,585,206	8,753,410
1904	20,087,700	3,052,497	7,792,039
1905	20,743,361	2,435,957	6,521,676
1906	27,502,069	3,178,152	10,516,082

"'May,'" asks the petition, "a concern which through corporate organization and railroad favoritism has established a gigantic monopoly in a territory with a population of millions and concentrated a business many thousand times as large as that carried on by the ordinary citizen plead in mitigation of punishment when called to account for its violations of the law that the number of offenses which it has committed and for which it is required to answer has been in proportion to the magnitude of its business?"

The government then argues that if the penalty prescribed by the Elkins act is unreasonablly severe, it is strange that with a defect so palpable the act should have been repeatedly recognized as constitutional by the Supreme court.

"If this court adheres to its view that the punishment inflicted amounted to an abuse of discretion, and the judgment must be reversed, still it is not necessary for that purpose alone to subject the parties to additional expense and further delay in the proceedings. This court may, in that case, itself name the fine which in its opinion is proper.

Names Errors in Reversal.

"It is therefore respectfully submitted:

"That the opinion of this court is based upon a misconception of the record with reference to the rulings of the trial judge as to the admission of evidence tending to show want of knowledge, and with reference to his construction of the statute on that subject, and the theory on which the case was tried; that the evidence of Bogardus, which, it is claimed, showed want of knowledge, was admitted; that it was overcome, however, by the facts and circumstances of the case, and that the evidence as an entirety was sufficient to show actual knowledge, or what in law was its equivalent;

"That the interpretation of the statute by this court, imposing no duty on the shipper and permitting a defense of ignorance to be made without regard to the negligence of the shipper, is contrary to the language of the statute and to its purpose, and seriously impairs the efficiency of the act;

"That the ruling stated in the opinion as to the basis for determining the number of offenses involves an erroneous construction of the statute and fails to take into consideration that the thing which is prohibited by the act is the transportation of property at the unlawful rate;

"That the criticism of the trial judge for abuse of discretion rests upon a wrong assumption of what the trial judge actually did, and assumes that he attempted to try and punish the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, when in fact, as appears from the record, the entire proceedings were directed against the defendant, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana;

"That the ruling stated in the opinion to the effect that a fine is excessive when it exceeds in amount the ability of the defendant to pay is an innovation in criminal law, and, if generally applied, would prevent the practical enforcement of most criminal statutes;

"That, in short, the opinion, as it stands, erroneously states material portions of the record; does injustice to the trial judge; leaves doubtful in a new trial the rule of law to be applied, both as to knowledge on the part of the shipper and as to the number of offenses; appears to be in conflict with the language of the Supreme court and with the previous language of the presiding judge of this court, and with the great weight of legal authority; and, if permitted to remain unmodified, will tend to encourage disobedience to law, to impede the enforcement of salutary statutes, and largely to defeat their purpose.

"For the reasons stated we respectfully request that a reargument of this case be granted.

Consider Petition in Fall?

The petition was filed in the morning by Chief Clerk William A. Small of District Attorney Edwin W. Sims' office. It is not likely that the three judges of the United States Court of Appeals, Judge Peter S. Grosscup of this city, Judge William H. Seaman of Sheboygan, and Judge Francis F. Baker of Indianapolis, will consider it until the next session of court, which begins Oct. 6.

The petition was prepared by District Attorney Sims and Special Assistant Wilkerson and afterwards was submitted at a conference attended by Attorney General Bonaparte, Solicitor General Hoyt, and Special Assistant Kellogg.

Mr. Sims and Mr. Wilkerson will make their arguments before the Appellate court unless the judges make a ruling without hearing arguments.

Oil Attorney Criticises It.

John S. Miller, who acted as chief counsel for the Standard Oil company, is taking his vacation at Cape Cod, Mass. Merritt Starr, one of Mr. Miller's associates, said:

"The petition contains nothing new. All these points have been thrashed out before. As to the contention that the interstate commerce law is nullified and the way is left open for all sorts of violations by the shipper, it is never good practice to argue consequences. The law is the thing to argue.

"The reference to the contrary ruling by Judge Grosscup will not stand when it is understood that he ruled upon a question that was decided by an altogether different law."

Judge Grosscup, who was at Highland Park in the evening, declined to comment upon the government's petition.

T. JENKINS HAINS ACCUSED BY MAID

Servant Says She Is Mother of Youngest Child of Slayer's Brother.

DENIES MURDER BY PLAN.

Captain and His Accomplice Expected to Return Home, Woman Declares.

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—A new tangle today was placed in the scandal resulting from the killing of William E. Annis by Capt. Peter C. Hains Jr. This latest development does not concern the slayer directly, but does T. Jenkins Hains, the brother who held a crowd at bay while Peter C. shot the man alleged to have broken up his home.

Marie Louise Sulmande, the French maid who has charge of the two children of T. Jenkins Hains at his home, 140 Eighty-sixth street, Bay Ridge, declared today that the younger child, Louise, 8 months old, is her own. The wife of T. Jenkins Hains died in Washington in 1906 and the baby she says is his daughter was born in a Brooklyn hospital in December, 1907.

Marie Sulmande said that T. Jenkins Hains had promised to marry her and that she expected him to keep his promise as soon as he was released from prison after his trial.

Neighbors Knew the Secret?

It has been more or less of an open secret in the neighborhood since T. Jenkins Hains moved to the Eighty-sixth street premises last May that Marie was the mother of the baby. He had not given the little one a name when he first arrived in the neighborhood. The resemblance of the child to the maid gave rise to the rumor that she was the mother, although T. Jenkins Hains had given inquirers to understand that his wife died last January, shortly after the birth of the little one.

Here is the girl's story:

"I came to the United States from the south of France about three years ago as maid to Mrs. General Peter C. Hains. The general and his wife were then living in Washington in K street. Mrs. T. Jenkins Hains was living with them. T. Jenkins Hains—'Tony,' as I know him—was seldom at home.

"When Mrs. Hains died on Jan. 15, 1906, I was given charge of little Mollie, whom I loved as I might my own child. About one year ago Tony and I and little Mollie moved to a house at Cropsey and Twenty-third avenues, Bensonhurst.

"Before that time Tony had asked me to marry him, but he never got to having a ceremony performed. When my baby was about to be born Tony took me to a hospital in Brooklyn. I do not know where it is and I do not know the name of the doctor who attended me.

Denies Murder Was Planned.

"When I became well I went with my baby back to Bensonhurst. We lived there until last May, when we moved up here to Bay Ridge. Tony was worried about something; I suppose about some stories he had heard about his brother's wife.

"Since the baby was born I have spoken to Tony about marrying me, but something has always turned up to prevent it. I know he loves me as well as I love him, and that he will marry me as soon as he gets out of this trouble.

"Tony and his brother did not intend to kill anybody when they left here last Saturday morning. The last thing Tony said to me was:

"'Marie, get a good dinner, because Pete and I will be home early.' I did not know anything had happened until the general came down that night and told me Tony was arrested."

Wife to Be Hains Witness?

The statement that Mrs. Claudia Libbey Hains would appear at her husband's murder trial and would testify in his favor if his lawyers would either destroy or return her confession, was made in Boston late this afternoon by Frederick L. Norton, Mrs. Hains' Boston attorney.

District Attorney Darrin of Queens county called on Controller Metz today and said he would have to have a $10,000 special appropriation for the conduct of his office up to the close of the year. Most of this sum, Mr. Darrin said, was required to pay experts during the Hains trial. Controller Metz told Mr. Darrin the appropriation could not be legally made until the next meeting of the board of estimate and apportionment in September. He advised him, however, to go ahead and incur the expenses and he would move their authorization at the board meeting.

Boy Renounces His Home.

Robert Sullivan, 13 years old, told Judge Walker yesterday afternoon in the Juvenile court that he would rather sleep in the open air on the lake front or be sent to the John Worthy school than live in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sullivan, 934 North Troy street. Probation Officer Phelan told the court the Sullivan home was all that could be desired. "What you need is a good, sound spanking," said Judge Walker, "and you may go to the John Worthy school until you learn to appreciate your home."

THOUSANDS HONOR FAMOUS DEBATERS

he overstepped his political bounds and inveighed abstractly against an institution which concretely he, as well as the new party which he helped to found, was pledged only to restrain and to restrict to the territory in which it then existed.

Son Eulogizes Father and Lincoln.

Mr. Douglas in his address pronounced a eulogy upon the two great debaters. Describing their characteristics he said:

"I knew the one as a boy may know his father, his friend, his playmate and his chum, whom he loved and respected, but had never learned to fear; the other as a boy may know a president who was never too busy to greet him kindly whenever he saw him, to muss his hair, to pull his ears and to say gentle, kindly, nay, tender words of the father who had but lately been taken from him by the hand of death. Through all the passing years the wondrous sweetness of the beautifully ugly face has never left my memory and today I can see, I can feel the infinite sadness of those kindly eyes looking down into mine.

"Yes, I knew both of those men as a child might know them and mayhap the innocence of the child fresh from the hands of God sees deeper into the moral natures of men than does all the wisdom of the world worn sages. I knew them both and loved them both and to me this day brings both sadness and happiness."

Interprets Douglas' Character.

Mr. Davis in his address devoted himself to a eulogy and interpretation of Douglas, praising his support of Lincoln at the outbreak of the war when he urged the necessity of a call for 200,000 troops instead of 75,000.

"I say to you that American history furnishes no higher example of patriotism than the conduct of Stephen A. Douglas in 1861," said Mr. Davis. "There was peculiar pathos in his death. Lincoln lived a finished life; his great mission was accomplished, and he passed beyond the purple hills in the full splendor of an imperishable fame. But Douglas died in the noonday of life, with his life ambition unrealized, with magnificent possibilities yet unfulfilled. The American people owe much to Stephen A. Douglas, and if Abraham Lincoln could speak once more he would gladly pay his antagonist the tribute of praise that belongs to a great and patriotic man."

Conspicuous among the "survivors" was Samuel Parker of 402 West Adams street, Chicago, who appeared wearing a badge of the "La Salle County Young Men's Fremont club" which attracted much attention.

Mrs. Jessie Palmer Weber, secretary of the State Historical society, and Miss Valentine Smith, city archivist of Chicago and representative of the Chicago Daughters of the American Revolution, assisted in the unveiling of the tablet.

MRS. SAGE PLANS WEST POINT GIFT.

Will Present Constitution Island in Hudson as Site for Training School.

LIFT FOR HAVANA WORKS

Contract Signed Provides $16,000,000 for Public Improvements in Cuba.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE,
New York, Aug. 21.

Mrs. Sage to Give Island to Uncle Sam.

It was learned definitely today that negotiations have been about completed for the purchase by Mrs. Russell Sage of Constitution island, in the upper Hudson, opposite West Point, and that Mrs. Sage will present the island to the United States government for the site of a great military preparatory school which will form one of the most important features of the military training establishments at West Point.

Mrs. Sage has had the purchase of the island in view for some time, and while it is known the papers are about to be signed and that some announcement of Mrs. Sage's intention probably will be made within a week no one could be found in the city today who was acquainted with the details. Mrs. Sage's trustee, Robert E. De Forest, who usually arranges such matters, is not in the city.

Whether Mrs. Sage will also furnish the money with which to erect the necessary buildings on the island will not be known until a statement concerning Constitution island is made for her. The 280 acres comprising the island can be bought for about $150,000, it is said, which is considerably less than $1,000 an acre, at which price the property in the vicinity of the island has been selling. It is not considered likely Mrs. Sage intends to furnish the necessary funds for the buildings to be erected on the island or that the government would expect her to do so.

Contracts for $16,000,000 for Havana Improvement.

Nearly $16,000,000, it is estimated, is involved in two contracts that have just been signed here, one providing Havana, the capital of Cuba, with a proper sewer system, and the other for extensive paving of the city. The contracts just signed were between the McGivney & Rokeby Construction company and the Cuban Engineering and Contracting company, and the Uvalde Asphalt Paving company.

Both improvements long ago were advocated and urged on the Havana government after the American occupation, but it was found impossible to raise the necessary funds. Under the influence of Washington a contract at last was entered into, providing that 10 per cent of the republic's revenues be set aside to defray the cost of these works.

Great Pool in Copper Agitates Trade Lines.

According to trade authorities, speculation in copper metal has been an important feature of the recent upturn in prices, from which reactions have occurred within the last week. A pool, which has been operating on the bull side of the copper market, is centered in London and Paris, according to trade authorities, and it is credited with having borrowed as much as $50,000,000 to finance its operations. The National Conduit and Cable company, one of the largest consumers of copper in this country, says in its circular issued today on the effect speculative operations have on the metal market:

"With speculators so heavily interested there is danger of other factors besides legitimate demand playing an important part in the market the next three months. Technical statistical conditions of the copper situation need to be thoroughly sound if the upward movement is to be healthy and sound. Everything possible should be done to broaden demand and increase consumption, and this desirable object can best be hastened by allowing the law of supply and demand free play. If stocks are carried by London operators until the 'bull' movement makes further headway they may succeed in unloading to better advantage, but they will release their holdings sooner or later, and when they do the trade will take notice."

Roosevelt Route to Africa Not Made Public.

Agents of the Union Castle line of steamers that run from Southampton, England, to South Africa were informed today that President Roosevelt and his party will not travel on the company steamers when he goes on his big game hunting trip next March. Arrangements have been made at Washington, but the route from the United States to join an African steamer will not be made public until the last moment, as it is the desire of the president not to have the time and place of his departure boomed from the Atlantic to the Pacific for the next six months.

It is stated on good authority that arrangements have been made for the accommodation of President Roosevelt on the Deutsche Ost-Afrika line of mail steamers which sail from Hamburg every three weeks east and west, and make the voyage clear around the continent of Africa. The western route goes via Las Palmas, German Southwest Africa, Cape Town, Durban, Delagoa bay, Zanzibar, Mambassa, Aden, and back via the Red sea, Suez, Port Said, and Naples to Hamburg. The eastern route goes the reverse direction and makes the voyage from Naples to Mombassa via Suez canal and Aden in seventeen or eighteen days, about half the time occupied going from Las Palmas on the western route.

Real Estate Deal Factor in Theatrical War.

Felix Isman, a wealthy Philadelphia real estate operator, today bought the property at Seventh avenue and Forty-second street, on which Hammerstein's Victoria and the Belasco theater stand, and the indications seem to be that it is the real beginning of a lively fight of the treatrical syndicate, headed by Klaw & Erlanger, with Mr. Isman and David Belasco the opposing forces. The purchase was made from the Davidson estate. The price was not stated. Oscar Hammerstein holds a long lease on both sites, built both theaters, and not long after he completed the New York theater, now owned by Klaw & Erlanger, Hammerstein subleases to David Belasco. In addition to rental, it is said, he gets a percentage of the profits from the Belasco and a private box.

Edward E. Pidgeon, representing Mr. Isman, said the latter intended at once to proceed legally to oust Hammerstein from both sites, on the ground that the clauses of the lease which he, Isman, has taken over have been violated.

"Mr. Isman may have bought the property—I don't know anything about that," said William Hammerstein, son of Oscar and manager of the Victoria, "but he will have to wait sixteen years before he gets into either place."

WRIGHT IN FLIGHT AGAIN

His Aeroplane Repaired, American Tries New Starting Field.

CROWN PRINCE GOES ALOFT.

Frederick William of Germany Makes First Ascension in Army Dirigible.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LEMANS, Aug. 21.—Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, made his first appearance today since his enforced cessation of experiments as the result of the recent accident to his machine. The demonstration this evening was made at Auvours. No attempt was made to accomplish anything in the nature of a long flight, but the evolutions were made with the pilot's accustomed consummate skill. Mr. Wright made two flights.

Twice Traces Figure Eight.

In the first flight the inventor kept the aeroplane unusually low—from four to six yards from the ground. He traced a figure 8, doubling the lower circle. The time was one minute and forty-six seconds. This seemed slower than on previous trials. The lateral stability of the machine seemed to be less.

Mr. Wright made many mistakes with the levers. Once he seemed to be at an angle of sixty degrees with the ground. After his first flight he mounted the starting derrick, watched the wind gauge on top for some time, studying the wind, which seemed gusty and varying greatly in velocity, with intervals of calmness.

At 6:22 o'clock another start was made and the machine described in two minutes and nine seconds a figure 8 with a large lower circle, keeping higher than before, but not exceeding eighteen yards.

Mr. Wright said he never went so fast before. He thinks he made fifty miles an hour with the wind and that he averaged from thirty-six to thirty-nine, but he had no instruments to test his speed. Competent onlookers, however, judged that he never exceeded forty-five miles an hour and averaged thirty-five.

Soldiers Keep Crowds Off.

Mr. Wright's expectations that the distance to Auvours would deter spectators from going there to witness his trials of the aeroplane were not realized, but soldiers were posted to keep the crowds out of the way. One woman enthusiast eluded the vigilance of the soldiers, got behind the shed, and bored a peep hole with a gimlet in order to view the aeroplane and the quarters of the aeroplanist.

Mr. Wright was warmly congratulated today by a French army officer who was present at the trials Mr. Wright made in the United States in 1905. The postal authorities today installed a telephone in the shed for the convenience of Mr. Wright and his associates.

Crown Prince Cruises.

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—Crown Prince Frederick William made his first balloon ascension this evening and maneuvered for a short time a military dirigible machine of the semirigid system. On landing the crown prince said he had thoroughly enjoyed the trip and told Maj. Parseval that he would try that inventor's flexible airship on another occasion when he would remain longer in the air.

Both the crown prince and the crown princess remained for a long time at the airship maneuvering grounds at Tegel. Craft of the military and Parseval types were drawn from their sheds into the open air for their inspection. An officer of the balloon corps and Maj. von Kehler, manager of the airship study corps, explained the technicalities of the respective systems, after which the crown prince decided to make an ascension. As he took his seat in the gondola of a military balloon Maj. von Kehler, a short distance away, went up in a Parseval machine in order to demonstrate the ease of starting, maneuvering and landing.

WOMAN WILL ASCEND.

New York, Aug. 21.—In an effort to make a record aerial trip four women well known in social circles in New York and Philadelphia, it was announced tonight, will make a start in a balloon from the shores of Huntington bay, Long Island, Saturday afternoon Aug. 29. The ascension will be made under the auspices of the Philadelphia Aeronautical society and the balloon to be used will be the 50,000 cubic foot passenger balloon Philadelphia. Accompanying the four women will be Dr. Thomas E. Eldridge and Dr. George H. Simmerman of Philadelphia.

The trip will be made for a unique trophy—the Eldridge-Simmerman women's aeronautical cup, a challenge cup—offered to women of the United States for the best record for distance traveled in one ascension in any air craft. If all goes well it is hoped the party of daring women will reach Maine or Canada before the end of the flight.

TURKISH REFUGEE IN LONDON.

Former Secretary of Sultan Gives Palace View of Revolutionary Movement.

LONDON, Aug. 22, 3 a. m.—The Daily Mail says this morning it has discovered Izzet Pasha, former secretary of the sultan of Turkey, and father of Mehmed Ali Bey, ex-Turkish minister at Washington, refugeeing in London. At the beginning of the recent reform movement Izzet Pasha fled from Constantinople and took refuge aboard the steamer Maria, which, despite the protest of the young Turk party to the British ambassador, sailed for the Mediterranean with the sultan's former secretary as a passenger.

In an interview printed in the Daily Mail Izzet Pasha gives the palace view of the revolution in Turkey. He claims that the commission sent to Salonika to investigate the mutiny of the Third army corps was composed of unreliable men, whose report confirming the disaffection in the corps he distrusted.

He says the situation was such that delay was dangerous and therefore the council of ministers advised the sultan to grant a constitution in preference to risking civil war by sending troops to suppress the alleged mutiny. The sultan willingly agreed, as he always had, as likewise had Izzet Pasha, been in favor of a parliamentary government.

AMERICA RULER OF PACIFIC?

London Daily Telegraph Says Australians Look Upon United States as Defense Against Asiatics.

LONDON, Aug. 22, 3 a. m.—The Daily Telegraph in an editorial this morning, dilating on the vast changes in the politics of the Pacific portended by the magnificent reception Australia has accorded, not to a British, but an American fleet, says:

"It means, and is welcomed by the Australians as meaning, that the United States is determined to secure their position in the Pacific and the demonstration they are giving of the means they intend to employ to keep their position is extraordinarily complete.

"What the people at home have scarcely yet realized is that Europe has practically vacated the Pacific. Not a single battleship belonging to a European power is to be found in any corner of that great ocean, while America has three great squadrons there. The mastery of the Pacific was Britain's only twenty years ago. The rise of Japan on the one hand and the naval renaissance of the United States on the other, have changed conditions and revolutionized Australia's attitude towards problems for national defense."

PROTEST CONGO ANNEXATION.

Reform Association of Boston Lodges Disapproval with Secretary Root at Washington.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 21.—Formal protest against the annexation by Belgium of the Congo independent state was forwarded by telegraph today to Secretary of State Root by the Congo Reform association, a national organization with headquarters in this city.

Holders of Securities Nervous.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 21.—The refusal of the Belgian chamber of deputies to shoulder the debt of the Congo independent state, which was evidenced yesterday when the chamber adopted the treaty annexing the Congo to Belgium, has caused disquietude among the holders of Congo rentes, who are numerous in both Belgium and France. Nevertheless, a deficit in the Congo revenues is regarded as entirely improbable.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—All speed records of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago division of the Pennsylvania railroad were broken today.

A special train carrying Prof. F. E. Turneaure, dean of the engineering department of the University of Wisconsin; Prof. C. E. Crandall of the railway engineering department of Cornell university; and F. M. Graham, the Pennsylvania chemist at Altoona, made a test run from Pierceton to Warsaw, a distance of nine miles. The speed was in excess of 100 miles an hour.

The object was to determine the impact of trains with the rails while running at different speeds. The train making the record run was composed of a locomotive, a coach, and a caboose. The train, in another test, ran ninety-two miles an hour and stopped within 700 feet from where the engineer shut off steam.

BUYS CAR THAT FIXED DESTINY.

Erie Head Gets Conveyance That Started Him as Railroader and Takes It to Ancestral Home.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—President Fred D. Underwood of the Erie railroad has taken another odd step for the decoration of the grounds of the ancestral home at Wauwatosa.

He has purchased an old fashioned electric street car, the first in which he ever rode, and shipped it to Wauwatosa, where it will be set up as an outdoor reading room.

The street car opened his eyes to the possibilities of traffic on rails when he was a boy and turned his attention to railroading.

Mr. Underwood has kept the old homestead, which he visits once a year, in such condition that any of his friends may spend their summers there. There are three tents for overflow visitors.

MADE ILL BY CARPET GERMS

Athlete Transformed Into Consumptive in Making of Rugs.

FIRM BLAMED FOR TROUBLE.

Kentuckian Says Rags He Worked with Were Unfumigated.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Richard Devine was 20 years old when he started to work for the Carroll-Rogers rug manufactory, twelve years ago. He was known as the "Pride of Bullitt street." At the boxing game he was the champion of his ward, and at most every other kind of athletic sport he led.

After twelve years of collecting old carpets and working them into rugs for his firm, his physicians tell him he has consumption. He is broken in health to such an extent that he can no longer earn his livelihood.

Carpets Were Not Fumigated.

Devine declares that no antiseptic treatment was given to the carpets for the purpose of destroying the germs within them.

The young man stated his case to lawyers, and they brought suit against the rug manufactory for $25,000 damages. The company is charged with the liability of Devine contracting tuberculosis while in their employ, through their negligence. It is the first case of this nature ever brought in the local courts.

Forbears Lived Long Lives.

Devine is of Irish descent and all of his forbears have lived to a ripe old age. He deposes that there is no taint of tuberculosis in the blood of the family and that he caught the disease from handling old carpets. He says he did not know the carpets contained germs or that it was unsafe or dangerous to his health to work with them.

It is averred that the plaintiff can never recover from the disease he has contracted and that his life has been materially shortened.

GARDEN CONTEST MAKES CONVERTS.

Letters from Prize Winners Indicate Work of Beautification Will Go On.

TEACHERS ARE ORIGINAL.

Display Individuality in Planting and One Exhibit Captures Third Award.

Although THE TRIBUNE flower garden contest is over, its influence, judging from the tone of a number of letters that have been received, will be far reaching.

It has been suggested that the contestants form a nucleus for the organization of an association of amateur gardeners in this city and possibly something may be done in that direction. It also has been suggested that meetings be held in various parts of the city where lectures on flower and vegetable gardens will be given.

J. H. Gay of 7111 Princeton avenue, writes as follows:

Editor Flower Garden Contest: As winner of one of the prizes for porch displays in the flower garden contest instituted by your progressive and liberal paper, conducted with so much wisdom and zeal, and befittingly brought to a close last night by the meeting in beautiful Fullerton hall, I want to express my thanks to you and all concerned.

I would also suggest that the 400 contestants at once form a permanent organization to assist you in extending this movement next year. This central body could be divided into five smaller groups as per your divisions of the city and could meet regularly for consultation. The three winners of the garden prizes would make first class officers for each.

Continues the Good Work.

W. E. Knudson, 576 North Sacramento avenue, winner of the grand prize for flower gardens, has written as follows:

"As winner of the first prize in the third district in THE TRIBUNE garden contest I desire, on the part of my sisters, brother, and myself, to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the splendid and gratuitous gift given by THE TRIBUNE for something that has repaid us in itself by its beauty.

"We also feel it a great honor to have been awarded the grand special prize offered by the Pulverized Manure company for having the best yard of all those that were entered in the contest.

"We know there is still room for improvement in our yard and intend using part, if not all, of the prize money in further beautifying it.

"We believe we express the wish of the entire city when we say that we hope the results have been so gratifying that THE TRIBUNE will feel justified in continuing these contests and thus aid in making Chicago a city beautiful."

Gardening Its Own Reward.

Miss Isabelle Horton, director of institutional work at the Halsted Street Institutional church, has sent the following letter:

"I want to thank you and THE TRIBUNE for the $10 received as third prize for my window garden. If I had worked for it it might not have seemed so great, but as I only did what I love best to do and had ample reward in the pleasure the plants give to me and our neighbors, this $10 from you is a pleasant little 'windfall' and will afford means for further improvements."

Teachers Make Good Gardeners.

The illustrations that appear in today's edition of THE TRIBUNE are of the gardens that won third prize in the contest.

Miss Hattie Barnard, who took third prize in the first district, with a garden at 527 Pratt avenue, is a school teacher, and it may be said right here that some of the finest gardens and those displaying the most individuality were those that had been planted by school teachers. The perennial flowers displayed in the front of this garden were laid out in an exceedingly tasteful manner. In the rear morning glories covered the fence. It was a simple and restful garden—a garden to enjoy—parklike.

Mrs. Mina Maloney, who was awarded the third prize for flower gardens in the second district, was entitled to much credit, the judges thought, for having attained so much success with a garden in a district where flowers seldom are seen.

Her garden was at 41 South Sangamon street, and, although it was small and she had to carry all the water with which it was irrigated, it was trim and neat and systematically planted, and her care was shown in the walk bordered with bricks.

Old World Ideas Win Prize.

Joseph Botto, 2664 Frink street, had the best vegetable garden seen during the inspection. He was awarded third prize in the third district, not for vegetables, for they were not a part of the contest, but for the combination with flowers. He is an Italian and has brought to this country some of the ideas of floriculture from his native land. He has grapes, peaches, peas, currants, raspberries, and flowers running through the center of the vegetable garden and the whole is well worth seeing.

Dr. J. Wuerth, who was awarded third prize for flower gardens in the fourth district, had the advantage of being in a good locality for the cultivation of flowers and his garden was of an altogether different sort from those in some of the poorer districts. Situated at 3436 Rhodes avenue, the two lots contained a large variety of flowering plants. A small propagating house for plants, where they could be stored in the winter, was a feature of this garden.

WAS DELIRIOUS WITH ECZEMA

On Chest, Back, and Head—Pain, Heat, and Tingling Were Excruciating—Nerves in Exhausted Condition—Sleep Badly Broken.

CURE BY CUTICURA SEEMED LIKE MAGIC

"Words cannot express the gratitude I feel for what Cuticura Remedies have done for my daughter, Adelaide. She is fifteen years of age, and had never had anything the matter with her skin until four months ago, when an eruption broke out on her chest. The first symptom was a redness, and then followed thickening and blisters, which would break and run matter. I took her to a doctor, and he pronounced it to be eczema of a very bad form. He treated her, but instead of being checked, the disease spread. It showed itself on her back, and then quickly spread upwards until the whole of her head was affected, and all her hair had to be cut off. The pain she suffered was excruciating, and what with that and the heat and tingling her life was almost unbearable. She became run down in health, and at times was very feverish, languid, and drowsy, and occasionally she was delirious. Her nerves were in such a low state that she could not bear to be left alone. In spite of the cold weather she would insist on having her bedroom window open, and would lean out on the window-sill. She did not have a proper hour's sleep for many nights. The second doctor we tried afforded her just as little relief as the first, and I really do not know what we should have done if we had not read how Cuticura cured a similar case. I purchased Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, and before the Ointment was three-quarters finished every trace of the disease was gone. It really seemed like magic. Her hair is coming on nicely, and I still apply the Cuticura Ointment as I find it increases the growth wonderfully. Mrs. T. W. Hyde, 1, Ongar Place, Brentwood, Essex, England, Mar. 8, 1907."

BY I. E. SANBORN.

By making the utmost of their opportunities, both offensively and defensively, Chicago's world's champs wrenched their third straight game from the inoffensive Doves and a little more than held their own in the pennant joust, because the Giants didn't play. Final count, 5 to 3, with Boston closing strong.

Reulbach was assigned the job on the slab, but it did not take long to demonstrate he was not keyed up to the proposition. All that he had with him apparently was a horseshoe, for he was tapped for six hits and four bases on balls in a trifle over two innings. But the Doves could get only two runs out of that combination and twice Reulbach got the third man out with the bases full.

When the third inning started in to be a repetition of the other two Manager Chance figured he had let matters run as far as it was safe to go with Big Ed and hurried him to the stables before the luck changed, calling Overall to the slab. Things were all to the bad when "Jeff" took hold, as the Cubs were a run behind and the Doves had two on bases with one out. But the Californian checked the advance of the enemy right there and held it in check stubbornly until the victory was assured. Not until two were out in the ninth did Boston get another chance to score.

Cubs Improve Shining Hour.

In marked contrast to the way the Doves were kept from improving their chances, the Cubs accomplished something in the run making line every time there was a good opening except in the seventh. Lindaman, who opposed Reulbach at the start, was hit in timely fashion, the Cubs getting two safe swats to an inning all the while he lasted, with the exception of one absolute zero in the second round.

Both Cub hurlers were given sterling support and one circus feat by Evers eclipsed anything else in the series from a fielding standpoint. John robbed McGann of a hit in such atrocious fashion in the fourth that no one will blame the Dove first sacker if he "sics" the entire brotherhood of the Black Hand onto the robber. Dan's swat went sizzling past Overall and shot over second base, but Evers threw himself in its path. He had to reach full length to get the ball and fell over as he got it. Then from his lowly position Evers dug his knees into the turf and somehow got purchase enough to throw the ball to first ahead of McGann. The play retired the side with no one on bases, consequently was not as conspicuous as if there had been a run or two depending on the hit. Nevertheless, John was a hero for a few minutes.

Chance First Over Pan.

Chicago was first to score, making a run after two were gone in the first inning. Chance was given a pass and scored when Evers and Steinfeldt followed him with clean singles to left. Evers went to third on Steiny's safety shot, but when a double steal was attempted the ball was relayed through the pitcher in time to get Steinfeldt at second, according to Rigler.

Reulbach apparently couldn't get loosened up until the bases were full. He started by striking out Becker in the first. Bates touched him for a single. Beaumont flied, then McGann singled and Ritchey was passed, filling the bases with two gone. Reulbach warmed up here and struck out Dahlen, much to Bill's disgust. The second was like that only worse. Sweeney blew it open with a three bagger through right center to the boundary and scored on Smith's fly to short center. Lindaman skied, then Becker was passed. Bates laid down a bunt so perfect that he beat it easily and Becker, who had started with the pitch, went all the way to third unopposed. Another pass to Beaumont filled the bases once more with two out. This time McGann was up and popped out.

The third inning started to be worse than that and might have been if Chance had not changed decks. Ritchey led with a double and was sacrificed to third by Dahlen. Sweeney was passed, but Smith scored Ritchey with a safe poke to right. That was the situation when the P. L. called for the new deal. Overall was cheered all the way in from the warming pan. Sweeney helped "Jeff" out of the hole a bit by trying to steal third and getting nipped by a toenail. Lindaman worked Overall for a pass right after, and instead of having a full house with one out, there were only two on bases with two gone. Becker forced Lindaman and the side was out.

Doves Only Flutter.

There was no more hope for the Doves. In the remaining six innings only four of them reached first in safety. Ritchey was hit on the knuckles in the fifth with none out, and, after Dahlen had skied, Claude stole second. Kling's throw went to center and Ritchey dashed for third on it, but Hofman pegged to Steinfeldt, getting him by a city block. Smith opened the sixth and stood around first base while the next three went out. That was how firmly Overall kept a grasp on the situation.

Meantime the Cubs regained the lead in their fourth and held it the rest of the way. Evers started the winning attack with a pass. Steinfeldt nearly beat out his own bunt, advancing Jack. Howard was the hitting kid right there with a double along the left foul line, scoring Evers with the tying run. Tinker popped out, but Kling, who had replaced Moran as receiver when the gunner was switched, drove Del across the plate with a single to left. Overall grounded out.

The fifth saw the Cubs forge two laps farther ahead. Sheckard tore off a single to center with one out and went to second when Chance threw his bat at a wide curve in a hit and run play and grounded out to McGann. Evers gave Sheckard a ride home on a single to center and reached second himself on Beaumont's heave to the plate. Steinfeldt rapped to Sweeney, who fumbled, letting Evers home with the fifth and last run. Steiny tried to steal and was nailed.

Ferguson Checks Champs.

Ferguson went on for the remaining three rounds and only two more Cubs reached first, Kling on a wide throw by Sweeney and Hofman on his own swat to center, which did not count because Artie was doubled up at second after making a heady play on Sheckard's fly to Becker.

Overall struck out two Doves in the ninth, including Manager Kelley, who swatted for Ferguson. Then Bates pulled a three bagger to right center and scored when Beaumont bumped a hit through Tinker. McGann forced Beau for the last out. Score:

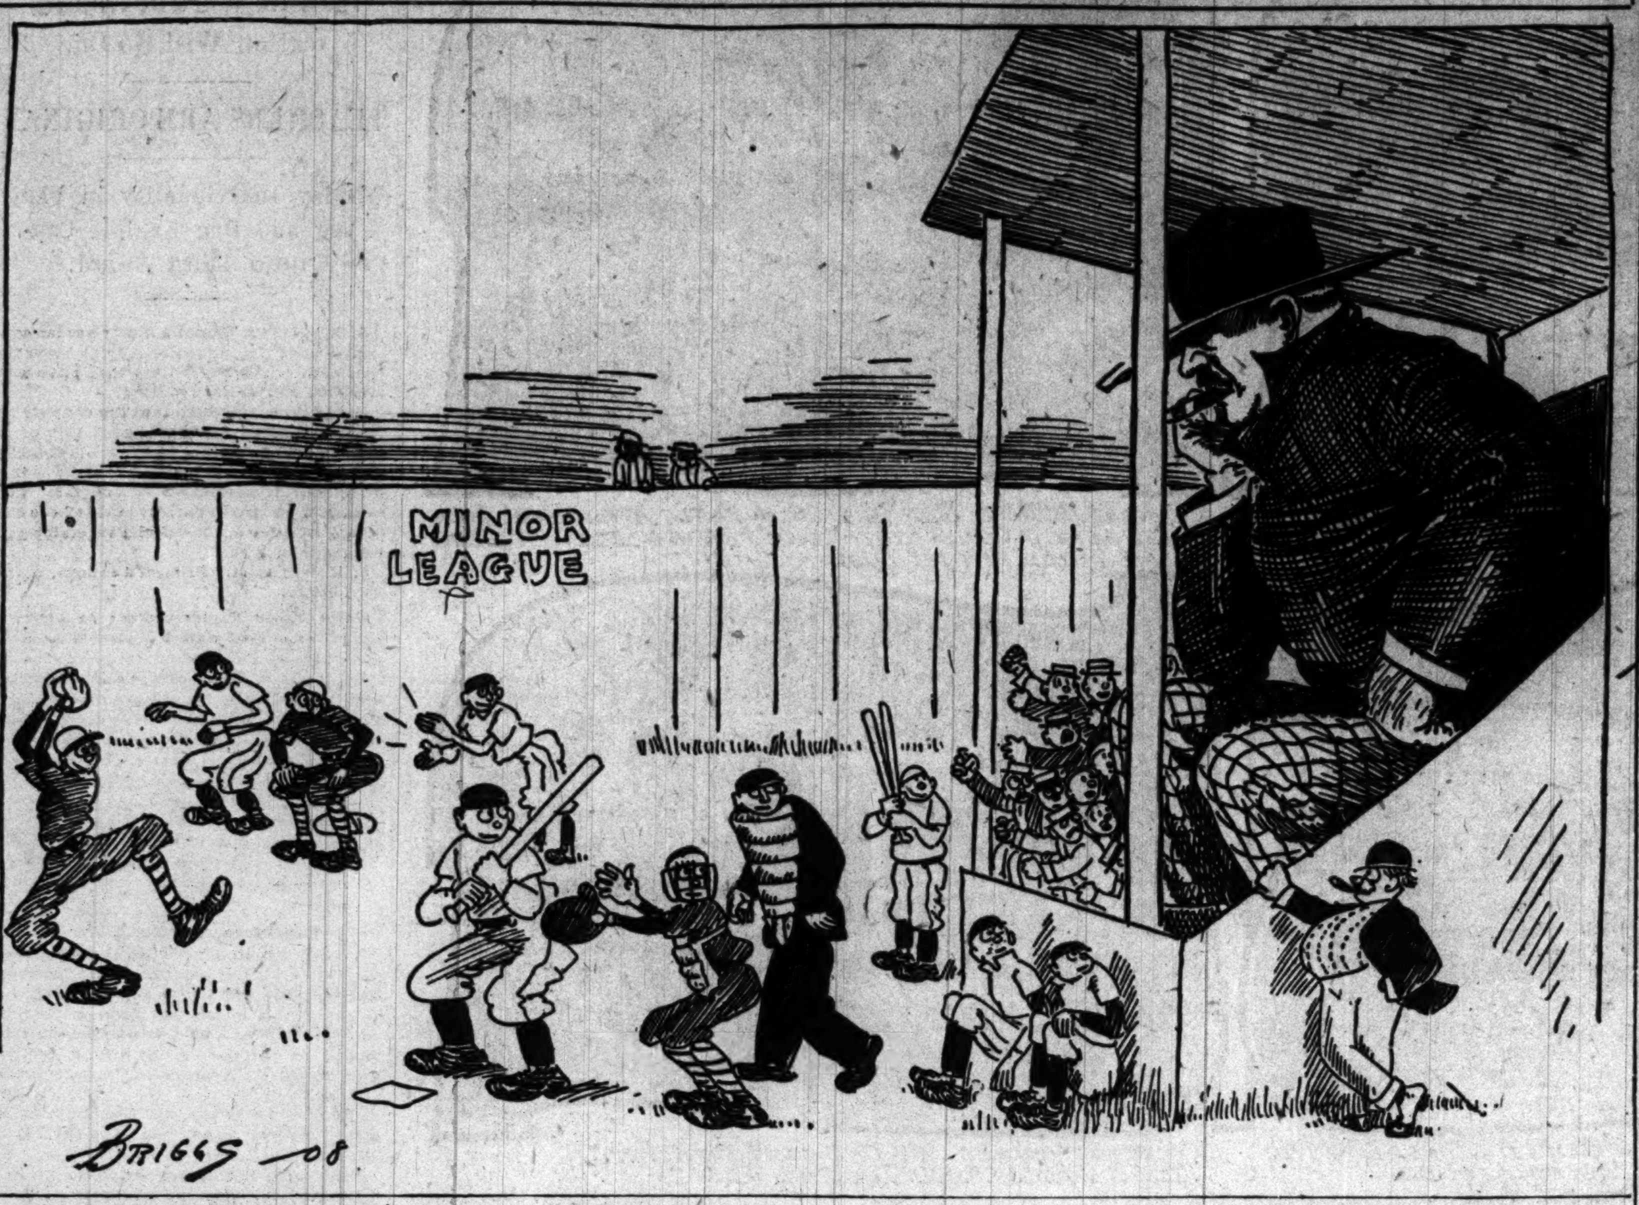
IN THE BYE OF THE MAJOR LEAGUE SCOUT.



NOTES OF THE CUBS.

Boston again today, for the last time here this year.

Gov. Johnson of Minnesota was an interested spectator.

Overall thought he had a hit in the third, but Ritchey went back of second, pinched the ball, and fired it to McGann just in time to get the out.

The gap between Cubs and first place remained at three and a half games, as Pittsburg won, but a slight gain was made on New York, which was idle.

Boston has won only four games from the Cubs this year, fourteen games in the series going to Chicago. There are four more games to play, one here and three in Beantown.

Reulbach may be sent back to try his hand with the Doves in today's game, the alternative being to use Lundgren or Fraser, as Brooklyn will follow with a string of five games in shore meter.

President Pulliam of the National league announced the closing of a deal by which Clarence Owens, for several years mainstay of the American association umpire staff, will be added to the National league corps of arbitrators for 1909.

Hofman pulled one off on Becker in the seventh, then lost out by hard luck. Artie was on first when Sheckard flied to right. He made a bluff to go to second, then stopped a few feet off first. Becker was fooled into lobbing the ball to second, and, as soon as it left the fielder's hand, Hofman dashed for second. He beat the ball all right, but slid past the base and Ritchey tagged him out.

Dahlen pulled off a wise one in the third. Sheckard had just beaten out a hit to McGann because Lindaman failed to cover first. Chance rapped a hot one which the pitcher partially stopped. Dahlen could not get to it in time to retire Chance, so guessed that Sheckard would overrun second and fired the ball back to Ritchey. The guess was correct and Claude put the tag on Jimmy before he could recover his balance.

Three throws were made to the plate and the only good one was the one that had no chance to beat the runner. Sweeney scored on Smith's fly to center in the second because Hofman's heave went wide of the plate. Howard scored from second on Kling's hit in the fourth because Bates failed to bound the ball to Smith, who had to go into the diamond or miss it, and then could not get his man. Beaumont's throw home to get Sheckard on Evers' hit in the fifth was perfect, but Jimmy beat it.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 21.—Pittsburg won a postponed game from Brooklyn today by a score of 2 to 1. The feature of the game was the batting of Maddox, who brought in both runs for the home team. He also pitched a splendid game. Rucker was strong at critical stages. Score:

GREAT FEAT BY A CATCHER.

Charles Street of the Senators Holds Ball Dropped from the Washington Monument.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—Charles Street, catcher of the Washington baseball team, today won a bet of $500 made with John Biddle of this city by performing the unprecedented feat of catching a regulation baseball dropped from the top of the Washington monument. It was necessary to secure a permit from Col. Bromwell, in charge of the monument, before this feat could be undertaken, because of the extreme danger involved.

The ball was dropped from one of the small windows near the top of the monument at a height of 530 feet above the pavement, where Street caught it on the thirteenth attempt, the failures being due to a rather brisk wind, which deflected the ball in its course.

Street was considerably jarred by the impact of the sphere on his big catcher's mitt, but nevertheless caught in this afternoon's American league game in this city.

Paul Hines, Buck Ewing, Charley Snyder, and Malachi Kittredge are a few old timers who have tried this feat without success. The ball, it is calculated, was traveling at the rate of 125 feet per second when it reached the catcher's hands. Street wore a regulation catcher's mitt.

BY CHARLES DRYDEN.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Well, our maddened heroes have at last won a game, but they had to compile seven runs in one inning to do it. In a roughhouse sort of combat in which dust, fur, and profanity flew for more than two hours the Sox mangled Boston, 8 to 7.

It was a wonderful piece of work. What makes the doings all the more magnificent is that the Sox were obliged to overcome a big lead. Those red legged galoots copped five tallies before our side had turned a wheel. Invalid Smith suffered another attack of spinal saffronitis and was thumped into oblivion in two rounds. During that noisy time the locals amassed seven swats and three runs, which were thought to be pretty fair. Then Mr. Altrock took a whirl at being busy and the Beanies put him away in a short while, leaving Walsh to finish the combat. Had it gone much longer there might have been another upset for Burchell, the third relief for Boston, had stopped the Chicago crowd.

Twelve Sox to Bat, Seven Score.

The celebrated pig's knuckle ball, pitched by Mr. Cicotte, did well at the outset. He might have got away with the delicatessen thing but for McConnell. That small chap made a bum play on the second gent up in the fourth and before the stampede ended twelve Sox went to bat, and seven counted. Brig. Gen. Jones whacked a double off Steele that spilled three runs across. Mr. Steele went to the rescue of Mr. Cicotte and Mr. Burchell was obliged to assist Mr. Steele at the expiration of a few minutes.

Both sides called out vast quantities of militia and the bombardment was a feature of the pastime. Twenty-six brave athletes tore off a grand total of twenty-eight swats. The home team outhit our fellows, but they didn't make seven runs in any one inning, and that's where they fell down. A careful analysis of the vital statistics and an autopsy on the twenty-six athletes involved return Mr. Altrock a winner. Nick made a pair of hits and scored the same number of runs, and our side was ahead when Walsh rescued the handsome hurler. Three singles filled the bases after one was out in the sixth and Jones thought it time for another change. Mr. Atz and Mr. Anderson, who went in to pole for other people, made hits, and it was John's wallop in the fourth that broke up the game.

Smith Hears Rappings.

Smith heard a lot of mysterious rappings in the first round that listened like four hits and two runs. McConnell skated a line fly off Parent's hooks for a single. Lord and Thoney smote clean drives, the last one counting Mac, while Lord was caught at second base. Gessler singled and he and Thoney advanced on Smith's wild throw to second. The out of Stahl, short to first, counted Thoney, and D. Sullivan was easy for Parent.

In the second round Wagner clouted a triple to center and came across on Carrigan's single. Cicotte hit into a double play. McConnell singled and stole second. Lord popped to Tannehill.

Frequent cheers greeted the approach of Mr. Altrock in the third, and he, too, heard mysterious rappings to the extent of four hits and two runs. Thoney skied, but Gessler and Stahl whacked safeties. D. Sullivan and Wagner drove in the tallies with a pair of swats. Wagner was caught stealing. Carrigan walked and on his attempted steal D. Sullivan was run down on the home stretch.

Grand Explosion by Visitors.

Then occurred the grandest explosion the Sox have touched off in many days. The echo was heard as far away as Boston Common. Twelve white legs went to bat in the fourth and chased in seven tallies before the dust settled. Davis soaked Mr. Cicotte's knuckle ball for a single. McConnell had an easy chance on Dougherty, but threw wild to first. Donohue walked, filling the bases. Parent struck out and Carrigan dropped the third strike, scoring Davis. Anderson cut in for B. Sullivan with a hit, counting Dougherty and Donohue. Tannehill skied to right. Altrock scratched a single and Hahn got plugged on the wrist, filling up the bases again. Steele relieved Cicotte and Jones raked the new man for a double that emptied the said bases. Davis made his second hit in that round, scoring Jones with the seventh tally. Dougherty poled another safety and Donohue tapped to Steele for the third out.

Southpaw Burchell jumped to the rescue in the fifth and put the Sox down in order. In the sixth they splurged again. Altrock led with a single and Hahn beat a bunt. The runners advanced on a balk and Jones drew a pass, filling the bases. Davis' sacrifice fly brought in Altrock. Dougherty fanned and Donohue forced Davis.

Altrock Fades from Scene.

Altrock's beauty faded from the scene in the local sixth. D. Sullivan singled and was forced by Wagner. Safeties by Carrigan and Burchell filled the sacks and out came Walsh in the great rescue act. The infield out of McConnell scored Wagner, and Lord was thrown out by Davis. The Red Sox peeled off another run in the seventh. Thoney tore off a swat and Gessler walked. Stahl sacrificed. The out of D. Sullivan, second to first, tallied Thoney and sent Gessler to third. Wagner struck out.

In the ninth Davis whacked a triple and Dougherty grounded to McConnell. Donohue fanned and Parent skied to right, leaving Davis yelling for help at third base. After Lord struck out in the ninth Thoney singled and stole. Gessler and Stahl fanned. Score:

NOTES OF THE WHITE SOX.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Record to date—two won, five lost, and one tied.

"Doc" White will trifle with the red legs in the second game of the set tomorrow.

Walsh went back to Meriden, Conn., tonight. His baby is sick and he will stay at home until Monday.

Mr. Isbell's spikes are worn down and he can feel himself slipping. His ankle gives him a lot of trouble which rubbing oil will not abate.

Mr. Anderson expects to do some visiting at Worcester, Mass., and Mr. Parent will be a pleasant caller at Sanford, Me., on the Sabbath.

In the first half of the fourth a bleacher inmate threw a fit. Nurse Buckner revived the victim and asked him what was the matter. "Good Lord!" he said, "look at them seven runs!"

"Handsome Nick" Altrock blew in this morning on the crest of a cold wave. His bumped shoulder was feeling pretty good, he said, and the southpaw looked in excellent condition.

"Uncle Cy" Young was not made purse proud by the receipts of the recent benefit game. His stipend was about $7,000, which has been invested in sheep and hay rakes for the farm at Peoli, O.

An epidemic of colds has attacked the lungs of the White Sox. Walsh is in bad shape and taking quinine, and Jones is troubled with pains in his throat and chest. Weather changes hit athletes hard.

ROWDY TIME AT DES MOINES.

Umpire Arrested, Riot, and Hurry Call for Police Make Plenty of Excitement—No Game Played.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 21.—An umpire arrested, a riot, and a hurry-up call for the police combined to make today's baseball game between Des Moines and Sioux City the shortest on record this year.

President John F. Higgins of the Des Moines club demanded that Umpire Brennan show his credentials before he proceed with the game. He refused, whereupon Higgins sent an officer into the field to arrest him. As the officer marched the umpire away he shouted over his shoulder: "I hereby forfeit this game to Sioux City, 9 to 0."

Then the crowd took a hand and it began to shout and clamor for its money back. It made a swoop upon the box office with such vigor that the police were called. Order was then restored and the money refunded. The umpire was taken to the police station and later released on bonds. Brennan threatens suit for false arrest. Brennan and Higgins have had trouble before.

ASK HAYES TO ENTER CONTEST.

I. A. C. Committee Seeks Olympic Marathon Winner as Attraction in Local Event of Next Month.

Chairman Zeller of the athletic committee of the Illinois Athletic club has written to John J. Hayes of New York, winner of the Olympic Marathon, asking him to compete in the local event on Sept. 19. No reply has as yet been received from the easterner, but the local club has hope of securing Hayes, who would be a popular attraction for the thousands who will watch the course of the runners in their twenty-five mile journey from Ravinia park to the Michigan avenue clubhouse.

Nat Emerson of Cincinnati Keeps in Running; Matches Are Easily Won.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—Of the great entry list of 145 players who started in the all comers' tournament on the Casino courts for the right to challenge the present national tennis champion, William A. Larned, only eight remained in the running at the close of today's play.

The fifth round was completed and tomorrow, in the sixth round, F. B. Alexander of New York will meet F. J. Sulloway of Boston; W. J. Clothier of Philadelphia will play against G. F. Touchard of New York; Nat Emerson of Cincinnati will be pitted against J. D. E. Jones of Providence, and Beals C. Wright of Boston will have for his opponent H. Torrance Jr. of New York.

All these men came through their matches today without being called upon to extend themselves greatly, with the exception of Touchard, who fought and won a long uphill contest against his heavier opponent, H. L. Westfall of New York.

The experts were predicting tonight that the close of the week would see Wright, Clothier, and Alexander qualified for play in the semi-finals next week, while the result of the Emerson-Jones match was in considerable doubt. Only the most unexpected upset can prevent the final match from resolving itself into a battle between Wright, who held the national title in 1905, and Clothier, who won the same honor in 1906. Either of these men should give Champion Larned plenty of work to do to retain his title. Summaries:

Fourth round—W. J. Clothier, Philadelphia, defeated J. O. Ames, Providence, 6—2, 8—6, 6—3. N. Emerson, Cincinnati, defeated C. M. Bull, New York, 6—4, 6—5, 2—6, 6—8.

Fifth round—B. C. Wright, Boston, defeated C. Hale, Providence, 6—1, 6—1, 6—1. F. J. Sulloway, Boston, defeated H. C. Martin, New York, 1—6, 7—5, 6—0, 6—4. G. F. Touchard, New York, defeated A. L. Westfall, New York, 9—7, 2—6, 5—7, 6—2, 7—5. J. D. E. Jones, Providence, defeated R. Stevens, Hoboken, 6—1, 6—1, 6—3. H. Torrance, New York, defeated R. L. James, Chicago, 6—4, 6—2, 6—3. F. B. Alexander, New York, defeated Dean Mathey, Princeton, 7—5, 6—1, 6—4. W. J. Clothier, Philadelphia, defeated G. M. Church, Columbia, 6—2, 6—2, 6—1. Nat Emerson, Cincinnati, defeated G. H. PETERS VICTOR BY DEFAULT.

Dr. Blatherwick Forced to Retire from Final Match with Chicago Player at Omaha by Nervousness.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 21.—The finals in the championship singles today proved a disappointment. Dr. Blatherwick, who was opposed to Peters of Chicago, had played two hard matches in doubles before going into the contest. When the first set was ended he was attacked by a nervous stroke which forced him to retire.

The set furnished some of the fastest tennis seen during the tournament in which the two men were on almost equal terms. Peters graciously offered to postpone the deciding set, but the referee ruled that this was not permissible, and gave Peters the match by default. Peters will meet Champion Hayes, also of Chicago, tomorrow afternoon.

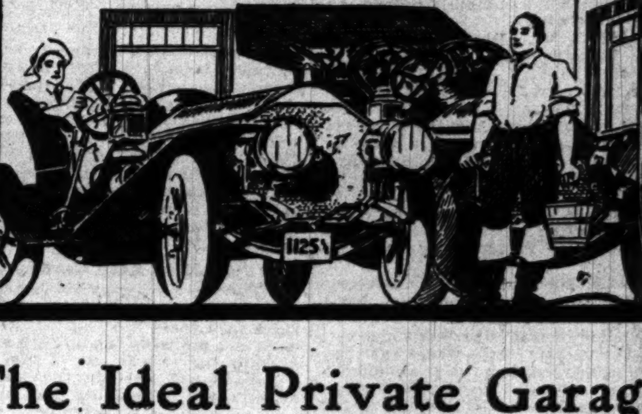
The championship doubles reached the final round, which will be played tomorrow morning by Jones of St. Louis, who is paired with Scribner of Omaha, and Blatherwick of Rock Valley, Ia., and Branson of Mitchell, S. D. The winners of this match will meet Peters and Hayes for the championship.

Olympic Weight Men Return.

New York, Aug. 21.—Among the passengers who arrived today on board the steamer Celtic from Liverpool and Queenstown were Ralph Rose of the Olympic club of San Francisco and Matthew McGrath and John Flanagan of the Irish-American Athletic club, New York, members of the American team which competed in the Olympic games in London.

Chess Experts Still Fatigued.

DUSSELDORF, Aug. 21.—Owing to the fact that Dr. Tarrasch was still fatigued from the effects of the two games in the chess championship played recently with Dr. Lasker, no game was played today.



The Ideal Private Garage

should contain both a touring car and a town car—in the interest of economy. Before the day of motor cars, any well equipped stable held two or more vehicles for family use. Suiting the vehicle to its use is even more necessary in motoring, because power and capacity enter in, and they are expensive items to misuse. It is wasteful, for instance, to ride to the office or shop in a big touring car. A runabout will serve the purpose better at much less expense. And it is decidedly advantageous to have all of your cars of the same make. You and your chauffeur understand them better.

Lipton Aquatic Carnival Ends Today. Turf. Pugilism. Archery.

WIND FAILS BOATS IN YACHT EVENT.

Match Race Between Vencedor and Valmore Declared "No Contest."

JUST MISS TIME LIMIT.

Tramel's Big Sloop Has Slight Advantage Over Thompson's Schooner.

WATER CARNIVAL PROGRAM TODAY.

- 2:30 o'clock—Start of Chicago Athletic association open regatta. Guest steamers Kansas and Petoskey leave dock east end Randolph street viaduct at 2 o'clock. Tickets, 50 cents.
- 3:30 o'clock—Rowing and swimming races, basin in front of Columbia Yacht club.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

Lack of wind on one leg of the course yesterday robbed Commodore George Tramel's Vencedor of the Chicago Athletic association of a victory over President William Hale Thompson's Valmore of the Illinois Athletic club in the match race between the two crack yachts.

The big mahogany sloop and the bigger white schooner fought a titanic battle over a twenty mile course, under the auspices of the Chicago Yacht club, but at the end of it they finished nearly twelve minutes outside the time limit of four hours, and the match was declared "no race" by the judges.

Vencedor would have been the winner had the pair finished within the prescribed time, as its allowance of two minutes and thirteen seconds over its larger and more heavily canvased rival gave the C. A. A. racer the slender margin of thirty-one seconds over the great I. A. C. double sticker, which crossed the finishing line one minute and forty-two seconds in the lead.

The duel between the schooner and the sloop was the outcome of increased but good natured rivalry following the 335 mile race to Mackinac, when Valmore wrested the coveted long distance trophy from Vencedor. In that event it was claimed by some of the C. A. A. members that Valmore won largely through the fact that the Thompson schooner got more favorable slants of wind, and the match yesterday was made to settle the supremacy of the two yachts over a shorter course, where each would be on an equal footing.

Race Is Remarkably Close.

Although the race ended without a decision it was a contest that proved to be one of the most exciting features of the present yachting carnival week, as a closer race between large yachts was never seen on fresh water. They raced side by side over the entire twenty-one miles of water and the outcome made it certain that another match will be decidedly interesting.

The start was marked by some clever jockeying for position between William Hale Thompson, who held the stick on Valmore, and Abe Burrell, who was at the tiller of Vencedor. Burrell was called upon to handle his old charge after Skipper George McCullough found that business would prevent him from sailing Vencie. The pair were luffed at the line awaiting the gun, and when it sounded Burrell put Vencedor over in the lead for a fine start. Valmore crossed thirty-two seconds after. The wind during the race was fluky, but at the start it came from due west at about eight miles an hour.

After going over Valmore luffed up to weather of Vencedor and in five minutes had passed the Tramel sloop. At first both carried spinnakers, but the wind hauled and the light canvas was doused. Later the wind headed them, and there was so little of it that both lay nearly becalmed for some time. When the wind again freed them Valmore again broke out the spinnaker. Vencedor picked up the breeze first and came up on even terms, and held it for most of the distance to about two and one-half miles beyond the four mile crib, which Valmore rounded fifty-seven seconds in the lead.

The second leg lay around the Hyde Park crib and they started for it practically even. The crews worked like beavers setting different sails, and the shifting wind kept them busy. Valmore set its main topmast staysail and could not carry it, while Vencedor had up a reaching jib topsail, which soon was changed to a baby jib topsail. Vencie held to Valmore like a bulldog and would not be shaken. Valmore rounded the Hyde Park crib one minute and fifty-four seconds ahead, but after turning Vencedor made it up by working to windward.

Great Finish by Rivals.

It was a close haul to the finish, though at the end each was compelled to make a short hitch in order to make the gap. Valmore kept the lead, though it was a slight one, and the Thompson schooner was unable to increase it. Burrell was sailing Vencedor a masterly race and getting every ounce out of the great C. A. A. sloop. Toward the finish it breezed up and the pair made about nine or ten miles an hour, but the soft spots they had encountered earlier in the race had delayed them so that the time limit expired nearly twelve minutes before the finish.

The race was made remarkable by the fact that the yachts were given no windward work on any of the three mile legs. William Hale Thompson expects to leave today with Valmore for a cruise in Georgian bay and upon his return another match will be sailed. Summary:

	Start.	First buoy.	Second buoy.	Finish.
Valmore	2:00:20	4:21:43	5:17:46	6:11:50
Vencedor	2:00:48	4:22:40	5:19:40	6:13:32

Other Events Today.

The judges were Charles E. Kremer, Charles W. Schick, and Marshall D. Wilber.

This is to be another big day of the yachting carnival week, and events will hold the attention of the yachtsmen all day. Swimming, rowing, and motor boat races will be held off the Columbia Yacht club this afternoon, while at the same time the yachts will start in the big open regatta of the Chicago Athletic association. The carnival festivities will end tonight with a monster banquet at the I. A. C., at which 1,000 guests are expected. The Lipton cup will be presented to the Chicago Yacht club at the banquet.

The feature of the afternoon is to be the C. A. A. regatta, which has been entered by practically every racing yacht in Chicago. The skippers of the boats in other classes, who have been crowded to the background during the recent Lipton races will have their innings, and the contests in the various divisions should prove interesting. It is expected that upwards of seventy-five yachts will start. Among the entries are those of the twenty-one footers that raced for the Lipton cup, including the trophy winner Chicago of the Chicago Yacht club. The first class starts at 2:30 o'clock.

Two guest boats, the steamers Kansas and Petoskey, will leave the dock at the foot of Randolph street at 2 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

Cleveland of the Cleveland Yacht club and Fred Price's Spray of the C. A. A., which competed for the Lipton cup, will be shipped this afternoon to Detroit, where they are entered in the races for the Walker cup. G. H. Atkin of the Chicago Yacht club announced last night that the Nutting cup races have been postponed two weeks and that they will be sailed Sept. 11, 12, 14, and 15. The I. A. C. open regatta will be held on one of the relinquished dates—Saturday, Aug. 29. The Saddle and Cycle club has chartered the new Duluth Yacht club twenty-one footer, built in this city by Cuthbert, and the north shore club will enter it in the Nutting cup races.

Mary Williams, the 10 year old Chicago archeress, captured her initial first place medal when she won the women's handicap with a total of 510 points. Miss Case was second.

EVENTS TODAY END CARNIVAL.

Elaborate Program Is Arranged for the Windup of the Lipton Cup Week.

An elaborate program of aquatic events has been arranged for by the entertainment committee in charge for the windup of Lipton cup week, which will be held this afternoon off the Columbia Yacht club. Rowing races of all classes will be on the list, as well as a full list of swimming races.

The important event of the afternoon will be the naval cutter race between the Culver academy crew and the Illinois naval reserve oarsmen. The crack academy boys arrived in town last night for the race and although they are not making any predictions as to the outcome it is evident that they expect to administer another defeat to the local crew such as they did when the two met at Culver, Ind., early this summer.

Besides the cutter races there will be a number of contests between rival crews from the Chicago Boat club, which will send its entire fleet of eights, fours, doubles, and singles to take part in the carnival. Gigs and barges also will figure in the racing, along with a number of canoes. The latter events should prove interesting, as a number of the best paddlers of the North Shore club will start.

In the swimming line practically all of the best water men in the city have entered and the fight for first place is likely to be between the Illinois Athletic club and the Chicago Athletic association representatives. The entries for the swimming contests are as follows:

500 yard swim—Griffin, Evanston Y. M. C. A.; Winans, H. C. Watts, William Bird, W. S. Merriam, Chicago Athletic association; Guhl, Chicago Swimming club; Johnson, Frizelle, Weber, Chilville, Jensen, Jaeger, Illinois Athletic club; Johnour, unattached.

100 yard back stroke—Olsen, Watts, C. A. A.; Jaeger, Jenssen, Swatek, Illinois Athletic club.

100 yard handicap—Bird, Merriam, Edwards, Healy, C. A. A.; Lindquist, West Side Y. M. C. A.; C. Michaels, Elliott, Frizelle, H. Michaels, Jaeger, Bell, Chilville, Hebner, I. A. C.

100 yard breast stroke—Rohde, Bomamen, C. A. A.; Olsen, Central Y. M. C. A.; Lindquist, West Side Y. M. C. A.; H. Michaels, Jaeger, Jensen, Swatek, I. A. C.

200 yards—Foster, Quayle, Edwards, Healy, C. A. A.; Griffin, Evanston Y. M. C. A.; Frizelle, Jaeger, Chilville, Hebner, I. A. C.

The handicaps for the 100 yard swim will be as follows: H. J. Handy, I. A. C., scratch; W. T. Healy, C. A. A., 5 seconds; W. S. Merriam, C. A. A., 5 seconds; R. E. Frizelle, I. A. C., 6 seconds; A. Jaeger, I. A. C., 6 seconds; L. L. Chilville, I. A. C., 6 seconds; Frank Bell, I. A. C., 6 seconds; Roy Lindquist, West Side Y. M. C. A., 7 seconds; Frank Elliott, I. A. C., 8 seconds; W. Bird, C. A. A., 9 seconds; Charles Michaels, I. A. C., 10 seconds; H. Michaels, I. A. C., 10 seconds; R. E. Edwards, C. A. A., 11 seconds.

FINISHES FIRST, LOSES RACE.

Tomahawk Shows Speed in the Lake Minnetonka Regatta, but Troubadour Wins on Points.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 21.—The inland lake regatta came to a close this afternoon on Lake Minnetonka, Tomahawk of the Minnetonka Yacht club coming in first in the class A event. Troubadour of White Bear wins first place in this class, however, as it finished fifth and succeeded in making enough points to land the championship. Butterfly of Minnetonka is the class B champion, and Skip, also of Minnetonka, is winner of the class C series. A strong gale was blowing in the afternoon and Tomahawk's time of 1:39:37 is extraordinary.

Player Injured During Game.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—While coaching on the third base line in today's game Tim Flood of the St. Paul team was run into by Third Baseman McCarthy of the Toledo team, and the former's cheek and jaw bones were broken and his nasal bone fractured by the impact with McCarthy's head. Flood probably will be out of the game for the remainder of the season.

BAY STATE SHOOTERS BEST.

Sixth Massachusetts Team Again Wins at Camp Perry.

NOW OWNS THE $500 TROPHY

Easterners Capture Regimental Rifle Championship for Third Year.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 21.—The regimental championship rifle shoot of the United States was won today by the Sixth regiment of Massachusetts. By winning for three years the Massachusetts team gets permanent possession of the $500 trophy. The Massachusetts team made a score of 775 at the 1,000 yard range. The Fifth regiment team of Maryland was second with 769 and took the silver medal.

Final stages of the Herrick prize competition saw a close finish, the United States Marine corps winning with 1,647 points. Pennsylvania was second with 1,643 and Ohio's first team third with 1,642.

The service revolver match, held by the Ohio association, was won by the United States cavalry by a total score of 821.

These events concluded all of the preliminary shooting incident to the contests to be held under the auspices of the United States army, which will begin next week. The range was turned over today to Lieut. Col. R. K. Evans of the general staff, U. S. A. Fifty-one teams have been entered in this contest, representing the army, navy, marine corps, military and naval academies, and the national guard of all the states and territories of the United States excepting three—Nevada, Idaho, and Florida. There will be individual and team matches for the congressional trophy, Mars, the Hilton trophy, and the famous Soldier of Marathon prize. There also will be cash prizes, which are offered by congress.

The ten who headed the list for the Herrick trophy scored as follows:

U. S. marine corps No. 1, 1,647; Pennsylvania, 1,643; Ohio, first team, 1,642; Massachusetts, first team, 1,639; U. S. marine corps No. 2, 1,638; U. S. navy, first team, 1,637; U. S. infantry, 1,635; U. S. infantry, second team, 1,617; Massachusetts, second team, 1,617; U. S. cavalry, second team, 1,593.

The ten leaders in the regimental championship match are as follows: Sixth Massachusetts, 775; Fifth Maryland, 769; Second Ohio, 762; U. S. naval academy team No. 1, 758; Sixth Oregon, 748; Second New Jersey, 748; Second Washington, 744; Sixth Ohio, 743; U. S. naval academy team No. 2, 743; Third Oregon, 736.

Scores in the Ohio service revolver match were: U. S. Cavalry, 821; Ohio service team, 758; United States Navy, 755; District of Columbia, 742; Squadron A, New York, 722; Kansas, 687.

SOCCER WATER POLO IS LATEST.

New Contest May Take Place of American Game at C. A. A. and I. A. C. This Winter.

Soccer water polo may take the place of the American game at the Chicago Athletic association and the Illinois Athletic club this winter as a result of the action of the New York Athletic club in forbidding the playing of water polo under the present rules in its clubhouse. Hereafter the mercury foot swimmers must play the English game of passing the ball or not at all.

The action was taken as a result of the rough play and injuries which followed intercity contests, especially the contest with the Cherry Circle team last spring, when the local athletes refused to continue because of the fouls and rough play. In these games rough play has been the rule and the feeling passed beyond the stage of mere club rivalry.

It is thought the so-called soccer game will minimize the undesirable features of the contests.

MOTORBOAT DIXIE II. WINNER.

Captures Race for Gold Challenge Cup, Covering 30 Mile Course in 58 Minutes—Contest on Chippewa Bay.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Covering the thirty mile course on Chippewa bay in the fast time of fifty-eight minutes, the motorboat racer Dixie II., owned by E. J. Schroeder of New York and entered in the name of the Thousand Islands Yacht club, today won the second of the series of races for the gold challenge cup, thus putting two races to its credit.

As in yesterday's race, Chip III., defender of the cup for the Chippewa Yacht club, was the boat Dixie had to beat. Chip kept close to Dixie throughout the race and at the end was only seven seconds in the rear. There were four other boats in the race, Jan finishing third, Pirate fourth, Stranger fifth, and Pawnee last.

It is now the opinion of yachtsmen that Dixie will win the cup. Dixie won the great international cup race at Huntington, L. I., recently.

TEST OF AUTO FIRE VEHICLES.

Feature of Southwestern Firemen's Meeting First of Kind Held in the United States.

Joplin, Mo., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The first race of automobile fire apparatus ever held in the United States will be given here on Sept. 10 when the Southwestern Firemen's association will hold its annual tournament. The association is composed of Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas, and Missouri firemen. Several endurance tests will be made, as this city was the first to adopt the new apparatus, excluding the horse drawn machines. Other cities of the state have followed the example and machines from St. Louis, Springfield, Vincennes, Ind., and New York are expected to compete.

The story of the trip will be told by illustrated lectures.

Ketchel Draws the Color Line.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 21.—Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion of the world, will not fight Sam Langford or any other colored scrapper, no matter what the inducements are, as long as Joe O'Connor is his manager. O'Connor says: "I can settle the matter for the present by saying that Ketchel will not box a colored man while I have anything to do with him."

Sheepshead Bay Racing Magnates Reported About to Declare Off Meeting.

INCLUDES THE FUTURITY.

Directors of the Club Said to Fear Indictment by Special Grand Jury.

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—There was a report current among horsemen of the Empire City track today that at a meeting of the directors of the Coney Island Jockey club to be held tomorrow morning it will be decided to declare off the fall race meeting at Sheepshead Bay.

According to well posted turfmen who are responsible for the report there was a stormy meeting of the directors several days ago, at which the prevailing sentiment was opposed to any further operations at the bay course. It is said by these men that attorneys for the Coney Island Jockey club were anxious to have the meeting go on and that they have advised the directors to go ahead.

But it is further stated several directors, rather than run the risk of being indicted by the special grand jury that will sit in Kings county next month, are unalterably opposed to the meeting. It also is said, in view of the fact the Coney Island Jockey club lost $150,000 on the spring meeting at the bay, it is deemed advisable not to incur a similar loss, and to avoid such a thing all stakes, including the Futurity, should be declared off.

Furthermore, it stated other men powerful in the affairs of the Coney Island Jockey club thought it would be a good plan to run off the stakes with cheap overnight purses and see to it no betting of any kind be permitted on the grounds.

MORE ARRESTS AT RACETRACK.

Yonkers City Police Take Three Men Into Custody on Charge of Accepting Bets.

Yonkers, N. Y., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Detectives Wilson, Higgins, and William Roth of the Yonkers police department this afternoon arrested three men at the Empire City race track on charges of taking bets. The accused persons are Matthew Wolfgang, John S. Loschman, and George M. Thompson. Wolfgang had $1,068 in his possession and records of bets were found on each of the three prisoners. They were admitted to bail. Next Tuesday morning will be bookmakers' day at the Yonkers City court, inasmuch as all the gambling cases are set down for that day. Thus far there are a dozen cases for District Attorney Winslow, the prosecuting lawyer.

Atkin May Race in France.

New York, Aug. 21.—J. P. Atkin, a partner of Barney Schreiber in the latter's racing stable, who returned from Europe today, said he would take up racing in France should anti-betting legislation be successful in California. Mr. Atkin added the racing men of California were preparing to make a hard fight against anti-betting measures, the introduction of which had been promised.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Joseph A. Murphy is slated for the presiding judgeship at the Arcadia race track at Los Angeles this winter. Col. A. W. Hamilton, who has occupied the position in the past, will act as associate.

McChesney, the popular "Big Mac" of the local tracks when racing was tolerated in Chicago, was included in the Haggin-Keene shipment of stallions and brood mares from New York to South America Friday.

Certain turfmen at Fort Erie are reported to be contemplating a boycott on tracks which install the pari-mutuel betting machines. The report may be accepted for what it is worth, but to a man up a tree it appears as if they would be lucky to race anywhere.

Racing out Seattle way is prospering these summer days, the number of bookies cutting in averaging about twenty-five. Fast time is being recorded. Fern L. recently equaled the American mile record of 1:37 2-5 which was held jointly by Dick Welles and Kramesha.

William Rabb, associated with the unsavory half mile tracks at New Orleans, is in Chicago and is credited with an intention to try to open a track within striking distance of Chicago. The prospects are about on a par with other chimerical schemes to revive the sport in this vicinity.

"YOUNG" OTTO WINS QUICKLY.

New Yorker Thumps the "Montana Kid" Into Slumberland in Just 60 Seconds at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—"Young" Otto, the New Yorker with the big kick, used sixty seconds of his time tonight in thumping the "Montana Kid" into slumberland at Jeffries' arena. Montana must have had a premonition of the fate about to overtake him, for the utmost persuasion was required to prevent him from withdrawing when shown this afternoon that Otto could not make the weight. Baron Long gave the "Kid" a bonus of $50 and split the purse to induce him to enter the ring. Danny Webster led in all the twenty rounds and was given the decision over Billy Snailham.

LANGFORD FOR PAPKE'S PLACE?

Jeffries Starts Negotiations to Have the Negro at Ringside on Labor Day to Fight Ketchel.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Jim Jeffries evidently fears that his Ketchel-Papke fight is not going to come off. That is the only explanation that can be given for the telegram Sam Langford's manager received from Jeffries today, asking if he could guarantee that Langford would weigh 158 pounds at the ringside on Labor day for a bout with Ketchel, and asking if he would sign for the match if the money considerations could be arranged. Langford's manager accepted the offer and tonight received a message from Jeffries to come on to the coast at once to fix up the arrangements.

PUTS HORSE IN THE 2:10 LIST

Close Finishes the Order in Closing Events of Meeting.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Close finishes were in order in the last day of the Grand circuit meeting at the Hudson River Driving park this afternoon. The first heat of the 2:14 trot developed the most sensational finish of the week. The Aloma led handily to 100 feet of the wire, when Geers, back of Loyal, made one of his old time drives and fairly lifted his horse under the wire, winning the heat in 2:10¼, which was a quarter of a second better than his winning time last week.

Loyal won the second heat with more to spare and entered the select 2:10 list by making 2:09¼. Loyal never was in serious danger in the third heat.

The 2:20 trot, although a straight heat affair, was by no means one sided. Cereal, the winner, had to fight Nelcyone most of the time, and the latter was a fair bidder for the first heat when she broke. Summaries:

RUNAWAY IN DAVENPORT RACES.

Red King Dashes Around Track Five Times Before Being Stopped—Meeting Comes to Close.

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The Great Western circuit races, the most successful held in Davenport for years, closed today with a featureless program.

In the 2:08 pace, while coming down the track for the word Red King bolted and Driver Buckbee of Rockford, Ill., was thrown, but escaped injury. All the horses were called back, but Red King, driverless, kept on going. Every effort known to horsemen to stop the runaway horse was brought into play. Blankets were spread across the track, but the horse plunged through them and it was not until J. B. Chandler got out Dido, pacemaker for Minor Heir, that Red King was brought to a stop after encircling the mile track five times.

The judges allowed twenty minutes for Buckbee to secure a new sulky and Red King was again started. The strain, however, proved too severe and she broke and was distanced. Don Roma won the race. Summaries:

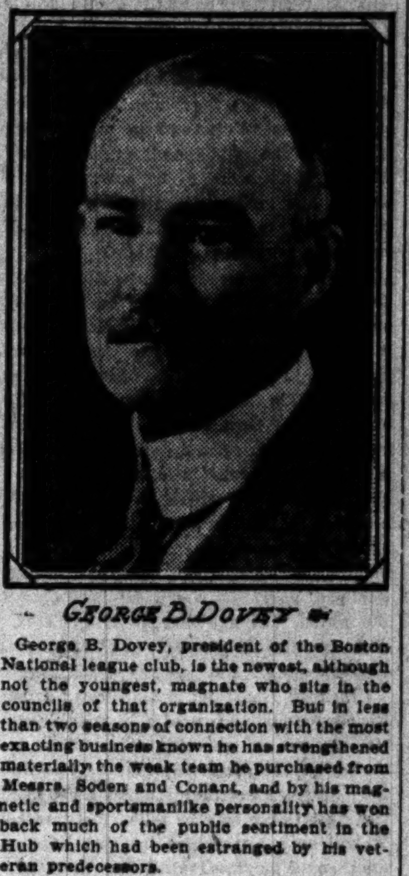
Hustling Owner of Boston Nationals.



George B. Dovey

George B. Dovey, president of the Boston National league club, is the newest, although not the youngest, magnate who sits in the councils of that organization. But in less than two seasons of connection with the most exacting business known he has strengthened materially the weak team he purchased from Messrs. Soden and Conant, and by his magnetic and sportsmanlike personality has won back much of the public sentiment in the Hub which had been estranged by his veteran predecessors.

MAROONS TO LOSE MERRIAM, STAR OF FOOTBALL ELEVEN.

Full Back Announces His Intention to Quit the Team for the Purpose of Coaching.

Ned Merriam, the University of Chicago full back, who was expected to return to school this fall, will not be in the Maroon lineup this year. He announced yesterday that he would coach this season, and Coach Stagg will have to inaugurate a search among his material for a successor when he gets back from Europe.

Merriam was one of the strongest members of the Maroon eleven last fall, playing in every game throughout the season. He made a fine showing during the entire season, and Coach Stagg regarded him as a full back of exceptional ability. His loss will cripple the back field.

The decision of Merriam will precipitate a struggle for his place among the Maroon candidates at the start of the season, and there is as yet no indication of the successful athlete. Crowley, full back on last year's freshman team; Worthwine, last year's guard and tackle; Zunderland, "sub" half back; Rogers, captain of last year's freshman team; and De Both, a former Ripon player, are the back field candidates for the honor of helping out Capt. Steffen and Iddings in the back field.

Merriam completed his full three years on the Maroon track team, which he captained last spring. He held the quarter mile conference title for two years and the low hurdle title for one year. He has a record of :50 flat in the quarter mile, and made a mark of :48 3-5 in the semi-finals of the 400 meters race in the Olympic games.

Cricket Games Today.

Play in the local cricket championship series will be resumed this afternoon, the wanderers meeting South Park at Ogden park, and Hyde Park playing the Chicago team at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue. Play will start at 2:30 o'clock.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 22, 1908.

Evading a duty to one's country is expensive.

Particularly if the revenue officers find it out.

Uncle Adlai has decided to "run as a democrat" this year. Great head, Uncle Adlai's!

"There will be no war with Japan," says Fighting Bob. Now let Hobson rage and Count Okuma imagine a vain thing.

The democrats of South Carolina so far have subscribed a hundred times as much money to maintain baseball teams during the summer as they have given to the Bryan campaign fund.—Charleston News and Courier.

The democrats of South Carolina probably are waiting for Mr. Bryan's answer to the News and Courier's question as to how he stands on the negro question. It is several months overdue.

A temperature ranging along in the 50s in August, Mr. Weather Man, is too suggestive of a possible 32° in September, before the grapes are quite ready for it.

Reluctantly we make the admission that the Sox do not seem likely to come within forty miles of winning the race for the pennant this year.

"A platform is binding as to what it omits." This idea, which must have been one of the new ones that Mr. Bryan picked up when he was abroad, commits him to free silver, government ownership of railways, and every other vagary that ever inspired his indefatigable chin to fervid action. Such political lunacy ought to cost him the electoral vote even of Oklahoma.

Mr. Rockefeller's assertion that he is not nearly as rich as he is popularly supposed to be leaves the matter still undecided. How much is Mr. Rockefeller worth? If he will answer, under the sacred seal of confidence, we will agree not to tell anybody.

It is a source of general regret that under the laws of Illinois no severer punishment than hanging can be meted out to a man who kidnaps a little girl.

Doubtless Gov. Johnson thinks he will be doing well enough if he carries Minnesota for himself this year. He can't promise the state to Mr. Bryan without impinging violently against Gen. Grosvenor.

Also it remains to be seen how that new Alaska wheat will work up into breakfast food.

Mr. Bryan does not join in the protest against Mr. Taft's horseback riding. Personally it is no concern of his. A horse has no vote.

JOHN V. FARWELL.

The last link uniting the business community of Chicago of sixty years ago and that of today has been severed by the death of John V. Farwell Sr. Other men as able as himself and as richly endowed with civic virtues will grow up in this city and attain fame and fortune as the heads of great commercial or industrial undertakings. None of them will enjoy the special distinction which attaches to Mr. Farwell of having been one of the notable builders of the material greatness of Chicago. He came here in its young days. He recognized its possibilities, and during a long life he did all he could to promote them. He had a vivid and unfaltering faith in the future of the western metropolis which should be an inspiration to the men of this generation.

He was a great merchant. Until recent years he was familiar with every detail of his business. But he was something more than a merchant. He was a man who felt it an imperative duty to labor for the moral welfare of his fellow creatures. He was never weary of good works in that direction. He stood behind Moody at the beginning of his career and opened the way for him to become a world known evangelist. The Chicago branch of the Y. M. C. A., which has done so much for the young men who have made their homes here, is under lasting obligations to Mr. Farwell.

He was by no means the only man who has combined with exceptional business qualifications profound and active religious sentiment and the philanthropic spirit, but he was the best exemplar of that kind of desirable citizen Chicago has known.

IT HAS TO BE HUGHES.

It is announced semi-officially that Gov. Hughes is to be renominated. So much the better for the republican party in the state of New York and in many other states. If the republican "organization" in New York were to be governed only by its own wishes it would set aside peremptorily a man it hates because it cannot "do business with him."

If he were to be denied a renomination the democrats would elect the governor and the republican presidential ticket would be endangered. The masses, particularly in the country districts, have confidence in the honesty, courage, and high aims of Gov. Hughes and would resent his proscription by the professional politicians. Voters in other states than his own who recognize in him a leader in the moral movement with which they sympathize would see in the denial of a nomination to him evidence that the republican party in the greatest state of the union was against the moral ideals and the loftier purposes which Gov. Hughes stands for.

President Roosevelt is too shrewd a politician, too skilled a reader of popular sentiment, not to perceive this. The accuracy of the statement that he has told the party leaders that Hughes must head the state ticket may be taken for granted. It will be a bitter dose for them, for no man could be less suited for their purposes, but they will have to swallow the bitter draft.

After Mr. Hughes shall have been nominated not even the most credulous supporter of Mr. Bryan will count New York in the list of doubtful states. The republicans of the west, accepting Mr. Hughes' nomination as evidence that their eastern brethren are not reactionaries, but as devoted as themselves to the reform cause, will go into the campaign with redoubled vigor and hope.

LEOPOLD'S GOOD BARGAIN.

The transfer of the administration of the Congo Independent state from King Leopold to Belgium is near at hand. That transfer will be the triumph of indignant public sentiment over the obstinacy of an avaricious and heartless king. A few men laboring in a righteous cause can do much. The vivid portrayal by a handful of energetic spirits of the atrocities perpetrated in the Congo moved the souls of humane people everywhere. The governments of great nations were forced to protest against the continuance of these iniquities and would have interfered if a change for the better had not been promised.

Under the new order of things the forced labor system which has been responsible for so many deaths and the infliction of so much torture is to be abolished. That is the only matter about which the outside world concerns itself. Whether Belgium will make a bad bargain from a financial point of view by taking over the Congo country on King Leopold's terms is a matter of interest to Belgian taxpayers alone. The king certainly is making a good bargain. He went into the Congo as a philanthropist full of zeal for the welfare of the natives and he comes out a multimillionaire, leaving behind the bones of thousands of victims of his philanthropic régime.

While he is to cease misgoverning the Congo, he is not to cease exploiting its resources. He is to retain until death his interest in the valuable concessions granted to certain companies and is to get $10,000,000 as an "especial token of gratitude" for his services. No sanctimonious and keen witted Yankee could be a smarter hand at a bargain than the philanthropic Leopold. But the forced labor system with all its accompanying horrors is to go. That is what the civilized world has been demanding with growing determination for years.

ELECTRICITY ON THE FARM.

Electricity may become one of the farmer's most helpful servants. That is the suggestion gained from a recent consular report. The American consul at Hanover discusses the subject in connection with a report of an address before the Prussian Agricultural society by a former minister of agriculture of Germany. It has much interest not alone to the farmer but also to the owners of power plants and the makers of electrical machinery.

Electricity is increasingly available because of the establishment in so many places of plants for lighting and power purposes. Where the former is the main consideration the machinery is not used much during the day. Operators would gladly welcome a development that would open a market for the electricity easily generated in the time of present idleness of machinery. The current may be carried a long distance and, with good demand, should not be at prohibitive prices. On large farms an individual plant might be economical.

The securing of the electricity being assumed, its uses about the farm may be many. There is a good deal of power machinery used by the farmer. There are fanning mills, corn shellers, and similar machines in the barn. There are thrashing machines, clover hullers, and other larger machines used on occasion. There are devices for unloading hay. A good sized list might be made to show the various places where an electric motor might be employed to advantage.

There are some difficulties connected with the management of electric plows, reapers, and other implements used in the fields. Electricity will not be utilized there so soon as about the barn and the house. But the experiments are hopeful which have been made in the fields at a distance from the barn. Where the motor is attached directly to the machine, as is possible in a thrashing machine, for example, the difficulties are minimized.

The introduction of labor saving machinery revolutionized farm industry. It is a possibility of the near future that electricity may still further increase the farmer's independence. Already in many places he enjoys the use of the telephone and perhaps sees the trolley line in front of his house giving him ready access to the neighboring town or city. He may have his home lighted by electricity. These advices from Germany indicate still larger possibilities. They come not from dreamers or theorists, but from practical observation of actual accomplishments. Electricity may yet become the most common, convenient, and economical servant the farmer can find.

A FORESTRY OBJECT LESSON.

The state forester of Massachusetts has begun active work in establishing forest reserves in that ancient commonwealth. The plan of operations is so interesting as to deserve notice from the point of view of an object lesson. In fact that is what is aimed at by the present activities.

The selectmen of the 321 towns in the state have been asked to indicate tracts of land for forestation experiment. These tracts are to be secured through the town itself, through local organizations interested in the project, or through the coöperation of individual owners. Already many such tracts have been designated.

The state will reforest them and look after them. For this work a small fund of $5,000 is available for the first year, with twice that amount annually thereafter. So far as possible the experiments will be tried along main traveled roads where passers-by may see what is being done.

A plan like this is full of hope. For it means intelligent interest and coöperation on the part of many individuals. The destruction of the forests has been going on for years at the hands of individuals and companies. Now that the warning note has been sounded loudly in recent months, there is just a suspicion here and there of the feeling of helplessness. Only the federal government, many think, can undertake the great task of reforestation.

The Massachusetts enterprise, however, suggests the possibilities in movements on a small scale. Towns, or, to use a western term, townships, can help in the necessary work. Individuals and companies can do their part. The efforts now being put forth by the Pennsylvania company to grow trees for its own future use in construction or in adornment of its property have received favorable comment on every side. The possibility of coöperative effort is illustrated by what the state of Wisconsin and the Northwestern railroad are doing.

If the feeling becomes a widespread conviction that forestry work is essential to the welfare of the country the movement for reforestation will be assured of success. If the individual citizen shows anxiety to have a part in the enterprise the desired end will certainly be attained. From such a viewpoint the Massachusetts experiments have much more than local importance.

Recognizing His Limitations.

Cholly—"Let me see—what's that quotation about a nod being as good as a wink, and so forth?"

Fweddy—"Why—er—I can't think——"

Cholly—"O, I know that. I'm asking you to try to remember."

Succeeded Beyond His Expectations.

Rivers' nose was swollen to twice its natural size, and his face was ornamented with various strips of court plaster arranged without the slightest regard to symmetry of design.

"Hello, old chap!" exclaimed Brooks; "what has happened to you?"

"Do you recall the fact that the last time you saw me I was looking for the infernal scoundrel that stole my umbrella?"

"Yes."

"Well, I found him, Brooks; I found him!"

Painful Mistake.

Fellaire—formerly Rusty Rufus—had been unable to sleep, on account of the heat, and had come downstairs and gone out into the backyard of his suburban home to see how the flowers looked in the early morning sunshine.

He found a tramp stretched at full length in the hammock and snoring in a deep, guttural monotone.

He shook the visitor roughly.

"Feeling pretty comfortable, are you?" he asked.

"Yes," answered the tramp, opening his eyes, but betraying no other indications of life; "I hain't got no kick comin'."

"Sorry to contradict you, my friend, but you have," said Fellaire, administering one that lifted him clear out of the hammock, and following it up with others as the procession moved rapidly in the direction of the rear gate and out into the alley.

Then he tossed a silver dollar after the retreating hobo, in memory of old days, and went back into the house and changed his shoes.

With Copious Apologies.

"These practices of grafting—
Is there any way to mend 'em?"
Sure! Just take the initiative
And let the referendum!"

By a Narrow Margin.

"You're all out of breath," said Pnoodles. "What have you been doing?"

"Been running a race!" panted Ardup.

"On a hot day like this? What for?"

"To—er—decide who was going to pay for the dinner."

"Did you win?"

"Yes, by the skin of my teeth."

"Who was the other fellow?"

"He was—well, he was the proprietor of the restaurant. I managed to lose him in the crowd just as he was about to make a grab for me." C. W. T.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

The reason a woman looks cool on a hot day is she isn't.

A girl can enjoy going anywhere with her brother if he hates to have her do it.

Most couples dance their way into matrimony and limp their way through it.

There's nothing makes a woman madder than for people to talk of her virtues instead of her looks.

A woman's idea of a thrilling passage in a novel is with the heroine reading a love letter and curling her hair at the same time.—New York Press.

King Edward's 1,000 carat Cullinan diamond, presented to him by the Transvaal government a year or so ago, has been cut in two, and the stone has been found to be of superfine quality, of the purest white, and possessed of altogether remarkable brilliancy and luster. The largest half, weighing 425 carats, is to be set in the royal crown, and the other moiety, of about 410 carats, is to figure among the gems adorning the king's scepter.

Each of these two halves is nearly four times the size and weight of the Koh-i-Noor, which has until now been the largest, heaviest, and finest of the crown diamonds of England, and which Queen Victoria usually wore as a brooch on state occasions. Queen Alexandra has refrained from following the example of her mother-in-law in this respect, being deterred from wearing the Koh-i-Noor partly by reason of its sanguinary history and associations and partly, too, because throughout India it is regarded as a sort of emblem and talisman of the sovereignty of the empire, the use of which should be restricted to the actual monarch, whereas she is only the latter's consort.

The British chargé d'affaires in the United States, Esme Howard, and his wife, Lady Isabella Howard, are placed in mourning by the death of the latter's father, at Rome. He was not only eighth earl of Newburgh, Viscount Kynnaird, and Baron Levingstone, all in the peerage of Scotland, but likewise Prince Giustiniani and Marquis Bandini of Rome and duke of Mondragone, as well as count of Carinola of Naples.

His family, namely, that of Giustiniani, reigned as sovereigns over the island of Chios, until it was seized by the republic of Genoa in the fourteenth century, and he could trace his ancestry to King Edward I. of England. The late Lord Newburgh's Scottish honors came to him through his mother, on her death, and in order to enjoy the prerogatives attached thereto, he secured letters of naturalization as a British subject.

The earldom of Newburgh and the minor Scotch dignities associated therewith were bestowed in the first place by King Charles II. upon one of his favorite gentlemen in waiting, Sir James Levingstone of Kynnaird.

Sir James had been one of the most devoted cavaliers of Charles I. and had accompanied the latter's son and successor into exile. The second earl died without male issue, and his various Scotch peerages passed to his daughter, Charlotte, married to Hugh Clifford of Chudleigh, en premieres noces, and afterwards to Charles Radcliffe, fifth Earl Derwentwater, who lost his head on Tower hill for his participation in the Jacobite rebellion. By him Charlotte, countess of Newburgh, had a son, who became fourth earl, whose own son in turn, the fifth earl, died without issue, and the earldom thereupon reverted to the grandson of Charlotte, countess of Newburgh's daughter by her first marriage with Hugh Clifford of Chudleigh.

It was this grandson, Vincent Roman, prince of Giustiniani, who became sixth earl. He left no son, but a daughter, who, on his death, became countess of Newburgh in her own right, and who married a Roman patrician, the Marquis Bandini, who was authorized by the then sovereign pope to assume and continue the title of Prince Giustiniani, which had belonged to his wife's father.

The late and eighth earl of Newburgh was the son of this union, and he is succeeded in his honors by his eldest surviving son, Charles, who has hitherto been known as Viscount Kynnaird, and as duke of Mondragone, and who, although married to a Sicilian lady, and making his home altogether in Italy, where he was educated, will not need to be naturalized as a British citizen, seeing that his father already had gone through that process.

The late Lord Newburgh has left a number of children, among the sisters of Lady Isabella Howard being princess, the wife of Prince Camillo Rospigliosi, also the wife of Duke Mario Grazioli, and Countess Colleoni; while yet another sister, Lady Christina, is a nun of the order of the Sacred Heart.

There has been a good deal of confusion with regard to the identity of the country seat in England almost wholly destroyed by fire the other day while in the occupancy of Lord Wimborne's younger son, Captain the Hon. Frederick Guest, and of his American wife, Amy, daughter of Henry Phipps of Pittsburg and New York. The cable dispatches had intimated that the name of the place was "Burleigh," and many therefore took it for granted that it was Burghley house, by Stamford town, sung by Tennyson, and then, as now, the home of the marquises of Exeter.

But it turns out to be Burley-on-the-hill, the ancestral home of the house of Finch, of which Lord Winchelsea is the chief. In days prior to the Reformation it seems to have been a country seat of the bishops of Norwich, and one of its Episcopal occupants, a scion of the house of Spencer, is on historic record as having marched with his men from Burley-on-the-hill at the outbreak of the Wat Tyler rebellion to choke down the rising in his diocese.

It then belonged to the famous duke of Buckingham, who was the favorite and associate of James I. and of Charles I., and the mansion, after having been seized during the civil war by Cromwell's troops, was burnt by them when they found themselves unable to hold it against the royalists. Nothing remained save the stables and the cellars.

These, as well as the 1,000 acre park by which they were surrounded, were purchased after the restoration by the seventh earl of Winchelsea, who was likewise second earl of Nottingham, the statesman who played so high a rôle during the latter half of the seventeenth century, and the reign of George II. It is he who in 1698 built at the cost of $500,000 the mansion which has just been almost completely destroyed, and which was filled with treasures of art, archæology, and history.

The library, which was completely burned, contained collections of letters of Oliver Cromwell, Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth, of the three Stuart kings, of William of Orange, Queen Anne, and King George I., all of which have been destroyed. Some of the Gobelin tapestries and a number of the paintings by Kneller, Reynolds, etc., as well as the famous staircase, have been saved. But the great banqueting chamber, 60x40 feet large, and half as high as the entire building, known as the "painted hall," on account of its superb old frescoes, was completely wiped out of existence.

The present owner of the estate and the landlord of Capt. Frederick Guest is Alan Finch, a cadet of the house of which Lord Winchelsea is the chief, and a son of the Right Hon. George Henry Finch, who, until his death last year, was the father of the house of commons. Alan Finch, besides being the owner of Burley-on-the-hill, is also lord of the manor of Oakham, and by virtue of this dignity enjoys the ancient prerogative of claiming from every scion of royalty and from every peer of the realm, passing through Oakham, which is the capital of Rutlandshire, a horseshoe.

These are hung on the walls of the chapel of Oakham castle, and include shoes presented by Queen Elizabeth, by George IV., by Queen Victoria, prior to her accession to the throne, in 1835; by the present king and queen, when prince and princess of Wales, by the great duke of Wellington in 1838, the oldest shoe in the collection being that of Edward, Lord Dudley.

Burley-on-the-hill figures in the history of England by Macaulay, who relates that while the festivities were in progress there in honor of the marriage of Lady Mary Finch, daughter of Lord Winchelsea and Nottingham, to Lord Eland, the latter's father, George Savile, marquis of Halifax, was taken suddenly ill in London, where he had been detained by affairs of state. Informed that his malady was mortal and that his demise was imminent, he declined to allow any news thereof to be conveyed to his son, lest it should mar the rejoicings at Burley-on-the-hill, and breathed his last in London while the wedding ceremony was being performed in Rutlandshire.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

[Communications for this column must not exceed 200 words.—Editor "The Tribune."]

Says "Crisis" Libels Lincoln.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In your editorial in today's Tribune on the great debate between Lincoln and Douglas at Freeport on Aug. 21, 1858, you refer to Churchill's "Crisis" and indirectly commend it and its account of the debate.

I most earnestly protest against this commendation, for the book is a libel on nearly every person it mentions, and the story told in the book as to this debate is nearly all lies. I went on the train with Mr. Lincoln to the debate and heard every word he spoke on the train and at Freeport, and hence am a competent witness against Churchill—Churchill never saw Lincoln, Douglas, Grant, Sherman, "Dick" Yates, "Dick" Oglesby, and the many other unionists he slanders in his book.

All he ever knew of any one of them he picked up from gossiping with a lot of unreconstructed rebel women in St. Louis. In this book he makes out Lincoln to be in looks like a baboon and in words like a loafer from the lowest ward in St. Louis. A viler libel was never written by any man.

Your predecessor, Joseph Medill, sat alongside of me at that meeting and took a report of it for your paper, and were he alive today I am sure he would be one of the first to denounce as I do the lies told by Churchill.

Clark Carr's "Illini" is real and correct history, while Churchill's "Crisis" is mendacious fiction and should never be referred to in connection with any of the heroes of the war of the rebellion. There are several people in Chicago besides myself who heard the speech at Freeport and who denounce as I do the villainous and vindictive lies told by Churchill about it and about Lincoln and Douglas.

Churchill's picture of Douglas is nearly as untrue as that of Lincoln, for Churchill prompters hated Douglas nearly as much as they hated Lincoln and therefore induced Churchill to traduce him as well as Lincoln. If Douglas had followed Breckenridge and Jeff Davis into the rebellion I have no doubt he would have been a hero to these rebel woman of St. Louis and that they would have had Churchill laud him as he did the leaders of the rebellion.

Light on Race Episode in Evanston.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The circumstances connected with the children's exercises at the Lincoln Temperance Chautauqua at Evanston Saturday afternoon were these: The Loyal Temperance legion's regular meetings at Evanston have been composed of white children only, and the presence of a colored boy was a surprise to the children. I thought nothing of it, since colored children had taken part in the demonstration at another Chautauqua without comment from any one.

As we practiced in front of the church before going to the tent Miss Tillie Brown, superintendent of the legion, called me aside, saying that some of the children objected to the colored boy being in the march, and that they were talking it over in another room. I found that two or more of the number were decided, others were neutral. I suggested that those who were willing to march should do so, but naturally they were averse to going ahead with any of their number holding back.

I decided to lay the matter before the colored boy. He was brought in. It was my desire to be kind, and tender, and tactful. I told him the children had a feeling that they would like to march into the tent as a white legion, that colored children had not been coming to their meetings, and asked him if he would be willing to let them have their march in that way. Without the least bitterness in tone or look he answered, softly: "Yes, ma'am."

No child was sent home. It would have been an easy way to solve the problem, but I never would have coldly turned any child out of the parade. It would have been better to give up the exercises. I am pleased to learn that some of the parents, and some of the children whose names appeared in the paper, are declaring that the boy should have been in the march and exercises.

Mob Rule Good Sometimes.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—There is justly much condemnation of the Springfield riots, but such occasions are not without their compensation at times. It must be admitted that crimes against helpless women and young girls are fearfully numerous.

These crimes spring from the degenerate or from those who though physically strong are yet lacking in intelligence and self-control, and therefore recognize no rights in the person or property of others, but seek to acquire the same wholly by brute force. Neither of these classes knows any law but force or power superior to their own, and knows of no deterrent to crime but fear.

What influence, therefore, can there be in one of their number being tried in a court of law and punished in one of our state prisons? They see neither the trial nor the punishment, but they do see the criminal back in time probably to his old haunts apparently none the worse for his offending.

A term in one of our prisons with its comforts, its brass bands, and electric lights, hospitals, libraries, etc., is a vacation to them, and they are there visited by sympathetic friends, theoretic prison reformers pour over them a lot of sentimental slush, and finally a parole board restores to them their liberty, and they go back to their accustomed haunts at a later date, well built up for new deviltry as did the murderer of poor Mrs. Grant.

Such a manifestation of force cleans up the atmosphere as does a storm the cobwebs, and sophistries of the caterer to criminals are swept out of our brains and we see things as they are. Let us stop these manifestations the proper way. Let us give swift trial and sure punishment to the guilty, and if necessary make death a penalty to such crimes as gave rise to the Springfield mob.

Punished for Doing His Duty.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A young man enlists in the militia. There is no monetary reward and the only recompense (barring patriotism, at which our iconoclastic age sneers) is the exercise of the military spirit which comes down from fighting ancestors. A call comes to report for duty and to protect the peace and property of his fellow citizens.

Like old Israel Putnam, he leaves his horses and shoulders his musket. He is ordered by his commanding officer—representing all of the power and dignity of the state—to guard a cracker box in the baggage car. A rifle, ammunition, and bayonet are placed in his hands. A crowd of hoodlums jumps on the train when it stops for a moment at the station and seeks to rob the state of the cracker box which the young man has been ordered to guard. In performing his sworn duty to the state he kills one of the thieves who, more persistent than his fellows, attacks the guard and vilifies him for performing his duty.

And now comes the state's attorney—note the title, a sworn officer of the law—and has this man indicted for murder because he enforced the law. And this young man, this soldier who did his plain, simple duty and killed a thief, is to be arrested and dragged through a long and nerve racking trial to the sole end apparently that a cheap shyster lawyer can get some free advertising. Of course the boy won't be hanged, but the spectacle of the attorney general of the state defending a soldier of the state for performing his duty, while arrayed against him and the soldier of the state is another officer of the state, is one calculated to bewilder the average mind.

Did Wilson Mean Another Ladd?

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 13.—[Editor of The Tribune]—Secretary Wilson in replying to the statement of facts in my address before the Association of State and National Food and Dairy Departments claims that "the charges were prompted by Ladd being turned out of a federal office." He further says:

"This man Ladd was a member of the commission which I appointed to take charge of the standardization work."

Now, I have never held a federal position at any time. I never was a member of the standardization committee. I was never appointed by Secretary Wilson to such a position, or by any other member of the department of agriculture; have never asked for the position; have never desired it.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Manager Deserts New York for Chicago.

Frederick Thompson, associate of Klaw & Erlanger, the shrewdest as well as the most influential theatrical managers in America, has declared that in the future he will make all of his productions in Chicago.

This statement, which is the most important of any yet issued from the offices of the syndicate, or from those of any of its managers, was thinly covered by the announcement yesterday that Mr. Thompson had entered into an arrangement with Klaw & Erlanger by which he would produce several new plays, in which they were mutually interested, in the Chicago opera house.

Its true magnitude and its importance to what he characterizes as "the metropolis of the west" and "our biggest American city," was disclosed yesterday, when a Tribune representative talked with Mr. Thompson in New York.

In this interview the newest associate of the syndicate, who is known as the builder of Luna park, Coney Island, and the genius back of the New York Hippodrome, frankly admitted that, as a play producer, it was his intention to make Chicago his headquarters in the future, and stated as his reason for so doing that, as he planned to produce nothing but American plays, he was convinced that they would "receive a better hearing in a typical American city than in a population center which reflects the fads, habits, biases, and foibles of all countries and all kinds and classes of cosmopolitan society."

"Theatrical success in Chicago means theatrical success in all America," added Mr. Thompson. "'The Man from Home' proves this. A New York success may mean national success, but it does not always follow, for, while a hit on Broadway possesses great advertising advantages, it must be followed by a hit in a more truly American center to stamp it with real, solid American approval.

"New York audiences too often demand freakish drama. Chicago audiences do not, no matter whether New York has indorsed it or not. No true, solid, honest, well written American play has ever failed of Chicago success, while, on the other hand, many a play which has been lauded to the skies on Broadway has gone to a speedy death on the shoals of Lake Michigan, which are the shoals of America.

"Speaking of the freakish streak in New York's theatrical judgment, take the 'Salome' craze at present rampant in this city. Such a thing could not happen in Chicago. Chicago, like every other truly American city, is more moral than otherwise, and, because I believe in moral drama, I am sure decent plays will be better appreciated in Chicago than here on Broadway.

"Do not understand me to say that the eastern metropolis does not appreciate good, pure, rugged native plays, for it does. What I really mean is that a New York approbation does not carry with it national approbation. So often has this metropolitan approval been reversed that the country at large has come to suspect the merits of a play which has enjoyed a long Broadway run, and I prefer to start my seasons with success untouched by the breath of suspicion."

◆

Then, to strengthen his argument, Mr. Thompson sought an illustration close to his own fireside.

"Mrs. Thompson (Mabel Taliaferro) is extremely nervous over the result of her Chicago appearance," he said. "She is more anxious to make a hit there than she was when I first presented 'Polly of the Circus' at the Liberty theater here. She realizes that the play is typically American in character, story, and atmosphere, and she believes that Chicago's judgment will reflect the judgment of the whole country, while the success which followed her New York opening simply meant that the play and the playing satisfied the whims of a blasé populace tired of the bizarre, the artificial, and the suggestive.

"One of the best proofs of my contention that New York success is largely of advertising value comes from a perusal of the magazines. Almost all monthly articles about plays and players emanate from New York because there the majority of theatrical pieces make their start and because magazine editors and circulation managers know the public is anxious to read about Broadway happenings. While all this free advertising is valuable to producing managers, it does not mean that the plays which have been declared great by New York writers are going to be declared great by other writers in other and less freak loving communities.

"Personally, I prefer to take my chance in Chicago whenever possible, for I think the country will like what Chicago likes. As I said before, I intend to produce none but American plays, and I am convinced that Chicago is the American metropolis. New York at present is midway between Sandy Hook and Paris."

Mr. Thompson admitted that making choice between New York and Chicago as a theatrical center was a ticklish thing to do and a ticklish thing to talk about, and he admitted that conditions might arise when it would be necessary for him to make an occasional production elsewhere. But he followed the qualification with the repeated assertion that all his energies would be bent toward making the Chicago production possible.

By an arrangement with Messrs. Kohl and Castle, the original lessees of the Chicago opera house, the Thompson-K. & E. régime will be inaugurated with the production there a fortnight hence of "Ticey," William Gillette's new play. This will be permitted to run as long as business warrants. At present it is the intention to produce early in December the nearest approach to a London pantomime that has been attempted in this country. This will be "Cinderella," which will be put on early in December. Either between "Ticey" and "Cinderella" or following the latter, Mr. Thompson plans bringing out "The Mountain Boy," with Joseph Santley as a star, "Via Wireless," by Paul Armstrong, and "The Fortune Hunter," by Winchell Smith.

Mr. Thompson is not the first play producer to take a stand in favor of Chicago, but, by reason of his K. & E. connections, he is the most important. The others have usually spoken in the flare of resentment at a New York failure. George Lederer was one to make a similar declaration a year or so ago, and one of the few who has stuck to it.

That Chicago, after many years of promise, is being accepted finally as a play producing city of practically equal importance with New York is beyond question, and the biggest managers in the theatrical business are admitting that it is only a question of a few years before the introduction of new plays in this country will be equally divided between the two largest cities.

For this there are two good reasons: First, Chicago theatrically is the hub of the constantly growing middle western country and the expanding commercial metropolis of all the country lying west of the Ohio. The traveling public that formerly crossed the continent to buy what it could buy and see what it could see in New York stops off in Chicago in greater numbers each year. And as the traveling public is a theatergoing public it has made a considerable difference in playhouse receipts. This, added to the long-run records recently achieved here, has convinced the wiser managers that the time to get in in Chicago has arrived.

An equally important reason is that so great an improvement is being noted in the quality of the plays produced these days that there are not enough first-class theaters in New York to provide room for those that are equal to all season runs and leave others for new productions.

John Barrymore, who has been east on a vacation, has promised to return to the cast of "A Stubborn Cinderella" in the Princess next week. Then Sallie Fisher will go away for a ten day rest, her part being played and sung by Grace Esmond, who is to have it on the road. Harry Stone is to rejoin the "Honeymoon Trail" company, of which he is the star.

Helen Ware, caring more for the rôle of Nellie, the tempestuous young woman of "The Regeneration," than she does for the meek and more or less mincy Emma in "Paid in Full," will rejoin the Arnold Daly company in New York next week. She will be succeeded in the Walter play, which has a fortnight to run in the Grand, by Clara Blandick.

'TRIBUNE' HOME IS 'ELASTIC'

Places Are Always Made for the Needy at Algonquin Hospital.

INSTITUTION IS CROWDED.

Story of Mary, Ellen and Hugh, Who Were Sent Out Yesterday.

The following contributions to "The Tribune" summer hospital and free ice fund have been received:

Previously acknowledged	$3,978.79
Anonymous	1.00
Mr. Brown	3.00
Total	$3,982.79

Contributions in aid of the summer charities maintained by "The Tribune" charities may be sent to "The Tribune" office. Checks should be made payable to F. H. Rawson, treasurer. All contributions will be acknowledged promptly.

"The elastic hospital" is what the workers of the bureau of charities call The Tribune summer house at Algonquin. Repeatedly since the summer opened it has been reported that the hospital was full and that no greater number could be accommodated. Nevertheless when as urgent cases were found throughout Chicago room was found to accommodate them. When two persons were sent in cured and invigorated three were sent back to take their places, and Miss Holmes always found room for them somewhere.

The most remarkable demonstration of this situation was given yesterday when, with the hospital already nearly filled, forty-four women and children, the largest crowd that ever reached the hospital at one time, left the congested tenement districts for the wooded hills of Algonquin.

There were many interesting cases in the crowd, but probably the most interesting was that of Mary and Ellen and Hugh. When the first clerk appeared at the office of the bureau of charities in the Rand-McNally building yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock he found two little girls and a little boy sitting patiently on the floor of the hallway with their backs to the door. They were Mary and Ellen and Hugh, and they had been there since a little after 6 o'clock in the morning.

Little Mother for Children.

Mary is 11 years old and is mother of the little family. Ellen is 8 years old, and Hugh is 6 years old. They have no mother and their father is deaf and dumb. Because he is deaf and dumb he can earn only $8 a week, and Mary must assume the responsibilities of a mother.

An insight into these responsibilities was given to the investigator for the bureau, who asked Mary to come to the nearest west side office and see her last Monday. Mary was late, not many minutes, but she apologized nevertheless. She explained that the washing had taken her longer than she had expected.

"The washing?" asked the investigator. "Do you do the family washing?"

"Sure!" said 11 year old Mary. "Well, not quite all of it. I get some one to help me with the real heavy pieces, the sheets, and tablecloth."

So it is no wonder that Mary was so anxious to escape for a short time from the strain of keeping house on $8 a week that she got her family down to the bureau's office at 6 o'clock to catch a train that left at noon. Mary wasn't going to take any chances.

Mary washed again before leaving. She washed every stitch of clothing that the three children possessed, and when they got on the train everything they wore was as clean as soap and water could make it, and in small bundles tied up in newspapers each carried all his or her other belongings in the way of clothes.

Others Go to Hospital.

Another interesting family that went to The Tribune hospital yesterday was made up of Mrs. Alfrel Crump and her two sons, Alfred and Joseph. Outside of her own sad story of poverty, privation, and illness, Mrs. Crump shone by the reflected glory of being mother of the "Buster Brown" who for several days proved a mystery to the Chicago police.

The management of Riverview park has offered to give all the gate receipts of the park on Sept. 4 to The Tribune summer hospital and free ice fund, and certain of the larger shows in the park will donate one-half of their receipts for the day to the same fund. Further details of the benefit will be printed later.

DAY OF FIRE HORSE WANES; MOTORS TO SUPPLANT HIM.

Chief Horan Tells Convention Power Driven Engines, Trucks, and Carts Are Soon to Come.

Motor fire engines, trucks, and hose carts soon will supplant the faithful fire horse and horse drawn fire vehicles, in the opinion of Chief James Horan of the Chicago fire department. Chief Horan read a paper yesterday at the closing session of the convention of the National Association of Firemen in Drill hall, Masonic temple.

Incidentally the chief declared the American Indian of a century ago knew more about how to prevent fires, particularly forest fires, than does the "paleface" of the present day. If Chicago is to have adequate fire protection, he said, it will be necessary to establish a fire company in every square mile of the city's territory. His subject was "The Influence of the Chicago Fire Department upon the General Cause of Fire Protection."

"The fire marshal now is, indeed, to be commended if his fire appliances of today are not ready for the scrap pile of next year," said he. "We are living in an airship and gasoline age and all the mechanical engineers are unanimously of the opinion that the horse drawn fire apparatus has seen its day.

"With the advent of the automobile it is apparent that the five ton engine and the seven ton truck, the two ton hose wagon and the chemical engine, will be before many moons a thing of the past and the ever faithful horse that eats his head off 365 days and nights of the year must also be relegated to the boneyard of the historic past.

"The cities of America are spending millions every year for fire protection. The cities of Europe 200 years ago believed that the money should be spent for fire prevention. The cities of Europe—and that means every city of any consequence—have five fires where the cities of America have five hundred."

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President—Charles C. Chain, Bushnell, Ill.
Vice president—J. M. Sherwood, Neosho, Mo.
Secretary—Peter B. McCarty, St. Louis, Mo.
Treasurer—H. R. Delfs, Lansing, Mich.
National organizer—Robert Grace, Oklahoma City, Okla.

A resolution was adopted favoring the proposed Panama exposition at New Orleans in 1915. Lansing, Mich., was selected as the convention city of the association next year.

Health of London.

"Dear, dirty old London" has its good points. It is the healthiest capital city in Europe. Taking the average death rate for the last ten years the following is the order in which the capitals come:

London	15.6	Berlin	17.2
Stockholm	15.9	Vienna	17.3
Copenhagen	16.3	Paris	17.4

The low death rate in London is due, in the main, to the strenuous work of sanitary and medical authorities in fighting unhealthy conditions.

The summer months are, again, healthy. Although the dryness results in germ laden dust haunting the streets, the fine weather brings Londoners out in their millions. Thus they breathe in more of the life giving oxygen. This tends to retard the development of, or even kill, the germs.—London Answers.

NEWS OF THE SOCIETY WORLD

Oak Park Brides-to-Be Plan Nonconflicting Wedding Dates.

MANY PRE-NUPTIAL AFFAIRS

Engagement of Miss Emily Taylor and Mr. Symington Announced.

Oak Park, having given a shower of interesting engagements during the last few months, is about to reap the reward by having a calendar filled with early fall weddings which are attractive. But thereby hangs a tale, and the brides-to-be themselves are in the thick of the quandary. Four of the young women—Miss Anna Luff, Miss Laura Packard, Miss Edith Rothermel, and Miss Stella Rogers—all of whom are to be brides of the early fall, come from the same college set, and they are ready to admit that there are easier things to accomplish than the choosing of a wedding date and the making of wedding plans, particularly when several of one's best friends are doing the same. Not only are the four brides anxious to be present at the weddings of all, but their friends are endeavoring to arrange the showers and pre-nuptial luncheons and dinners honoring each bride on dates when all the brides may be present, and Miss Packard and Miss Rogers are confronted with the additional problem of arranging their wedding dates and entertainments so Miss Grace Hemingway may serve as maid in both parties.

Early affairs given for the young women have resolved themselves into an effort to arrange nonconflicting dates, which call forth mathematical skill, and their friends are looking on with interest. Miss Luff is to wed Mr. Oran W. Ott of Salt Lake City, Miss Rothermel to become the bride of Mr. Carl Tracey Solleder of Ontario, Cal., and Miss Rogers of Mr. James Bruff Forbes of Rochester, N. Y.

Mrs. Daniel Morgan Taylor has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Emily Neville Taylor, to Mr. E. Harrison Symington. Miss Taylor is a daughter of the late Col. Taylor, U. S. A., formerly stationed in Chicago while serving on the staff of Gen. Carter. She is a niece of the late Admiral H. S. Taylor and of Admiral Robley D. Evans, U. S. N. The town house of the family was in Division street during their residence, their summers having been spent at the Moraine hotel, Highland Park.

Mr. Symington is the son of Maj. W. Stewart Symington of Baltimore and resides at 103 Lincoln Park boulevard with his brother, Mr. Donald Symington, whose engagement to Miss Elsie Hillan Jenkins of Baltimore was announced recently.

Mr. John Browne Mayo is at present in London, where he went to attend the marriage of his cousin, Miss Mayo, daughter of Col. W. R. Mayo of the Royal artillery of London.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. McMullin of Highland Park will give a dinner at their Highland Park home Wednesday evening, followed by a Ravinia park concert party. There will be ten guests.

Mrs. Edward A. Biggs of 284 Ashland boulevard and her children have returned from a month's visit in Canada.

Mrs. William Barrett Ridgely has gone to Bar Harbor to spend a few weeks.

Mr. W. W. Gurley was among the Chicagoans giving dinners in the European room of the Mount Washington hotel, Bretton Woods, N. H., Wednesday evening.

Mrs. R. D. McFadon has joined her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Willing, at their cottage, Wyndybrae, at Jefferson, N. H.

Mrs. Frank Letts and family of Evanston have returned from their stay at the Harbor Point clubhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Rogers and Miss Myrtelle Rogers, 537 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, reached home yesterday after a European trip.

Miss Ruth Armstrong, 6810 Euclid avenue, who has been visiting at the home of Dr. Frederick Lindensmith of Milwaukee, has returned to her summer home at Cedar Lake, Wis.

Miss Marie E. Walsh, 4441 Ellis avenue, has returned home after spending the summer at Vineyard Haven, Mass., with her sister, Mrs. D. J. Callaghan of Boston.

Dr. Jessie G. Forrester, her granddaughter, Jessie Forrester Cain, and Mrs. Sarah Allen have taken a cottage at Tighnabruach, in the Kyles of Bute, Scotland, where they expect to spend September.

PROGRAM OF WHEATON FAIR ANNOUNCES EVENTS OF WEEK.

Exposition Will Open Tuesday with a Big Parade of Children from Cook, Du Page, and Kane Counties.

Announcement of the complete program for the Wheaton country fair, which will open next Tuesday, was made yesterday. The first day is well filled with attractive features. A parade of all the "Midway" shows through the streets of Wheaton to the fair grounds will start the day's performance.

All the children from Cook, Du Page, and Kane counties who attend will be taken to the grounds from Wheaton in carriages led by the Ladies' Mounted Cavalry guard, under command of Capt. Irene Rathburn. Motor cycle and trotting races will follow. One of the features of the afternoon will be the gentility Derby, in which three women and three men will ride. A balloon ascension by C. A. Coey is also announced.

There will be an illumination of the Midway each evening during the fair. Band concerts will also be given each evening. Balloon ascensions and fireworks are other features of the evening performances. Each afternoon the young women who make up the Ladies' Mounted cavalry will appear in drills and riding exhibitions.

The first day is called "Children's and Home Coming day"; the second, "Automobile day"; the third, "Political Harmony day"; the fourth, "Our Neighbors' day," and the fifth, Saturday, the closing, "Chicago day."

FAIRBANKS IN GOOD HEALTH; ILLNESS OF BRIEF DURATION.

Attending Physician Says Vice President Merely Was Suffering from a Cold While in Hospital.

Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, who was ill enough to be taken to the Henrotin Memorial hospital Tuesday night, apparently has recovered. He left the hospital next day for Excelsior Springs, Mo., where he delivered an address. Dr. Gustave Futterer, who attended him, said last night that the vice president had nothing more serious the matter with him than a cold.

Mr. Fairbanks arrived in St. Louis yesterday and seemingly was in good health. He dined at the Planters' hotel in that city with Congressman H. M. Coudrey. He was on his way to his farm near Mansfield, Ill., for a brief visit of inspection and recreation.

"There is no mystery about the case of Vice President Fairbanks," said Dr. Futterer. "He was suffering from a cold and fatigue. It is not customary with me to discuss the ailments of my patients, and I would certainly not do so in this instance were it not for the fact that a mistaken and exaggerated impression has reached the public."

At the hospital there was an impression that Mr. Fairbanks was suffering from gastritis or lumbago or something of that nature. Supt. William J. Mills said his understanding was that the vice president was fagged out in consequence of the hot weather.

All Evanston to Have Outing.

At the request of Mayor Paden, all the business houses in Evanston will be closed next Thursday that every one may take advantage of "Evanston day" at Ravinia park. It is to be a holiday for the entire city. The Evanston Business Men's Association is making arrangements for a gala day. Besides speeches by Evanstonians, music by the Thomas orchestra, and dancing in the evening, there will be an old fashioned field carnival in the afternoon.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

REVIEWS OF CURRENT PUBLICATIONS BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

LURE OF THE COLLECTING MANIA FINDS A GUIDE IN MISS DEANE'S BOOK.

Expert Advice for Those So Badly Bitten That They Cannot Be Cured of the Habit.

MISS ETHEL DEANE in her copious and well illustrated volume, "BYWAYS OF COLLECTING," has endeavored to give rules for that form of play which is the diversion of the old, the vice of the innocent, the folly of the wise, the extravagance of the frugal, and the business of the indolent.

It thrives best in the old world, because there, of course, are the better opportunities, but there are thousands of Americans who follow the example of their transatlantic brothers, and decorate their hours of leisure with the collecting of prints, etchings, old silver, cottage ornaments, embroideries, laces, china, etc.

Miss Deane in writing her book has had in mind the ideal conditions, which is to say, not opulence, but a modest superfluity of wealth, wrenched—so at least, the possessor is pleased to think—from the necessary expenses of life; a definite object, to give zest to a search that else might be too casual; and the proximity of the articles to be collected, but the not obvious intrusion of them. She perceives, one surmises, that collecting is like trout fishing. One must have, of course, trout in his stream—but not too many trout. They should be rare enough to make the landing of one bring glory to the angler. Moreover, to angle for trout or antiques and to land something that is not what it purports is a humiliation which is not to be contemplated without shame, and Miss Deane has endeavored to instruct the readers of her book how to fill their cabinets and decorate their walls with bona fide treasures.

Let the collector essay English porcelain, Canton, Sèvres, Dresden, Chelsea, Worcester, Lowestoft, or any other specialty of the potter's kilns; let him nose through the world still-hunting early line impressions, Valentine Green mezzotints or Greuze engravings; let him browse for genuine Chippendale chairs or Hepplewhite book clamps, red lacquered cabinets, or Sheraton low-boys; let him yield to the lure of fragile old crystal, and Miss Deane will prove his careful guide, telling him the signs and marks by which he may discern the spurious and confirm the true.

The illustrations are a great aid, of course, in helping the student to understand the full meaning of the text; and, indeed, they are so attractive that the most resistant Philistine is likely to succumb and leave the lucid paths of his utilitarian round for the devious and fascinating byways which the collector walks. One feels, however, that in this country, at least, such enthusiasms would be a distinct benefit. If more of our men would indulge themselves in this gentle species of folly instead of wearing themselves out with excessive labor—their super industry being, often, a mere form of gross and barbarous ambition—it would be better for them in particular and for the country in general. Really, if there were more collecting done and other innocuous forms of play indulged in, we would not, perhaps, be treated to the appalling spectacle of a class of millionaires, enfeebled with nervous collapse at the age when their ripeness of experience and mellowness of judgment should make them the ornaments instead of the burdens of society. For these and other reasons, "Byways of Collecting" is recommended alike to the connoisseur, the neophyte, and the outer barbarian. (Cassell & Co.).

* * *

"SOME AFRICAN HIGHWAYS," by Miss Caroline Kirkland, found its first publication in the columns of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and now, emended and extended, it appears from the press of Dana Estes & Co. Lieut. Gen. Baden-Powell has written a pleasant introduction in which he says precisely the thing that the present reviewer had intended to say—namely: that the woman traveler, when she takes the trouble to record her impressions, makes her "pages ripple with little touches both quaint and human which are the direct result of quick observation and which go to paint the characters of countries and people far more vividly than the most erudite writings of the mere man who plods along basing his remarks largely on what he has already read or been told of the country spread before him."

Certainly Miss Kirkland's vivacious record of her journey along the eastern coast of the dark continent and into its interior is in no sense a revision of other writer's ideas. Originality is the book's distinguishing feature, and the author's experiences are recorded with a facile style and in a mood of charming urbanity.

Miss Kirkland has the same delightful quality that Richard Harding Davis possesses, of being quite willing and ready to be both entertained and surprised by what may happen upon a journey. This carries the reader along with the writer upon the excursion and gives an air of freshness and novelty which is the essence of travel. Moreover, the book has a delightful lack of self-consciousness, Miss Kirkland having "let herself go," so to speak, in a manner which inevitably produces agreeable results. All really interesting books of travels, autobiography, or correspondence are produced by this method of frankness, spontaneity, and upon the genial assumption that the reader is ready and eager to enter into sympathy with the relater.

The limits of Miss Kirkland's observation are not narrow. She is interested in all about her, and has no superciliousness of mind, but endeavors to look at all situations and individuals—the Uganda savage as well as the English governor general—with what may be termed the courteous and open mind. She is interested, not affronted, by what, in the dark continent, is essentially characteristic of it. A light play of humor adds to the attractiveness of the recital—a recital which leaves a substantial deposit of information when all is done. No reader can put down the book without having acquired a working, every day knowledge of the picturesque, yet in many ways painful life, of the English settlements of eastern and central Africa.

Mrs. Hovey devotes herself now and again to the pious task of collecting and publishing fragments of her husband's poetry. Much of the verse in the most recent volume, "THE END OF THE TRAIL," is casual to the last degree, and must have been written because Hovey could not restrain his fluent pen, rather than with any expectation that it would be offered to the public. However, an interest attaches to all that a poet does, and when a man of talent has passed beyond the sphere of visible achievement there is a solemn diversion in looking for indications of his frustrated power in the fragments he has left. The poetical experiments in this volume—for in spite of numerous lovelinesses they are little more—are written chiefly after the manner of other poets. So obvious is this that the merest tyro will recognize the line that echoes Lanier from that which follows Keats, and that which saunters after the fashion of Byron, or ambles after Owen Meredith, or reflects the spirit and phrases—tho' never the method—of Whitman. It is not unlikely that it was a recognition of these characteristics which kept Hovey from offering the verses to his publishers. All this does not, however, prevent the reader from appreciating the generosity of Mrs. Hovey in being willing to share these agreeable literary remains with the public. Of good substance and high quality are "Seaward, an Elegy on the Death of Thomas William Parsons," and "A Vision of Parnassus," but the last is so obtrusively in the mood of Keats that one feels the volume to have lain at hand as Hovey penned such lines as these:

And longer had I listened to the lore
Of that strange stream, but that there reached my ear
A woeful moan that made my heart ache sore,
And, looking up, I saw a lady near
Who fled aghast as one in mortal dread,
With drawn face rigid with a nameless fear,
And still her garments tripped her as she fled.

And hard upon her heels a horrid hound,
With bloody jowl and mire upon his coat,
Came baying till he made the wood resound.
There was a brazen collar on his throat,
With intricate antique device chased,
And on that white limbed lady did he gloat
With hungry eyes, in his malignant haste.

All this is no imputation of Mr. Hovey's essential originality. He diverted himself with these reminiscent experiments, and he is in his grave, and may not gainsay the will of his wife and publishers, who would fain keep alight the lamp before the shrine dedicated to one "who perished in his pride." This is the time of scholarly biographical studies. Students of literature, history, and art have no excuse for not knowing the full import of great names in their respective fields of inquiry. "THE WORLD'S EPOCH MAKERS," a series as yet confined chiefly to leaders in religious thought, and edited by Oliphant Smeaton, is now enriched by a critical study of "CARDINAL NEWMAN" and "His Influence on Religious Life and Thought." The treatise is the work of Dr. Charles Sarolea of Edinburgh university, and is from a non-Catholic standpoint.

Dr. Sarolea's book is an acute analysis, which takes full cognizance of Newman's intellectual gifts and moral force, at the same time placing Newman in a long line of religious thinkers that he may be the better understood. The author's parallel study of Newman and Pascal is most suggestive. Most suggestive, too, is his review of modern religious movements, both within and without the church. This is therefore a valuable addition to the fast growing Newman bibliography. It is an evidence, too, of the careful work expended in this important series. (Imported by Scribner's Sons.)

"The Call of the City" is the title of a volume of graceful essays by Charles Mulford Robinson, soon to be published by Paul Elder & Co. So much has been written about "the call of the open" that it is high time for some one to take up the cudgels for the disparaged town. Mr. Robinson, the author of "Modern Civic Art" and "The Improvement of Towns and Cities," is a recognized authority on civic improvement.

Imagine a town which has no harbor, and yet possesses a harbormaster—which is without roads and is inhabited by Dutch who speak English as their native tongue; which sits perched on the top of a mountain 1,300 feet high, and is yet called "Bottom"; whose inhabitants, although they dwell aloft on a tiny barren island which produces no timber, no iron, and no hemp, still, as their principal occupation, build and rig—not kites, not balloons—but ships!

Such is the capital of the little island of Saba—"Saba the Astonishing," as Sir Frederick Treves calls it in his new and delightful book about the West Indies, "THE CRADLE OF THE DEEP." (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.)

There are lots of other absurd and curious things in the volume, as well as plenty of beautiful and interesting ones. Sir Frederick makes Drake, Morgan, Kidd, and Nelson live and move again for us; he tells us of the greatest auction in the universe, which took place at Orangetown; about wages paid in sugar at St. Kitts, the Irish negroes on Montserrat, the rock which was carried on the register of the British navy as a battleship, and a hundred other things too good to miss.

Ireland is a perpetually interesting subject. Her green, her moisture, her whisky, her jollity, and above all her dirt are the staple of all writing which springs from the pen of a tourist. There is a little more than all these in Mr. Michael Myers Shoemaker's "WANDERINGS IN IRELAND"—a slight account of Ireland's ancient history, her departed glory.

For a hasty run through Ireland in a holiday spirit this work of Mr. Shoemaker's fulfills its purpose. It gives the reader the old facts in a pleasing manner. Just now, however, the Irish are writing their own books, and when one compares the hasty view of Ireland and much other matter coming from tourists with Mr. Stephen Gwynn's "FAIR HILLS OF IRELAND" one takes the whole mass of literary itineraries for what they are worth. ATTEMPT TO RENDER INTO ENGLISH THOUGHT OF ANATOLE FRANCE.

Frenchman's Entire Works in Process of Translation. Appearance of First Volume.

SINCE Balzac, Daudet, we believe, is about the only French author of our own particular time who has been honored with a translation of his complete works into English. But now the John Lane company has undertaken the task of reclothing the delicate and elusive thoughts of Anatole France in English expression. To give the writings of Jacques Anatole Thibault complete and adequate rendering into our tongue and make his each particular thought as understandable to us as it is to his own countrymen is no easy task, and if this translation succeeds in doing these things the old Italian slam at translators will have to be revised.

M. France typifies the latest cry of French modernity. He also represents French scholarship, meeting the literary problems of the day with profundity of thought and understanding, and yet expressing its opinions with that racial lightness of ironical touch which almost disarms criticism.

* * *

Whether he is writing historical novels, like "Thaïs," socialistic disquisitions like "Sur la Pierre Blanche," modern romances like the "Crime de Sylvestra Bonnard," detached sketches like "L'Etui de Nacre," creating such characters as Bergeret and the Abbé Coignard, or producing fluent and easy criticisms of men, books, and manners in the "Vie Litteraire" series, he is always sympathetic, always profoundly learned without pedantry, and always has opinions without being oracular. And through nearly everything he writes is discerned that delicate vein of ironical humor and that ever present skepticism which still seems to indicate respect for the faith of others, though M. France himself may scoff.

From his father, a book seller on the quais, France got his love of books. As a lad he was brought up in a literary atmosphere and early fed upon the classics and the best productions of two centuries ago. By the time he was ready for the study of law, for which his father intended him, he was so steeped with the essence of letters that he had no choice but to write. From his mother he inherited a passion for hagiology, which even his later skepticism has not shaken, and his knowledge of the saints and of early church history is apparent in nearly every book he has written.

This skepticism does not show itself in an obnoxious manner, and it is almost invariably mixed with a humor of tender quality and a wit that is delicious, yet leaves no sting behind. It will be in interpreting this that the translators will have their most difficult task.

* * *

The Lane edition is under the editorship of Mr. Frederick Chapman, and he himself is the translator of "MOTHER OF PEARL," as the English version of "L'Etui de Nacre" is called. This is a collection of short stories, some of them the merest sketches, but all displaying some of those qualities which make the art of M. France unique. What, for instance, could be more touching than "Our Lady's Juggler," the story of a simple hearted fellow who amused yokels with his tricks? Barnaby, the juggler, meeting a monk, becomes enamored of the latter's life as the religious described it to him, and he enters the order. In the monastery each member was devoted to the worship of the Mother of God. The prior wrote books on her virtues. Brother Maurice copied them on vellum. Brother Alexander adorned the pages with beautiful pictures and illuminated initials. Brother Marbode spent his days carving her likeness in stone. And so they busied themselves, all but poor Brother Barnaby, who, unlettered and untrained, had no way in which to show his adoration of the Virgin. He heard them tell of a poor worker, like himself, who could do nothing fine, but only repeat the Ave Maria, and out of whose mouth when he died there issued five roses, one for each letter of the word "Marie."

Then the monks noticed that Barnaby frequented the chapel when all the others were away. When the prior heard of Barnaby's mysterious absences he went with two of the monks and peeped in through the chapel door. There he saw Brother Barnaby before the altar of the Blessed Virgin, head downwards, with his feet in the air, and he was juggling with six balls of copper and a dozen knives. In honor of the Holy Mother of God he was performing those feats which aforetime had won him most renown.

* * *

The monks thought it sacrilege until they saw the Blessed Virgin descend the altar steps and wipe away with her azure robe the sweat which was dropping from the juggler's forehead. Whereupon the prior, touching his head upon the pavement, said: "Blessed are the simple hearted, for they shall see God."

Then there is "The Procurator of Judea," a story of the old age of Pontius Pilate, who is recalling to friends some events of his youth. The talk falls upon Syrian women, dances, etc., and one friend tells of his vain search for a woman in Palestine who had taken his fancy. "I lost sight of her," he said, "but I learned by chance that she had attached herself to a small company of men and women who were followers of a young Galilean thaumaturgist. His name was Jesus, he came from Nazareth, and he was crucified for some crime, I don't quite know what. Pontius, do you remember anything about the man?"

Pontius vainly tries to remember. Then he says:

"Jesus? Jesus—of Nazareth? I cannot call him to mind."

The task of the translator of these stories has not been difficult, and it has been accomplished in a most satisfactory way. The volume is a good example of bookmaking.

Warner's "American Charities," which for several years has been the standard work of reference upon its subject, is to be presented in entirely revised and enlarged form by its publishers, Thomas Y. Crowell & Co., this fall. The same firm announces a new poetic version of "The Pearl," a medieval poem, by Prof. Sophie Jewett of Wellesley.

Although published less than two months, the publishers have just gone to press with a third large edition of "ANNE OF GREEN GABLES."

A Narrative of Thrilling Adventures and Experiences
Two Chicago business men are persuaded by an old Hungarian to go with him into the heart of Africa on a voyage of discovery.
After months of hardship and thrilling adventure a mountain is reached by the travelers, and, owing to a singular phenomenon in which the surrounding hot sea recedes every seven years, an entrance is found to the interior of the mountain, and by almost superhuman effort they finally reach its summit.
Here they find a people who, for thousands of years, have lived a life freed from every form of self-seeking—the ideal life, a race of giants, physically and intellectually, who in our year one had controlled the solar energy and made it subservient to their needs; had constructed telescopes so far superior to what are known that they bring the moon and planets within the range of intelligent perception; had worked out the principles of acoustics to such an extent that, without a medium, conversation could be carried on at great distances; had through their mastery of the problems of storage of power annihilated space and had discovered wonderful methods of lighting and of time-keeping, through unseen forces.
The book abounds in romance and food for thought and discussion for him who can read between the lines. Altogether the work is destined to provoke discussion and create a large interest.

WHEAT MART WEAK AT CLOSE

Fear of Frosts Elevates Prices, but Rally Does Not Hold.

EXPORT INQUIRY IS SLOWER.

Coarse Grains Maintain Firm Tone on Uncertain Crop Prospects.

Wheat prices covered a comparatively wide range yesterday, opening off on the lower cables and larger northwestern receipts, advancing 1⅛c on predictions of frosts in the Canadian northwest, and finally losing all the gain and closing at about the low mark of the day. The lack of outside trade was painfully apparent on the advance, and local professionals who loaded up on the rally found no one to take their wheat off their hands. Elevator interests took advantage of the bulge to merchandise a lot of wheat in the pit, and the load was more than the narrow market would stand. Closing quotations were ⅜@½c lower. A liberal movement of spring wheat is feared by the more timid bulls, who are playing close to the speculative shore.

Low Temperatures in Northwest.

Temperatures were extremely low in several sections of the Canadian northwest, and during the first part of the session offerings were light, making it easy for a little buying to cause a sharp upturn. Shorts were well in on the advance, which was the culmination of a four days' upward movement, and every bull in the trade had all he cared to carry, making a decidedly overbought condition. Profit taking, stop loss orders, and short selling all combined to give the market a weak turn late in the day, and in spite of the predictions for frosts last night there was not enough new buying to sustain values. While some reports were to the effect that all the wheat was out of the way of frost, the general opinion was that there was still considerable of the grain green enough to sustain severe injury from heavy freezing temperatures. This is especially the case in Saskatchewan, where a large percentage of the wheat will not be ready to cut before Sept. 1.

Easier Tone in Foreign Marts.

Liverpool showed an easier tone on the expected large shipments from this side and the increased offerings of Russian and Danubian wheat. Reliable reports from Russia indicate the crop in that country is none too good, but an increase in shipments, even if temporary, would cause a bearish tone to foreign markets, especially as shipments from this side probably will continue large for some time. Liverpool closed ¼@⅜d lower; Antwerp, 1¼c off; Berlin, ½c lower; Budapest, unchanged; and Paris, ½@¾c higher. A report on crop conditions in Prussia by the official bureau said the general average was higher than a year ago.

The cash demand for wheat here was modest, the advance shutting off the domestic milling as well as the export demand. Premiums, however, were unchanged. Omaha reported cash prices 2c higher.

Farmers Are Holding Grain.

With the exception of farmers in this state, who are thrashing their stack wheat on account of the weevil in it, winter wheat growers are holding their wheat. In the southwest receivers generally report little selling on the part of the farmers, and country elevators are said to be practically empty in many cases. Minneapolis had 182 cars of wheat, including 57 cars of new grain. Receipts are expected to be large beginning Monday, and the comparison with last year will be bearish, as the movement this season will be much earlier than last. Primary receipts were 744,000 bu, against 611,000 bu a year ago. Local receipts were 85 cars, with 92 cars expected today. Local cash sales were 20,000 bu. Clearances were large for the day, 872,000 bu. Exports for the week were 3,907,000 bu from this country and Argentina shipped 1,224,000 bu.

Corn Offerings Are Larger.

Offerings of corn were larger yesterday, and although the new crop months were aggressively bulled by the local bull contingent net gains for the day were small, the greatest strength being shown in the early part of the session. More September was also on sale at times and the fluctuations of this month were erratic. Closing figures were ⅛@¼c higher. Clear, cool weather through the belt caused some apprehension among the shorts, it being feared that the extremely low temperatures prevailing in the northwest would extend down into the corn country. Indications are for a larger run of corn from the country. Cash prices were strong early, but the sample market closed unchanged. The crop report sent out by one of the leading local banks was a bullish factor, indicating a smaller crop than suggested by the government figures.

Receipts here for the day were 255 cars, with 185 cars expected today. Primary arrivals were 448,000 bu, against 338,000 bu a year ago. Argentine shipments for the week were 1,227,000 bu. Exports from this country were 34,000 bu.

Private Oats Reports Bullish.

The bullish crop report sent out by a prominent local bank suggesting a crop of only 760,000,000 bu, with corroborating advices from the country, was the chief factor in causing a smart rally in oats early. Elevator interests took a hand in the game on the rise, however, and sold enough to check the advance, helped by liberal profit taking. Two of the principal cash grain houses bought the May and sold September, easing the situation in the nearby month. Cash prices continued strong—½@1c higher—and receipts are disappointingly light. Total primary receipts were 542,000 bu, against 788,000 bu a year ago. Final prices showed gains of ¼@½c. Receipts here were 123 cars with 121 cars expected today. Local cash sales were 155,000 bu.

Fair Demand for Rye.

There was a fair demand for rye at recent prices. September was offered at 77c. No. 2 sold free on board at 77½@78½c and No. 3 at 76½c. No. 4 was quoted 65@72c. Receipts were 6 cars.

Barley was up 1@2c in sympathy with the strength in oats. Malting was quoted 62@68c, mixing 62@65c, and screenings 45@65c. Receipts were 33 cars.

Flaxseed was unchanged. No. 1 northwestern closed at $1.32, No. 1 from the northwest $1.30½, and No. 1 southwestern $1.22. Receipts were 2 cars.

Timothy seed was neglected. September closed at $3.60 bid and $3.70 asked. Country lots, $3.40@3.70. Clover seed was lower. October closed at $10.50 bid. Country lots, $10.00@11.00.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Low temperatures in the Canadian northwest caused a spurt of strength in wheat early. Davidson, Saskatchewan, reported that there had been frosts there three nights in succession, and Winnipeg wired frosts were predicted for the three provinces last night. Temperatures have been low in the western Canadian provinces for several days, and were down to 32 degrees at one or two places yesterday morning. There was the usual conflict of opinion as to the effect of a general hard frost if it should come. Some firms asserted the wheat was too far along for damage, while other estimates of the wheat still susceptible to damage ranged from 10 to 33 1-3 per cent. In Saskatchewan there is still understood to be a good deal of wheat unripe yet and some that will not be ready to cut before the first of next month. B. W. Snow, who has just returned from a trip to the northwest, said yesterday that the wheat in the vicinity of his farm at Saltcoates, Saskatchewan, would not be ready to cut before next Monday, and that late wheat will not be ready to cut before the end of the month. This would leave a considerable portion of the wheat in Saskatchewan in a condition to be hurt by frost. A good many oats would also be hurt by a severe freeze.

O. K. Lyle sent the following report to S. B. Chapin & Co.: "Left Kentland, Ind., this morning and went to Danville, Ill., and thence via trolley to Champaign and here. Went into fields at Kentland that I know will make 60 bu. The corn is all in black silk, and less than a month will land it in safety. Many fields are around 40 to 50 bu. None of them bad. Some are bent by wind, but do not look impaired. Nearly all the way to Danville the outlook was good, although some stands were badly broken by cut worms in the spring. Still the stands were bad a year ago. It is a marvel to all how this corn has grown. The color of all seen today is just right; height way up, 8 to 12 feet. Except a rare field, all well in tassel and earing well. All this corn wants is time to 'make.' Some of it, perhaps over one-half of it, will be safe in a month. Other portions need longer and up to six weeks at least. Barring frost there will be a better crop in Illinois than people have been led to believe, and I say this with a great deal of gratification, for I felt much concerned over the low promise of a month ago. What I am seeing is making me feel bearish."

Trade in wheat was considerably mixed yesterday, there being a good deal of changing going on throughout the session by the elevator interests, while extensive realizing on the advance checked the rising tendency and brought about a sharp reaction. Rosenbaum Grain, Rosenbaum Bros., and Armour at one time were buying September and selling December, but Armour later was a heavy seller of the September, buying the December. Bartlett-Patten and Barrell were fair buyers early, but later sold. Wagner sold December. The extreme advance found practically all of the shorts covered, and as there was not outside buying to speak of, prices went down faster than they advanced. Bartlett-Patten bought September corn early, and there was buying of the deferred months by Comstock and Geahart. Simons and commission houses sold on the advance. Crighton, Roberts, and Bennett were on the buying side of oats. Peavey and Armour bought May and sold September. Commission houses in general sold provisions.

Exporters here reported little encouragement from the other side yesterday, the advance shutting off what inquiry for wheat there was. Domestic cash markets were firm in spite of the dull demand, and premiums at this, as well as other exchanges, were relatively steady. No. 2 red winter was quoted here at 1½c over the September and No. 2 hard at 1½c to 3c over, depending on quality. At Minneapolis premiums for No. 1 northern to arrive were about the same, and $1.07 to $1.08 was bid for wheat to arrive. Spot wheat was quoted about $1.24. Kansas City and St. Louis reported a firm cash market, prices following the futures. Receipts in the southwest and, in fact, at all winter wheat markets, were moderate, and indications are for a continued light movement. Offerings of corn were more liberal, and prices, after being firm at the start, closed heavy. Larger receipts are predicted. The offerings of oats, however, were scanty, and prices were strong—½c to 1c higher. Local cash sales were 20,000 bu wheat, 70,000 bu corn, and 155,000 bu oats.

"The crop in what is known as the Neepawa district looks to me as if it was good for 18 bu to the acre," wrote J. H. Davidson & Co., a prominent milling concern at Neepawa, Manitoba, to Wrenn. "The bulk is about ten days from being ready to cut, so that any frost to damage it in the meantime would mean reduced yield and inferior grade. On a basis of 6,000,000 acres in wheat, in my opinion, the total crop will not exceed 90,000,000 bu. I am informed that there is a great deal of light crop in southern Manitoba, which will bring down the average. We have not been hurt with the frost here, as yet, this season, but there is no doubt but that a lot of damage has been done in other districts. I have been told that they got hit hard around Indian Head, which is one of the best wheat districts we have in this western country. It will not be known the extent of damage until threshing starts and grain begins to come on the market."

Harvey Williams had a message from Hankinson, the Minneapolis grain man, saying farmers in the northwest, as far as he could learn, were anxious to sell their wheat at present prices, and that he looked for large receipts the next week or so. Other advices were to the same effect and there seems to be little question that the high prices prevailing will be effective in calling out large offerings. It will be some time, however, before reserves are built up to any considerable extent. C. H. Thornton wired Barrell from Duluth: "Wheat is beginning to be offered in a small way to arrive, but sellers are dissatisfied with the price compared to spot and most of the wheat will be for sale on the day of arrival. I expect 400 to 500 cars at both northwest markets on Monday."

The Ogilvie Milling Co. of Montreal wired that the Canadian northwest wheat crop would be about 115,000,000 bu and that all the wheat was ready to cut. The sender of this message was one of the party of grain men and bankers who have just returned from a trip through the Canadian northwest. Another member of the same party wired from Omaha that about 33 1-3 per cent of both the wheat and oats crops of Manitoba and Saskatchewan were still liable to frost damage, and that two weeks would be required to bring the crops through.

Broomhall cabled: "Much agitation is being heard in Italy regarding a reduction of 50 per cent on the import duty on wheat. This reduction is generally favored on account of the very high prices of native foodstuffs. Our correspondent thinks that the Italian government will yield to the demand, owing to fears of disorders."

The Modern Miller's weekly crop summary read: "Many Illinois farmers are thrashing and marketing their stack wheat, finding it badly weevil eaten. Otherwise winter wheat farmers are generally holding their crops and little grain is moving from the farms. Plowing is progressing under generally favorable weather conditions."

The country keeps buying corn in a small way and making money on it, while Wall street bears continue to fight the advance and are losing money," said a corn specialist yesterday. "Corn prices are going to rule high this year, and the sooner the trade comes to this conclusion the less money they will lose."

World's wheat shipments for the week were estimated at 7,500,000 bu, compared to 7,568,000 bu a year ago. Of this quantity the United States and Canada exported more than half. Moderate changes are expected in on passage supplies.

Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 200,000 bu for the week.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—A climax was reached in the hog market and packers and salesmen joined in an effort to clean up the accumulations of the last two weeks. Another left over supply of more than 9,000 hogs, combined with continued arrivals of common mixed stock, was instrumental in convincing traders that it was about time that a movement to place the market on a healthier basis was started, and in order to bring about the needed clean up salesmen accepted sharply reduced prices for all the common quality, lightweight hogs they could find an outlet for. These tactics enabled traders to reduce the stale supply of stock, but at the close there remained numerous lots for which sellers will have to accept still lower values, as packers positively refuse to consider them at the present level. Good hogs sold steady to 5c higher, but the revision in the price of the common hogs counted against the average price for the day, and it was held down to $6.57, against $6.56 Thursday. Receipts of cattle were almost too small to make a market. Few buyers were in attendance, and there was no snap to the trade, although most of the native steers were disposed of at steady values. Packers received 500 western and Texas cattle direct, and this enabled them to bear the market for the common native steers, and the moderate offerings of butcher stock, securing the latter mostly at a 10c decline. Sheep trade was slow at prices generally unchanged from the previous day's level. Fresh receipts of lambs were much lighter, but there were 10 loads of stock carried over from the previous day, and traders had a hard time maintaining values at a steady level. Best western lambs sold at $6.20, against $6.25 Thursday. Packers had their bids for native lambs pegged at $6.00, and they would not raise their hand above that figure, no matter how good the offerings were.

CATTLE.

Receipts were estimated at only 2,500, and included but few loads of native steers, while there was a total lack of western range offerings on the open market. Traders who had shipping orders to fill took one look at the offerings and then filed their orders away, beeves good enough for their requirements being so few that they did not consider it worth while to operate. This left the market to the packers, and they were in no mood to act with alacrity, as they looked with disfavor on the appreciations in values already recorded this week, and they feared that any show of urgency in their orders might enable salesmen to add to prices. Most of the steers offered for sale were of plain quality, and while a top was established at $5.85, a spread of from $4.40@4.85 bought most of the desirable lots, while sales at more than $5.00 were not many. Few shipping orders appeared in the butcher stock division, and local killers had to be depended upon to take the offerings. Consequently it was fortunate that supplies were moderate, as liberal contributions of range cattle earlier in the week made it possible for packers to stock up liberally, and they were in a position to dictate prices. Making the most of their opportunities, killers insisted on a 10c decline in the price of all but the better grades of cows and heifers, and as there was no other outlet salesmen had to accept packers' terms. Sales of prime cows and heifers were made at from $4.00@4.50, while a large share of the offerings cleared at from $3.25@3.90, and the common lots sold down to $3.00 and lower. Supplies of calves consisted of plain to fair lots, the best of which sold up to $7.25. Bulls were in limited supply and sold at steady values. Canners and cutters were slow sale at weak prices. Stockers and feeders held firm. Quotations:

Good to choice steers	$6.50@7.60
Fair to good steers	5.25@6.50
Common to fair steers	3.75@5.25
Canners and cutters	1.50@3.00

Heavy calves	3.00@5.00
Fair to fancy veals	5.00@7.25
Good to choice bulls	3.50@4.50
Bologna bulls	2.75@3.10

Cattle at six western markets, 9,000, against 10,400 a week ago, 11,400 a year ago, and 9,400 two years ago. Total for 1908 to date, 4,642,000, against 5,415,000 the same period in 1907.

HOGS.

With fresh receipts of 14,000, and 9,263 hogs carried over from the previous day, porcine supplies consisted of the most varied assortment of stock seen here in a long time. Prices reflected this irregularity in the quality of the offerings, holding strong to 5c higher for the shipping grades, steady for the good packing class, and anywhere from 15c to 50c lower for the common grassy mixed swine. Shipping orders were fairly liberal, but the percentage of good hogs was so small that shippers had to get out early and pay a premium for desirable lots of all weights. Their purchases were made mostly at from $6.85@6.90 for strongweight butcher hogs, and at from $6.75@6.85 for the choice lights and lightweight butcher grades. Packers were fair buyers, but they were extremely hard to please, and while they paid steady prices, $6.40@6.60, for good mixed hogs suitable for their purposes, they absolutely refused to consider the inferior grassy kinds and passed up numerous loads without even making a bid, just because the hogs either lacked quality or because they were shy in weight. Common light hogs were almost unsalable, and the few loads which were sent over the scales brought sharply reduced prices, while many lots remained in the pens, and the holders dared buyers to make them a bid. There was no let up in the influx of pigs and prices were brought to $1.00 lower than Monday's level, sales of 110 to 120 lb pigs being negotiated at from $5.00@5.15, although a few lots of 130 lbs went at from $5.75@6.00 on shipping account. Packers wanted the light pigs at from $4.00@4.25, and although this grade of stock sold at around $5.00@5.25 Monday there was no other outlet and salesmen had to accept packers' bids. Quotations:

Bulk of sales	$6.45@6.70
Fair to good butchers	6.50@6.80
Choice light	6.60@6.75
Good to choice heavy shipping	6.80@6.90

Rough packing	5.75@6.10
Light mixed	6.20@6.40
Good to choice pigs	5.50@6.00
Light pigs	4.00@5.25
Boars	2.75@3.50
Stags	5.25@5.75

Average price of hogs at Chicago $6.57, against $6.56 Thursday, $6.41 a week ago, $5.82 a year ago, and $6.18 two years ago.

Eleven markets received 47,200 hogs, against 63,400 a week ago, 43,800 a year ago, and 60,800 two years ago. Total for 1908 to date 18,324,000, against 16,555,000 the same period in 1907.

Hog purchases for the day follow: Armour & Co., 4,000; Swift & Co., 2,500; Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, 1,100; Anglo-American, 250; Hammond, 200; Boyd-Lunham, 500; Morris & Co., 850; Western Packing company, 1,100; butchers, 500; shippers, 4,000; total, 15,000; left over, 7,000.

SHEEP.

Traders said that they had never seen the market in such a lifeless condition. There was nothing in the offerings for buyers to enthuse about, but supplies were not so burdensome as they have been, and traders tried to recover a small part of the losses suffered the last few days. Their efforts only served to make buyers all the more unsociable, and before the finish salesmen were praying for steady values only to find that buyers had their bids pegged at a lower level, and they could not be induced to loosen up, no matter how attractive the offerings looked. Arrivals were estimated at only 7,000, but half that number would have sufficed for all requirements, as buyers were in receipt of advices which led them to believe that next week would see a much freer movement of lambs from the range country, and they were in no hurry to fill orders, stock on hand being large enough to tide them over until the increased supplies were realized. Best western lambs sold at $6.20, but good salesmanship was necessary to worm that price out of packers, and other loads of prime rangers had to be relinquished at around $5.75@5.95. Packers would not pay more than $6.00 for native lambs, and then they demanded a most severe sort. Good assorted natives sold mostly at from $5.50@5.75, and packers maintained that few loads of lambs would bring more than that next week regardless of how good the quality might be. Total arrivals included but few loads of sheep and yearlings, and there was a total lack of range sheep. Offerings cleared at steady values, choice ewes selling up to $4.25, prime yearling breeding ewes $5.65, and aged breeders at from $4.75@5.25. Wethers and yearlings mixed made $4.40, and straight loads of yearlings were taken at from $4.00@4.75. Quotations:

Receipts for Aug. 22 were estimated at 500 cattle, 12,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep, against actual arrivals of 251 cattle, 6,149 hogs, and 1,192 sheep for Saturday, Aug. 24, 1907.

STOCKYARDS GOSSIP.

Hog market was one of the most irregular of the season. Packers wanted good quality and plenty of weight for their money, and, although they paid steady values for stock which met their requirements, they passed up numerous loads of swine because they did not have the necessary weight or quality, refusing to even make bids on these for fear that salesmen might accept them no matter how low they were. These tactics discouraged sellers, and late in the afternoon they bowed to the inevitable, accepting packers' bids of $6.00 and lower for hogs which they had expected to get $6.50 or more and selling many loads of grassy light hogs at from $5.25@5.75. Heavy rough packing hogs which sold at from $6.20@6.40 two days ago were off to $5.75@6.10, and slow sale at that. At the close of business there were numerous loads of common hogs still left in speculators' hand, and prospects were that the range between the price of good hogs and that of the common lots would be materially widened before the accumulations of poor hogs could be disposed of.

Hog pens were full of pigs, and packers came out to get what they wanted of them at sharply reduced prices. They forced values off by 25c slices, and before the close the decline amounted to $1.00 and more. Pigs weighing less than 100 lbs, salable at from $5.00@5.25 on Monday, were being taken by packers at from $4.00@4.25, while the grades which made $6.00@6.25 earlier in the week were off to $5.00@5.15. Traders hoped this decline in values would check the marketings of such stock, as the packers are the sole purchasers, and they will most likely force values to still lower levels unless receipts show a material decrease.

There was an abundance of the light pigs—"watch charms" the trade called them! One Illinois shipper said that he loaded 62 pigs in a car, and when they arrived at the Chicago market there were only 29 left, the others having squeezed through openings in the car and been lost on the road. A trader said that hand baskets will be a necessity if these pigs continue to come. There was one lot of 14 pigs weighing an average of 10 lbs each sold at $4.50.

Speculators who had cattle carried over from previous days this week found it impossible to clean up at a profit, although general prices showed a gain of from 10@25c over last week's closing figures.

Traders said that they looked for 10,000 to 12,000 range cattle for next Monday's market, and that they did not believe that the movement would be as choppy in the future as it has been in the past. Although range steers were quotable 10@15c lower than a week ago, the fact that there was a total lack of rangers here the latter part of the week, when the cattle market was at its best, makes it difficult to quote the market. One prominent trader said that he believed that if desirable range steers had been offered for sale on Thursday's market they would have sold fully steady with the level of prices in force a week ago.

More feeding lambs are expected for next week, and some of the traders believed that prices for desirable feeders would be brought down to the $5.00 mark. Most sales this week were from $5.25@5.50, and there were not enough offered to fill all the orders received.

Many sheep traders said that they looked for an abundance of sheep and lambs from the western range countries next week, and packers said that they would get the lambs which cost them $6.00 and more at present, down to $5.50. Country shippers were advised to limit their marketings as much as possible and to trim their buck lambs if they cared anything about what prices they were to realize on their consignments. A prominent salesman said: "The situation has reached a point where growers of native lambs will have to send in better stock than they have been of late if they want to compete with western growers for buyers' favor."

Prices of beef cuts were reduced ¼@½c per lb. This with cooler weather may have a beneficial influence on the consumptive demand for beef products and eventually be reflected in more active buying of cattle.

Sharp declines were made in the provisions list as a result of renewed liquidation in the nearby months, selling credited to packing interests and lack of outside support. Final prices showed declines of 32½@40c for pork, 2½@10c on lard, and 7½@10c on ribs. Hogs were in fair supply, but sold at slightly higher prices here. Local receipts were 14,000 head, about as expected, with 12,000 expected today. Receipts at the leading western packing centers were 42,600, compared to 35,000 a year ago. Lard at Liverpool was 3d higher, but meats were easy, Cumberland sides and hams being 6d lower. Receipts of product here were 18 cars with shipments of 84 cars. The export inquiry was reported quiet, while the domestic cash business is understood to be fairly active.

Chicago Horse Market.

In spite of the sharp decline made in equine values the last month eastern buyers who had orders to fill operated in a listless way and asked for further concessions. This made a dull, weak market, and country shippers had a great deal of trouble realizing country cost on their consignments. Increased offerings of drafters met with an exceptionally narrow outlet, and it was necessary to do a great deal of peddling in order to effect sales. Prices held nominally unchanged, but, quality considered, sales were at a lower level than a week ago. The general range of values on good weighty drafters was from $170.00@225.00, with most transactions at from $180.00@210.00. Drivers ranged at from $150.00@350.00; southerners, $60.00@110.00; farmer and chunks, $100.00@150.00; actors and coachers, $150.00@350.00; carriage pairs, $225.00@675.00. Receipts for the week thus far, 1,075, against 1,193 a week ago and 1,660 a year ago.

FRUITS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—There were over 25,000 baskets of grapes received, and prices gave another exhibition of lofty tumbling. Groceries.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Firmness prevailed in the flour market, and jobbers said they did not look for an output large enough to force values to much lower levels. The canned goods situation was devoid of new developments. Packers were reported as being short on their orders, and not at all anxious to make further contracts at prevailing prices. Jobbers and retailers, on the other hand, seemed to lack confidence in the market, and there was an almost entire lack of speculative buying. Canned California fruits were firmly held, and an upward tendency was noted in the market for dried fruits, advices on probable production being of a pessimistic character.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Refined goods held steady, but the raw material was slow sale, and further recessions in values were looked for. Dry Goods.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Buyers' enthusiasm showed no signs of growing stale and the market was full of action, with prices generally holding firm and large stocks of goods moving towards distributing centers. Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods market said: "Attendance of market buyers was exceptionally large. Visitors found prices attractive and their purchases were liberal. Jobbers were able to offer exceptional values in staples by reason of the recent auction sale of the accumulated product of the Nashua Manufacturing company of Nashua, N. H. Chicago houses were the principal purchasers at this sale and retailers evinced great interest in the unusual opportunities offered. In silks a revival of interest in black taffetas was notable. Some of the dress goods features were thirty-six inch monotone checks and stripes, thirty-six inch plain Panamas, and fifty inch worsted novelties in the new colorings. Double width dress nets in white, ecru, and high colors were in good demand. Lace bands were extremely popular in all colors, especially the ecru shades. Twelve and sixteen button lengths lamb and kid gloves sold well. A conspicuous increase of demand for satin taffeta ribbons in the jewel quality and in the wider widths was the feature of the ribbon business and was significant of the rapidly increasing popularity of satin faced goods of every description. A special lot of men's mercerized umbrellas, with attractive handles, were offered at 40c each and were purchased liberally. Women's ready to wear lines continued to manifest great activity. Nippon back coats in fifty-two inch lengths were shown as a novelty. A gratifying business in carpets and mattings was transacted and buyers were particularly interested in a line of Japanese mattings offered at 15½c. Reports from all parts of the country concerning retail conditions were extremely satisfactory."

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The dry goods market continued fairly active in the jobbing houses. A sale of 2,000 pieces of dress goods was held by one of the large houses, and other houses have done a good business on staples and seasonable goods for early shipment. Cotton yarns moved into wider channels of distribution, but prices were low and the volume of business was light. The local wool market was dull. The primary cotton goods market was affected adversely by a sharp drop in cotton and by the uncertainty concerning future prices for raw materials.

Cotton.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—COTTON—Spot closed quiet, 10 points decline; middling uplands, 10.00c; middling gulf, 10.25c. Sales, none. The cotton market was less active and after a sharp early break into new low ground for the movement prices steadied on covering, and it looked as if the trade was inclined to go more slowly, pending a fresh view of the situation at the lower level of prices and under the changed technical condition resulting from heavy liquidation. The market closed steady at a net decline of 1 to 8 points. Sales were estimated at 200,000 bales. Futures opened easy and closed steady. Quotations:

Sales, 100 bales; receipts, 323 bales; stock, 25,810 bales. Futures opened steady at 11 to 14 points below yesterday's closing, except the August option, which was 10 points higher. General dullness and fears that there would be no support for the market accounted for the early low prices. The closing was steady, prices being 5 to 8 points net lower with August again excepted, and standing 17 points above last night. Quotations:

TRADE RECOVERY SIGNS CONTINUE.

Increasing Demand for Industrial Outputs; Heavier Merchandise Deals.

MONEY IN AMPLE SUPPLY.

General Expression of Confidence in Outlook for Extending Consumption.

In its weekly review of Chicago trade Dun's Review, published by R. G. Dun & Co., will say in today's issue:

"The indications of recovery in business activity appear to be well sustained. Further decline is seen in the comparative shrinkage in volume of payments through the banks, and there is increasing demand for industrial outputs and heavier operations in general merchandise.

"Dealings in leading retail lines run close to the aggregate at this time last year, the buying being augmented by many visitors, who spend freely, and the early demand for fall apparel and household needs expands to reasonable proportions. Selections of textiles and necessaries reflect much wider absorption. Buyers have become more numerous than hitherto, especially from the south and southwest, and many new accounts are opened and create a favorable sentiment.

Prices on Attractive Basis.

"There is a general expression of confidence in the outlook for extending consumption. It is also made clear that stocks throughout the interior are at an unusually low average and that liberal replenishment is likely, although that process may be conducted gradually. Prices generally stand upon an attractive basis in staples and some heavy buyers secure their needs in lines which continued under curtailed production.

"Encouraging agricultural conditions and high values of the crops, rising pay rolls at manufacturing centers and the improvement in iron and steel branches in this section afford substantial reasons for the healthier tone which now characterizes commerce. Crop moving needs involve larger use of currency, but money remains in ample supply, and there is more offering of choice commercial paper at low rates, although the aggregate of discounts remains below normal.

"Manufacturing is steadily advancing, contracts being more plentiful in various departments, particularly rails, cars, machinery, farm implements, and electrical supplies. Pig iron prices are firmer for future deliveries, receipts of iron ore increase and there is heavier output of structural material, woodwork, and quarry products. The markets for hides, leather, and wool show strengthened demands, and receipts of the principal raw materials to some extent excede those of a year ago.

Local Movement of Grain.

"The total movement of grain at this port, 8,554,639 bushels, campares with 9,828,205 bushels last week and 9,490,117 bushels in 1907. Compared with last year there is decrease in receipts of 26.1 per cent and increase in shipments of 27.6 per cent. Live stock receipts were 243,035 head, against 267,851 head last week and 273,637 head last year. Receipts of hides rose to 3,181,061 pounds, and compare with 2,454,178 pounds last week and 2,230,142 pounds a year ago. Wool receipts were 5,510,926 pounds, against 6,149,010 pounds last week and 2,595,340 pounds in 1907. Lumber receipts, 52,145,000 feet, compare with 47,284,000 feet last week and 56,997,000 feet last year.

"Compared with the closings a week ago, cash prices are unchanged in lard; higher in wheat, ⅜ cent a bushel; oats, 1¼ cents; choice cattle, 10 cents a hundred weight; ribs, 12½ cents a tierce; sheep, 15 cents a hundredweight; and hogs, 20 cents; and lower in corn, ⅝ cent a bushel; flour, 5 cents a barrel; and pork, 15 cents a barrel.

"Bank clearings, $215,300,613, are 2.6 per cent under those of the corresponding week in 1907.

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number 24, against 16 last week, and 14 a year ago. Those with liabilities over $5,000 number 6, against 3 last week, and 2 in 1907."

Jobbing Distribution Gains.

New York, Aug. 21.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"While conservatism still rules purchasing, the number of buyers in leading northern and western centers is large, and there is a distinct gain in the jobbing distribution of fall and winter drygoods, shoes, clothing, hats, and millinery. Optimism as to the future is noted, and the practical completion of the small grain harvests, especially of spring wheat, and the advance of the corn crop toward maturity have made for an accentuation of the more confident feeling.

"Among the leading industries the most notable feature is the general expansion in inquiry for lumber, with prices showing a distinct hardening and preparations making for the resumption of operations at mills in the south, the northwest, and on the Pacific coast. The feature in the iron and steel trades are the quiet in pigiron and the improvement in the demand for railroad supplies, such as light track material and cars."

Activity Shows Expansion.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

"Trade and industrial activity continue to expand, improvement being of a conservative nature that promises permanency. There is little disposition to anticipate the future, but current distribution is larger and mercantile collections are more prompt. There is some complaint among wholesale drygoods jobbers that the big auction sales detracted from regular business, but the general situation was greatly improved by the distribution of those accumulations.

"Extremely quiet conditions prevail in the primary markets for cotton goods. Export trade is also dull. Footwear factories in New England report a steadily improving demand from western wholesalers, although contracts are chiefly for prompt delivery."

Bank Clearings of the Week.

Bradstreet's bank clearings report for the week ending Aug. 20 shows an aggregate of $2,349,675,000, as against $2,520,411,000 last week and $2,588,780,000 in the corresponding week last year. The following is a list of the cities:

FIRST MOVE FOR REVISION OF TARIFF BEGINS MONDAY.

Subcommittee of Senate Expects to Have Report Ready at Opening of Next Congressional Session.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The first step toward the fulfillment of the administration's promise that a revision of the tariff is to be commenced at the forthcoming session of congress will be taken Monday when the subcommittee of the senate committee on finance meets. The committee consists of Senator Burrows of Michigan as chairman, Senators Hansbrough of North Dakota, Hopkins of Illinois, Platt of New York, Bailey of Texas, Money of Mississippi, and Taliaferro of Florida. Senator Burrows reached Washington today.

The first work to be undertaken will be an inspection of the administrative features of tariff laws and an investigation of schedules with a view to making certain changes in classification.

Secretary of the Treasury George B. Cortelyou has been asked to give the subcommittee information and it is expected he will be here to appear before it Monday. Nothing is known of his coming, however, at the treasury department and he may designate one of the assistant secretaries to present the information sought by the committee.

After meeting here the committee will go to New York, where it is proposed to question several of the customs officials. The work of the committee may not consume more than two weeks. Within that time it is thought that sufficient information can be gleaned and a report compiled to present to the senate in the opening days of the coming session.

The work of the subcommittee in regard to the tariff probably will be merged into certain currency investigations the national monetary commission recently ordered taken up. Inasmuch as nearly all members of the tariff subcommittee are also members of the subcommittee of the monetary commission they probably will continue their duties as such before separating, being joined by such other members of the monetary commission as have been designated to act with them.

Senator Hopkins has sent word that he will arrive Monday.

WHEEL TAX LIMIT EXTENDED; 10 DAYS' TIME FOR PAYMENT.

Police Instructed Not to Begin Arrests of the Owners of Unlicensed Vehicles Until Sept. 1.

Inability of the city license department to collect the wheel tax by today has led to an extension of ten days in the time for the enforcement of the ordinance. Therefore policemen will not begin to arrest on sight owners of vehicles which have not the license tags until Sept. 1.

The city clerk's office was crowded to the doors all day and hundreds of persons who had stood in line for hours had to leave the building. The clerk collected $16,100 as license fees and City Collector Ernest Magerstadt had an additional $20,000 which was received by mail and special messengers.

Hundreds of team owners paid large "occupation fees" before the city council at its last meeting decreased them. After a conference with City Collector Magerstadt the mayor decided to ask the finance committee to grant rebates to those who had paid these exorbitant fees.

According to the members of the controller's office force the American District Telegraph company has defiantly refused to pay the city 2½ per cent of its gross receipts as compensation for the use of the streets according to the stipulations of the franchise granted to the concern in 1903.

The franchise was granted to the Automatic Fire Protection company, which later was absorbed by the A. D. T. concern. For three years the latter corporation paid the city the required compensation. Then its representatives said they discovered they had been "unwittingly" paying compensation which the city had no right to exact.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Barge decided that the city had the right to this compensation and if the company refused to pay up that the city's construction men might disconnect the wires. This will be done if the company does not pay up.

CHICAGO BOHEMIANS PLAN FETE

Festival to Raise Money for Statue of Borovsky Will Be Held on Sunday, Aug. 30.

Chicago's Bohemian-Americans are preparing for a national festival in honor of the Bohemian patriot, Karel Havlicek Borovsky, to whose memory a statue soon will be erected in Douglas park. The fête will be held in Pilsen park, Sunday, Aug. 30. The object of the festival is to revive national spirit and patriotism, and to raise a fund for the erection of the monument, which is being made. The program will consist of a parade of the Bohemian sokols, Bohemian folk dances by eighty women in costumes, songs by the United Bohemian Singing Societies, and a reproduction of a Bohemian country fair. Prof. Jarostav Zmrhal will deliver an address on "The Mission of the Bohemian-American."

MIXED TRADING IN STOCK LIST

Southern Pacific Above 100 for First Time in Its History.

WEAKNESS IN ROCK ISLAND.

Active Issues All Close with Only Fractional Changes.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The conflicting movement in today's market are well illustrated by the fact that Southern Pacific crossed par for the first time in this stock's history, while a violent decline occurred in several of the Rock Island group of securities.

In the final showing the active stocks were more influenced by the weakness in Rock Island shares than by strength in Southern Pacific, though nothing was forthcoming to indicate that the further weakness of Rock Island preferred and St. Louis and San Francisco second preferred, both of which showed losses in the neighborhood of four points, was due to any other immediate cause than aggressive bear selling. Southern Pacific, which soon after the opening of the market sold up to 100⅝, and later in the day sold even higher, retained none of its advance, closing unchanged, while all the other active issues showed net losses.

Smelting Shows a Loss.

The heaviest declines of the day other than those in the Rock Island issues occurred in American Smelting, which showed a net loss of two points, though it closed nearly a point above the lowest, and National Lead ended with a net loss of 1⅛. The operations of floor traders were on a particularly large scale today, and it did not appear that outside participation in stock exchange operations was any larger today than on earlier days of the week. Although the active issues all closed without gains or with net losses, the final trading showed improvement over the low prices of the session.

In today's total of 676,000 shares, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Rock Island preferred, American Smelting and United States Steel, the six most active stocks of the day, contributed over 500,000 shares. The bulk of the trading was thus concentrated upon a few issues. The price changes in others than these active issues showed a number of advances intermingled with losses.

Banks Gain More Cash.

The usual Friday estimates of the week's currency movements indicated a further large gain in cash by the bonds. Apparently the net results of the movements of cash to and from the interior showed a balance in favor of the New York City banks, though a gain from this quarter was at least partially offset by gold forwarded to Canada, shipments to that quarter today amounting to $1,500,000. In their transactions with the subtreasury the banks gained $8,069,000 during the week, including payments on account of receipts for new gold.

Call money again loaned at three-quarters of 1 per cent, and, despite the fact that it was Friday, and loans carried over until Monday, the highest rate at which call loans were made today was 1 per cent. Foreign exchange rates sold at a further decline today, reflecting a plentiful supply of bills. Abroad discount rates were slightly higher at Paris, where the rate rose to 1 per cent, but lower at Berlin.

Money on call easy, ¾@1 per cent; ruling rate, 1; closing, bid 1, offered at 1. Time loans easier on large offerings and small demand; 60 days, 1½@2 per cent, and 90 days, 2¼@2¾ per cent; six months 3¼. Prime mercantile paper, 3@4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 484.60@484.80 for 60 day bills and at 486.25 for demand; commercial bills, 483¾@4.84¾. Bar silver, 51½. Mexican dollars, 45. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds irregular.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Easy conditions prevailed in money today and discounts were weaker. Trading on the stock exchange continued quiet, with a generally steady undertone. Consols maintained the improvement of yesterday, and Kaffirs kept cheerful in anticipation of a hardening of business after the settlement, but the foreign securities in which Paris is interested were inclined to droop. American securities started the day irregularly. They improved around noon under the lead of the Harriman issues. Business consisted principally in covering over the holidays. New York sent a cheerful opening, and supported its favorites, but turned seller later, and dealers here realized. The market closed easy. Argentine and Mexican rails were firm. The stock exchange will be closed tomorrow.

PNEUMATIC TOOLS' EARNINGS

Balance for Stock of $18,085, as Against $316,394 Last Year.

SALES FALL 46 PER CENT.

Company's Report Indicates No Speedy Return to Dividends.

Earnings of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company in the first six months of this year were sufficeint to give a balance of only $18,085 for the stock, after the deduction of depreciation, interest, and sinking fund charges. This amount compares with a balance of $316,394 applicable to dividends in the corresponding period of last year. The company's sales this year were 46 per cent less than those of 1907. There was a report recently that the company would soon resume the payment of dividends on its stock. There is nothing in the report now issued to cover the operations of the first half of the year that indicates any return to dividends for some time to come.

Following are the company's income figures for the six months ended with June this year and last:

The balance sheet as of June 30, 1908, is as follows:

A statement of the company's earnings for six years ended Dec. 31, 1907, shows gross profits of $4,771,273 and $2,874,711 available for dividends after writing off $904,433 for depreciation and repairs and deductions of $690,000 for bond interest and $300,000 for sinking fund. From the total surplus of $1,380,502 the sum of $372,427 has been deducted on account of foreign plants.

Bank Statement Forecast.

Preliminary figures on the statement to be issued by the New York banks today indicate a cash gain of $8,374,000. On the known movements of money the New York banks gained $1,806,000 from the interior and $8,068,000 from the subtreasury. The estimated total gain allows for the shipment of $1,500,000 of gold coin to Canada on Thursday, though only one-sixth of that amount will figure in the statement under the average system. It is hardly probable that New York banks will continue long to gain currency on the interior movement. Exchange has turned against New York, selling in Chicago yesterday as low as 35c discount per $1,000.

Dividends Declared.

The General Chemical company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on its common stock, payable Sept. 1 to holders of record Aug. 26.

The Twin City Rapid Transit company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock, payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 16.

The Associated Merchants' company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its common stock, payable Sept. 1. Books close Aug. 27 and reopen Sept. 2.

The Globe-Wernicke company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on its common stock, payable Sept. 10 to holders of record Aug. 31.

The foregoing total surplus after the deduction of $2,800,000 for the dividend on the first and second preferred stock for the entire year is equal to 7.87 per cent on Reading common stock with the month of June to be added.

United States Steel.

If the improvement in the iron and steel situation noted since July 1 continues throughout the last quarter the net earnings of the United States Steel corporation for the year 1908 are likely to run between $93,000,000 and $94,000,000. This would mean 5.3 per cent for the common stock providing deductions for depreciation, interests, dividends on the preferred stock, etc., are the same in the last half as in the first half. Of course depreciation deductions will increase proportionately with an increase in net earnings and with this in view the balance for the common stock is not expected to reach 5.3 per cent on earnings of, say, $93,500,000.

The net earnings of the United States Steel corporation in the first half of this year were $38,494,761, and in the event of net earnings reaching $55,000,000 in the second half the total net for the year would be $95,494,761. Total deductions before the common dividend for the year based on the showing in the first half would be $66,416,550, which would leave $27,078,211, or a little over 5.3 per cent on the $508,000,000 common stock.

New York City's Funded Debt.

In the hearing relative to the finances of the City of New York it was developed from a statement prepared in the office of Controller Metz that the gross funded debt on June 30, 1908, was $785,985,126. Deducting the debt of counties exempted under the constitution and the sinking fund holdings left the net bonded debt on the date named $539,366,429.

This price is a quarter less than the last preceding quotation. The Chicago Railways participation certificates, series 1, sold up to 92 and Commonwealth Edison established a new high mark for itself at 107. Mining Broker Waives Examination.

Instead of making a fight for release at the hearing that was to have been held before United States Commissioner Williams at Los Angeles, Cal., yesterday, William S. Phillips, a Chicago broker, appeared and waived examination. He gave bonds for $25,000 for his appearance in Chicago Oct. 1. He was arrested on complaint of persons in Chicago who claim that he sold them worthless mining stocks.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

SOUTH SIDE FOR WHOLESALERS

Hoyt Company Buys Twenty-second Street Land on River.

DEAL IN FACTORY PROPERTY

Charles A. Birney Purchases Forty Acres in Lake Forest.

Emulating the example of Sprague, Warner & Co., Montgomery Ward & Co. and the Steele-Wedeles company, another big wholesale concern, the W. M. Hoyt company, grocers, is to move from the central district to an outside location. Unlike the concerns mentioned, however, they are not going into the north branch district but at Twenty-second street and the south branch of the river, and this constitutes one of the most interesting features of the transaction, as it is the first of the big downtown concerns to seek a location in this district. It is certain to attract much attention in real estate circles.

The company has just concluded the purchase from the Seaverns Elevator company of a tract of 97,000 square feet at the southwest corner of Grove and Twenty-second streets, extending 297 feet on the latter to the river, on which it has a frontage of 350 feet.

Purchase Price Is $150,000.

The price paid was $150,000 cash, which makes the sale at the rate of about $1.55 a square foot. The property is known as the old Alton A elevator property and is vacant, the elevator having been torn down several years ago. White & Tabor negotiated the deal.

The Hoyt company, which now is at 1 Michigan avenue and also occupies and owns 6-8 River street, has occupied the present location about forty years. Its purpose in moving was to obtain direct rail and water facilities and thus do away largely with cartage charges. While they have not decided definitely on the character of the building they will construct, they are said to be considering at present a two story reinforced concrete building covering the entire lot, with foundations and walls for additional stories.

Deal in Manufacturing Property.

A sale of manufacturing property involving approximately $100,000 has just been closed wherein Charles H. Wacker has sold to the H. P. Nelson company, manufacturers of pianos, nearly the entire block bounded by Kedzie, Chicago, and Sawyer avenues and the Milwaukee and St. Paul tracks, together with improvements to be erected. These comprise a three story mill construction factory building containing 55,000 square feet of floor space, with power plant, dry kilns, etc. Nelson & Co. are now located at 1102-1108 Marianna street and employ 150 men, and have outgrown their present quarters. The sale was negotiated by L. G. Varty, with H. O. Stone & Co.

Lake Forest Acres Sold.

An important deal in Lake Forest acres has been closed in the sale by Murray & Terry for Mrs. I. A. H. Prindle of Kirksville, Mo., to Charles A. Birney of forty acres in the north part of the town east of the railroad. The consideration is withheld, but it is said to be in excess of $3,000 an acre. It is one of the most attractive properties on the north shore and it is said to be Mr. Birney's purpose to erect a handsome residence for himself and generally beautify the property with the purpose of making it a high class country home.

Thomas E. Belding of Milwaukee has sold to Walter H. Krouskup the flat property at 1505-1507 Grace street, 50x174½ feet, for $19,500, subject to incumbrance of $9,000 assumed.

A transfer under the Torrens system recorded yesterday comprises the flat property at the northeast corner of Irving Park boulevard and North Forty-second court, 105x133 feet, which was sold by Bertha J. and Arthur D. Cardts to John M. Hoffman for $40,000, with incumbrance of $20,800.

BOGUS EXPRESS PACKAGES DELIVERED BY SWINDLERS.

Police Are Asked to Capture Young Men Who Have Defrauded Many Persons in All Parts of the City.

Inspector E. B. Eddy of the United States Express company, has asked the police to try to capture a gang of swindlers who for a month have swindled scores of persons by means of a "worthless package" game.

According to Inspector Eddy, a young man dressed in a uniform calls at a house and says he has an express package for a neighbor who is not at home. He obtains from 50 cents to $1.50 as charges on the package, which on being opened is found to contain a bundle of straw.

L. Uller, 223 Homan avenue, reported yesterday that one of the men obtained 55 cents from him. The swindle has been worked by several young men in various parts of the city.

"FREE THINKERS" NOT GUILTY.

Failure to Introduce Girl as His Wife Saves Morris Miller and Mamie Barnett.

Morris Miller and Mamie Barnett, 18 years old, "free thinkers," were discharged by Municipal Judge Crowe in the Criminal court yesterday, having been accused of living together as man and wife.

Attorney B. H. Thomas argued that his client, Miller, was not guilty, inasmuch as he had never introduced Miss Barnett as his wife, and was sustained.

Meantime, the young woman's parents sought to have Miller arrested on another charge, but before this could be done he had been released by the court and left the building.

Miss Barnett said Miller's persuasive arguments on "free love" converted her and they went to live at 623 Grand avenue. Several persons, who had known the couple, admitted that Miller had never introduced the girl as his wife.

OWN TREATMENT FOR LAGORIO.

Head of Pasteur Institute, Innoculated with Hydrophobia Germs, Expects to Prevent Disease.

Dr. A. Lagorio, who is at the head of the Pasteur institute, 228 Dearborn avenue, has been inoculated with hydrophobia germs and is taking his own treatment to ward off an attack of the disease.

Two days ago, while the doctor was experimenting with a guinea pig that he was dissecting, after having inoculated it with the germs of rabies, he ran a sharp sliver of bone under his finger nail. It penetrated some distance and made a painful wound.

"I am not alarmed," said the doctor last night. "I am confident that the treatment will ward off the disease."

It was in experimenting with an eight days' rabies culture that the accidental innoculation occurred.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF CAPTURED

Chicago Fugitive Who Once Escaped by Leaping from Train Arrested in Oregon.

Capt. P. D. O'Brien of the detective bureau yesterday received a telegram from Portland, Ore., telling of the arrest of Earnest Diebler, wanted for stealing an automobile valued at $3,000 from the Haynes Automobile company, 1702 Michigan avenue, some time ago.

The Portland authorities will not surrender Diebler to the Chicago police. He will be prosecuted for an offense in the Oregon city and his arraignment probably will occur tomorrow.

The man has been arrested twice before and both times escaped, once by leaping from a train in Montana.

D. R. Coover in Debtors' Court.

D. Radnor Coover, former owner of the Coover studio in the Schiller building, yesterday appeared before Judge Foster in the debtors' court and admitted his inability to meet a judgment against him of $28. The judgment was obtained by the Cramer Dry Plate company of St. Louis.

This is the largest automobile livery in the world. Has the best and newest cars; all kinds from taxicabs to theater buses and ambulances. Special rates on touring cars.

FIRE

The fire did not interrupt our service, as we had enough cars on the streets at the time of the fire and in our Michigan avenue store to satisfy all demands. We are pressing new and better cars into service every day, with new and better drivers.

Bonded Chauffeurs

Remember that we are the ONLY automobile livery company who furnishes bonded chauffeurs. We are the originators of this idea. Your life is safe in the hands of our drivers. Those who COULD NOT give bonds are driving for rival concerns. Since they left us our ACCIDENTS have DECREASED 100% and our BUSINESS has INCREASED 100%.

PLEA FOR HIGHER FREIGHT CHARGES

Campaign of Education Begun by Official of the New York Central Lines.

RATE PRIMER IS ISSUED.

Arguments for General Advance Given in Thirteen "Lessons" to Shippers.

Railroad officials who favor a general increase in freight rates have begun a campaign of education. Their first piece of campaign literature is a pamphlet called "The Freight Rate Primer," which was prepared by Warren J. Lynch, passenger traffic manager of the New York Central lines west of Buffalo.

The pamphlet, which was issued yesterday from Mr. Lynch's Chicago office, and will be distributed broadcast throughout the country, presents the arguments of the railroads to show that an advance in rates is necessary for the roads and will have no serious effects on the public. It confirms the statement recently made by W. C. Brown, senior vice president of the New York Central, that the railroads "will continue their campaign of education in the effort to further inform the public as to the momentous issues involved in the freight tariff problem, and thus prepare the people generally for careful and final consideration of the matter."

The primer contains several extracts from Mr. Brown's address before the Michigan Manufacturers' association, in which he argues that rates must be advanced if the roads are to continue paying present wages to their employés, while keeping up the necessary improvements on their properties.

Thirteen Lessons Are Given.

The pamphlet contains thirteen "lessons," each one representing a particular class of freight and showing by figures the cost, the freight rate, and the small increase in the price of a single article if the rate were advanced 10 per cent. Lesson 1, for example, is illustrated by a picture of twelve men in various walks of life. The lesson follows:

"These men all live in the Mississippi valley. Their clothes were made in New England. They paid the railroads 9 cents apiece for transporting their clothes, including hats and shoes, from point of manufacture to the Mississippi valley. The combined freight charges on all the clothes worn by all the men in the picture, including shoes and hats, was less than $1. If freight rates were advanced 10 per cent, the increased price to these men on their entire wearing apparel would be less than 1 cent each."

Similar lessons are given to show that the increase of 10 per cent in rates would mean only 17 cents on a harvester costing $130, 25 cents on a stove costing $60, and less than .05 of a cent on a pound of meat costing 25 cents.

Chairman Knapp Is Quoted.

A quotation from an article by Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission, which is used as an argument for an increase of rates, states that "the continued advancement of this great people depends primarily on such an increase in transportation facilities as will provide prompt and safe movement everywhere, and that we shall not secure unless the men who are relied upon to manage these great highways of commerce have fitting opportunity, and the capital which is required for their needful expansion is permitted to realize fairly liberal returns."

Lesson No. 13, which is the final plea for an advance in rates, says:

"A readjustment of freight rates, involving a reasonable increase applied to such articles and commodities as can stand it, without any appreciable hardship either to manufacturer, merchant, or consumer, means the difference between grinding economy and a fair degree of prosperity.

"It means the difference between closed shops and suspended improvements and the resumption of improvements with the ability to resume the large purchases of material and equipment, giving full employment to labor and furnishing improved transportation facilities, which, within a short time, the commerce of the country is going to demand more insistently than ever. To hundreds of thousands of workingmen it means the difference between steady, well paid employment and walking the streets looking in vain for work."

Increase of Coal Shipments.

Pennsylvania railroad officials report a rapidly increasing coal traffic to the southwest and southeast, especially on the line of the Norfolk and Western. The demand for coal in the last few days has assumed such proportions that tracers have been sent out for the coal cars, and in many cases cars not built especially for the coal traffic have been picked up and impressed into the service.

The Pullman company recently sent checks amounting in all to $175,000, representing an extra month's pay to 1,153 conductors and 2,617 porters, "as an expression of appreciation for faithful service and courtesy to the traveling public."

PRODS COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Texas Railroad Body in Plea for Relief from High Rates Intimates That Game Is Political.

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Responding to inquiries made about the high freight to Texas from northern and eastern points, the Texas railroad commission today scored the interstate commerce commission, intimating that the interstate commission is playing politics. The Texas commission says:

"We should dislike to think that this question could assume a political aspect, but it is a significant coincidence that freight rates have been increased to the southwest and the southeast, but to no other section of the union. Freight rates to Texas are higher than they have been for twenty years, and it seems to us that we of this section have been hewers of the wood and payers of extortionate freight rates long enough."

The commission then refers to its protest to the interstate commission against the further increase of rates to Texas.

ROAD FIGHTS COMMERCE BOARD

Baltimore and Ohio Calls Order Requiring Lines to Report Violations of La Follette Law Illegal.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 21.—Declaring that the interstate commerce commission's order requiring railroads to report violations of the so-called La Follette law regulating the hours of labor of railway employés is unconstitutional, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad today filed a bill in the United States Circuit court asking that the order be temporarily suspended until a hearing can be had in court on the point. It is charged that the passage of this order was simply to get evidence of violations so that suits to recover the penalty of $500 for each violation might be instituted and that the commission refused to grant the railroads a hearing so that they might register a protest against the law.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 4.—Pro
